Allies Open Attack On 25-Mile Front

Punch Aimed At Reds North Of Hoengsong

Other U. N. Troops Push Across Han

TOKYO, Thursday, March 1 (AP)—U. S. Marines led a powerful attack today by Allied troops and planes along a 25-mile front in Central Korea against the heart of Chinese Red defenses.

Simultaneously, U. S. Third Division infantrymen on the western front crossed the Han River in assault boats and attacked a two-mile-long sand island southeast of Red-held Seoul.

Both actions met fierce enemy resistance.

Primary purpose of the big central front assault: Make the Chinese either stand and fight or withdraw from the one sector best suited for any enemy counter-offensive.

Purpose of the Third Division action was: Get troops across the southern loop of the Han; establish a bridgehead; then move tanks across the shallow northern loop of the river into flatland southeast of Seoul.

Bitter Opposition

Third Division soldiers ran into hard-fighting Reds near Sinchon on the north side of the island and Chamsil near the southern shore.

The central front assault gained ground despite bitter opposition.

U. S. First Marine Division troops, spearheading the assault, quickly captured 600-foot "clover leaf hill," a strategic height in the Hoengsong area. A Marine spokesman said the attack was progressing on schedule.

The drive by American, British Commonwealth and South Korean troops was aimed at heavily-manned Communist mountain positions north of the road hub of Hoengsong, AP Correspondent Stan Swinton reported from U. S. Eighth Army headquarters.

The 25-mile attack front extended generally eastward from Hoengsong.

The new attack amounted to a westward swing of an Allied punch which earlier in the week crushed North Koreans around Pangnim, 24 miles southeast of Hoengsong.

East of Hoengsong the trackless mountains are unsuitable for any enemy counter-punch. In Western Korea, the flatlands around Red-held Seoul call for commitments of masses of men — easy to spot and slaughter with planes and artillery.

Planes Support Offensive

Clearing weather over the rain-soaked central front enabled swarms of planes to support the new Allied limited offensive.

Other primary aims of the new thrust were to cut enemy supply lines north of Hoengsong to two Chinese divisions and to imperil Hongchon. That Chinese assembly center is 15 air miles northwest of Hoengsong.

Hoengsong, a wrecked no-man's land, was not considered of any military value by the attacking Allies.

Brig. Gen. Lewis B. "Chesty" Puller's First Marine Division smashed into heavy enemy resistance at the outset of the attack.

The leathernecks, moving up both sides of the Twinnam River, struck toward a mountain pass. Through the pass, the main highway leads northwest from Hoengsong to Hongchon.

The Winnam winds just west of Hoengsong southward toward the Han River.

Probers Report Big Underground Could Wreck U.S.

Luciano Is Termed Crime Empire Czar

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP) — Mobsters are using fantastic crime and gambling profits to finance an underground government that could turn subversive and wreck the United States, the Senate Crime Committee reported today.

The crime investigators said the czar of a vast American underworld lives in Italy and is Charles "Lucky" Luciano, deported New York vice overlord. And there is evidence the Mafia, "Black Hand" Sicilian society, also operates here, the report said, and may be the "adhesive" holding gangs together.

Preliminary Report

The 35-page report is a preliminary one. But it said if Americans ever had any doubt that U. S. crime is organized, that doubt is now dispelled by facts the committee has uncovered "over ten months of the most intensive investigation of its kind ever attempted."

It estimated "conservatively" that $20,000,000,000 changes hands every year in organized illegal gambling.

It said the gangsters do not hesitate to use murder, bombing or any other form of violence to eliminate competition. And it said large sums in "ice" — protection money — are used to buy off local and federal officials.

The report added that there is evidence of corruption and connivance at all levels of government. It said bribes, political pressure and threats are used to gain protection.

The committee said it is an inescapable conclusion that an underworld government exists, controlled by the mobsters.

Enforces Its Own Laws

"This phantom government enforces its own law, carries out its own executions and not only ignores but abhors the democratic processes of justice which are held to be the safeguards of the American citizen," the report said.

It added that if not curbed this underworld could become the basis for a subversive movement "which could wreck the very foundations of this country." It said the confidence of millions of citizens in the ability of its government to protect them has already been undermined and many are "ripe for an approach to do the bidding of anyone willing to pay the price."

Russia Cuts Prices Of Food, Other Goods Up To 20%

MOSCOW, Feb. 28 (AP)—The Soviet government announced tonight retail price cuts ranging from 10 to 20 per cent on a list of consumer goods, including bread and meat.

The announcement said Soviet purchasers will save 27,500,000,000 rubles a year on purchases in state stores as a result of the new cuts and the state revenue thus would lose that amount.

"The socialist state is making this sacrifice for the sake of steadily improving the well-being of the people," the announcement said.

This is the fourth such price cut announced in three years. The announcement said the cuts were decided upon by the Soviet government, the Council of Ministers and the Communist Party Central Committee "in connection with the new successess achieved in 1950 in the development of industry and agriculture, in raising labor productivity and lowering production costs."

Prices in restaurants, dining rooms, cafes and similar catering establishments will be reduced in line with the new cuts.

On this same date last year the Soviet Union announced that the ruble was revalued so that its value in terms of gold was the equivalent of 25 American cents. Previously it had been 19 cents. At the same time last year prices were cut from eight to 50 per cent on a list of consumer goods. The year before, in February and in April, 1948, there were other cuts in consumer goods prices.

OPS Director Of Enforcement Orders Probe Of Meat Prices

Will Determine Whether Wholesalers And Packers Complying With Ceilings

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP) — The Office of Price Stabilization tonight threw "all available enforcement manpower" into a nationwide investigation of meat prices to see whether packers and wholesalers are complying with price ceilings.

Edward P. Morgan, the OPS director of enforcement, who ordered the investigation, announced that the agency has received complaints from a "substantial portion" of the meat industry, consisting chiefly of wholesalers, jobbers and non-slaughtering processors.

According to Morgan, the companies have complained that they are being compelled to pay prices from three to five cents a pound higher than those which they paid during the "base period," Dec. 19 through Jan. 25, while their own selling prices have remained frozen at their "base period" levels.

Livestock Ceilings Due

Morgan's announcement came on a day when the Office of Price Stabilization already had announced that "it won't be many days" until price ceilings are ordered on livestock.

How many days, the agency wouldn't predict. An OPS spokesman said the job of fixing livestock ceilings is "tremendously complicated."

Meat is under price controls, but live animals aren't. Slaughterers have been complaining that rising prices for live animals have caught them in a squeeze.

Morgan ordered an "immediate" and "concentrated" effort to uncover any violations that may exist among packers, or wholesalers.

It was the first major investigation to be launched by the OPS, although spot checks have been made here and there.

More Investigators Hired

OPS officials could not say how many investigators now are on the OPS payroll but they said all of the 14 regional offices and 63 district offices have "at least some" enforcement personnel and that investigators are being hired as fast as possible.

An OPS spokesman, when asked whether the term "black market" is justified in connection with the investigation, said he doubts whether the term would be strictly accurate at this stage. He said "a black market implies a knowledge on both sides that the sales are at illegal prices," but actually some people are uncertain as to just what meat ceilings are at present.

Soviet Yes Or No On Japan Sought

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP) — Ambassador John Foster Dulles said today the United States is making another effort to get Russia to go along on a prompt peace settlement with Japan.

If Moscow refuses, Dulles said, the U. S. and friendly governments will make separate settlements with the Japanese.

Dulles, who is President Truman's special treaty envoy, said he has asked for an early meeting with Jacob Malik, Soviet representative at the United Nations. He added he still hopes Russia will take part.

At a State Department news conference following his return from conferences with Japanese leaders, Dulles also:

1. Suggested that if Russia continues to hold back, the U. S. may refuse to recognize the Soviet occupation of the Kurile Islands and the southern half of Sakhalin north of Japan.

2. Charged that Russia, while occupying the Kuriles, has taken over the tiny Habomai island group off the shore of Japanese Hokkaido.

3. Said that present plans are to dispense with a full dress peace conference like the Versailles conference after World War I. Instead, Dulles said, there will be separate treaties between Japan and each of her former foes.

Denise Darcel Admits Marriage Is On Rocks

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 28 (AP)—Actress Denise Darcel, France's gift to the sweater brigade, confirmed today she is seeking legal separation from her wealthy husband, Peter Crosby.

"I guess maybe Peter is too busy, and I'm too busy. My career and my health are in danger," she said in an interview.

The well-rounded actress, currently singing at a Miami Beach night club, admitted that her marriage of less than five months reached a crisis last Saturday when Crosby poured a bottle of champagne over her head in a Manhattan night club.

Senators Scolded For Delaying Vote On Draft Measure

Angry Argument Remains Unsettled

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP)—The Senate quit in a huff tonight after an angry and unsettled argument about when it should stop talking and start voting on the drafting of 18-year-olds and other features of the universal military service and training bill.

Democratic Leader McFarland of Arizona scolded senators of both parties for not staying on the Senate floor to debate and vote on the measure.

"We ought to have passed this bill in two days," McFarland boomed. "It's emergency legislation."

Only a few senators have listened during the two days of debate, and only one major speech—by Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) — was made today.

Irritated By Morse's Offer

At one point McFarland shouted that American soldiers fighting in Korea "are not waiting for a unanimous consent agreement" before they go into action. He was trying to get such an agreement to vote.

The Democratic leader seemed irritated at an offer by Sen. Morse (R-Ore), acting as Republican leader, to reach a final vote on the bill and all its amendments by next Wednesday.

After offering numerous major amendments to the bill, Morse forced a series of delaying quorum calls. Once it was necessary to send the Senate sergeant-at-arms out to round up absent senators in order to get the 49 required to conduct business.

Smiling broadly, Morse disclosed it was McFarland who had first proposed an agreement to vote, mentioning next Tuesday. He said if McFarland was trying to leave the blame for any delay on Morse's doorstep, "I'll kick it off right now."

More Guard Units Face Call

Morse predicted that McFarland's refusal to allow the extra day, from next Tuesday to Wednesday, probably would act to delay the vote beyond then.

During a House hearing on the UMTS bill today, Gen. Lawton Collins, Army Chief of Staff, said two more National Guard divisions conceivably may have to be called into service this year.

Six divisions of the National Guard already are training in active service. Two of them, the 40th of California and the 45th of Oklahoma, leave for Japan next month for occupation and defense duties.

Clay Urges Full Speed On Europe Defense Buildup

Opposes Limitations On Troop Transfer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP) — Gen. Lucius D. Clay said today that if full speed ahead is maintained in building up Western European defenses he's convinced that within a year Russian aggression will "seem unprofitable."

To help build those defenses, Clay said, American troops must be sent abroad without any limitations placed on how many may go.

Clay, now retired from the Army and an assistant to Mobilization Chief Charles E. Wilson, is a former governor of the U. S. zone in Germany. In this job, he bumped into the Russian problem almost daily.

Clay testified before the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees. These committees are considering a resolution by the Senate Republican leader, Wherry of Nebraska, which opposes sending U. S. troops to Europe until Congress has fixed a policy.

Clay was the last witness. The committees go into executive sessions tomorrow to decide what is to be done.

In his testimony, Clay came to a conclusion almost exactly opposite that reached by former President Hoover, who appeared here yesterday.

"No Flying" Sign Out

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP) — Flying over the Nevada testing ground for atomic weapons was forbidden today in an executive order signed by President Truman.

Killing Bureaucrat Over Washington Would Be "Legal"

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP) —A flighty but entirely legal way to kill a bureaucrat was described to the House today by Rep. Keating (R-NY).

"If any member of Congress gets an urge to kill a bureaucrat, or vice versa, he can do so with impunity by taking him up in an airplane over Washington and doing the foul deed there," he said.

Under present laws, the government has no jurisdiction over the air space above the District of Columbia or other federal reservations, Keating said. He introduced legislation to assert that right.

French Cabinet Resigns, Causing Political Crisis

PARIS, Feb. 28 (AP) — The coalition government of Premier Rene Pleven, which has steered France through the first stages of rearming for western defense, resigned tonight because of a deadlock in Parliament over changes in the French election law, a domestic political issue.

The cabinet had been in office 10 days short of eight months. It was France's 16th since the liberation of this nation from the Germans.

President Vincent Auriol reluctantly accepted the resignation after refusing it twice previously within 24 hours. He summoned political leaders promptly for talks on the choice of a successor to Pleven.

Auriol is a Socialist. Pleven, a Breton businessman in private life, is a member of a small splinter group, the Democratic Socialist Union of the Resistance, which is allied with the Moderate Radical Socialists. He formerly was defense minister.

The crisis broke at a critical time for France, the key European country in defense plans of the North Atlantic alliance. She is preparing for a possible Big Four deputies meeting in Paris to open the way for a conference of United States, British, French and Russian foreign ministers on East-West problems.

Auriol is getting ready to leave March 20 for the United States for a state visit to President Truman in a demonstration of American-French friendship. Pleven conferred with President Truman in Washington last month on Atlantic defense questions and flew later to Ottawa for similar talks. On Pleven's return, parliament indorsed his actions, 401 to 172.

Theft Not So Petty

MONTREAL, Feb. 28 (AP) —Antonio Beaudet landed in court today accused of stealing a five-cent newspaper.

Complainant Peter Carol said the alleged theft was not as petty as it might sound. He accused Beaudet of having stolen a five-cent paper from his restaurant every morning since 1944.

Senator Terms Election Probe 'Silly Business'

Baltimore Printer Is Cross-Examined

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP)—A Republican called a Senate investigation of the Maryland senatorial election "silly business" today. Sen. Gillette (D-Ia.) replied that written charges had been filed and the Senate has a constitutional duty to investigate them.

Sen. Welker (R-Ida.) urged the Senate, in a speech, to halt "this whole silly business" as subcommittee members questioned a principal witness for the second day.

William H. Fedder, the witness, was cross-examined on his testimony yesterday that he was taken on a midnight ride and threatened with a "McCarthy investigation" unless he relinquished a letter. He said this letter was written by Sen. Butler, Republican winner of the Maryland contest. Butler defeated former Sen. Tydings, long time Democrat.

Fedder claimed the Butler letter guaranteed payment of bills Fedder expected to submit to Butler headquarters for campaign services. At the time he said he estimated the whole bill would be around $20,000 and he had collected about $8,000, leaving an expected balance of around $12,000 to be guaranteed.

Welker Assails Tydings

Tydings, now on a business trip, has told the committee "unadorned lies," "scurrilous literature" and a "faked" photograph were circulated in the Butler campaign.

Fedder repeated today that he distributed 169,00 copies of a tabloid "From The Record" attacking Tydings. He said he was paid $1,521 for ths job, which was door-to-door delivery. He testified he mailed 134,206 copies at a cost of $586. Tydings has called this tabloid a "tissue of lies".

In his Senate speech Welker called Tydings "the whitewash king" and said he was trying to "smear" Butler.

Grounds For Divorce

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Feb. 28 (AP) —She asked for money to buy groceries, so her husband jammed a 50-cent piece down her throat, a Weehawken woman testified in divorce court today.

Advisory Master David A. Pindar granted Mrs. Sarah Walsh Daly a divorce from the husband, Hubert, on grounds of extreme cruelty.

Moves Develop To Extend Md. Sales Tax, Withhold Income Tax At Source

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 28 (AP) — Moves to extend the sales tax and catch up on income tax evaders to raise more money for school teachers and state employes developed in the Legislature today.

Senate Majority Leader Goldstein (D-Calvert) said he would recommend a hike in the sales tax on several commodities to bring in enough money to give each school teacher a pay raise of at least $300 a year.

And a proposal to increase the revenues from the state income tax by withholding it at the source gained support in the House Ways and Means Committee.

Majority Leader Boone (D-Baltimore County), who is also chairman of the powerful Ways and Means group, estimated payroll deductions for state income taxes at the source would add some $4,000,000 to returns by snaring those who up to now have paid no tax.

Goldstein said $4,794,000 would be available for school teacher raises by these sales tax revisions:

1—Making the tax applicable to restaurant meals costing over $1.25, to bring in $547,000. All food sales are now exempt from the tax.

2—Placing the exemption base on sales of alcoholic beverages at 14 cents. The base is now 50 cents on all items. He estimated this would add $1,997,000 to annual sales tax revenues.

3—Making the tax applicable to sales of cigarets through vending machines, $1,500,000.

4—Imposing it on rentals of calculating machines, $500,000.

5—Instituting a companion use tax on machinery bought outside the state for use in Maryland, $500.

Delegates To Use Voting Machine

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 28 (AP) — Delegates today ordered an electric machine installed in the House to record their votes.

They adopted a resolution by nine members to set up an $86,000 push-button system next year. The committee had figured, among other things, it would encourage attendance at General Assembly sessions.

Boycott Of All Mobilization Units Ordered

Threat Of Future Strikes Is Raised

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP)—Top labor leaders tonight ordered a sweeping boycott of the home front control program, directing union men to "resign immediately" from every government mobilization agency.

The momentous decision dashed hopes that labor's three members will rejoin the dispute-torn Wage Stabilization Board, and indirectly raised the threat of future strikes in industry.

The United Labor Policy Committee—14 top officials of CIO, AFL and other major union groups—announced its unanimous decision after a 4½ hour session today.

Acknowledging "the gravity of this decision," the policy body charged anew that "big business" dominates the mobilization effort, that the several labor men in top federal jobs are used merely as "window dressing."

Wage Formula "Unfair"

Labor men accordingly are resigning from 24 advisory posts and other positions in the defense agencies, including the military, the committee announced. They include AFL President William Green and CIO President Philip Murray, who have advisory roles.

Explaining its action, the committee declared the new 10 per cent ceiling on wage increases is "unfair, unworkable and unjust." It was issued last night simultaneously, the labor heads said, with a price order under which "business is being allowed to write its own ceiling prices."

Labor will not resume its place on the wage board, the committee decreed, until the board is entirely "reconstituted."

The unionists, who have tried vainly to get manpower authority vested in Secretary of Labor Tobin instead of Charles E. Wilson, director of the Office of Defense Mobilization, went on:

"So long as the control of manpower rests in the ODM, no American wage or salary earner may feel safe that the big business clique in control of that agency may not suddenly seek to achieve a compulsory draft of the nation's workers."

Heat On Johnston

The labor policy group's action—a virtual declaration of war on the Truman administration's mobilization setup under Wilson—had these immediate effects:

1. The wage board, shorn of its labor representation, could not act immediately on liberalizations of the 10 per cent wage formula as recommended by Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston.

2. As a result, strike threats grew in key industries like autos and electrical products. Unless the changes are made, some workers will not get the full benefit of cost-of-living "escalator" clauses. Some contracts call for paycheck readjustments as of tomorrow.

3. The heat was turned on Stabilizer Johnston to order the revisions on his own responsibility. He has taken the stand that only a tripartite, labor-industry-public board should make such vital decisions.

4. In view of the vast breach disclosed between labor and ODM Chief Wilson, it became probable that President Truman might have to step in—and possibly order Wilson to reshape the mobilization high command.

Committee To Quiz Actor And Actress

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 28 (AP) — Actor Howard Da Silva and Actress Gale Sondergaard said today they have been served with subpoenaes to appear before the House Un-American Activities Committee in Washington March 21.

The committee has announced it is making another investigation into Communist influences in the movie capital.

600 Marines Due Home Next Week Under Rotation Plan

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 28 (INS) —The Marine Corps announced tonight that the first unwounded veterans of the Korean war to be returned to the United States under a new rotation program will arrive in San Francisco next Monday.

Six hundred leathernecks, selected because of length of time in combat, number of dependents and other factors, will dock aboard the military transport General Breckinridge March 5.

The announcement came from Maj. Gen. Graves B. Erskine, commanding general of the Marines' Department of the Pacific. It was the first indication that the rotation program, announced only four days ago, was already under way.

The Army has expressed the hope it too can get a rotation system started shortly.

Weather Forecast

Denise Darcel Admits Marriage Is On Rocks

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 28 (AP)—Actress Denise Darcel, France's gift to the sweater brigade, confirmed today she is seeking legal separation from her wealthy husband, Peter Crosby.

"I guess maybe Peter is too busy, and I'm too busy. My career and my health are in danger," she said in an interview.

The well-rounded actress, currently singing at a Miami Beach night club, admitted that her marriage of less than five months reached a crisis last Saturday when Crosby poured a bottle of champagne over her head in a Manhattan night club.

Senators Scolded For Delaying Vote On Draft Measure

Angry Argument Remains Unsettled

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP)—The Senate quit in a huff tonight after an angry and unsettled argument about when it should stop talking and start voting on the drafting of 18-year-olds and other features of the universal military service and training bill.

Democratic Leader McFarland of Arizona scolded senators of both parties for not staying on the Senate floor to debate and vote on the measure.

"We ought to have passed this bill in two days," McFarland boomed. "It's emergency legislation."

Only a few senators have listened during the two days of debate, and only one major speech—by Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) — was made today.

Irritated By Morse's Offer

At one point McFarland shouted that American soldiers fighting in Korea "are not waiting for a unanimous consent agreement" before they go into action. He was trying to get such an agreement to vote.

The Democratic leader seemed irritated at an offer by Sen. Morse (R-Ore), acting as Republican leader, to reach a final vote on the bill and all its amendments by next Wednesday.

After offering numerous major amendments to the bill, Morse forced a series of delaying quorum calls. Once it was necessary to send the Senate sergeant-at-arms out to round up absent senators in order to get the 49 required to conduct business.

Smiling broadly, Morse disclosed it was McFarland who had first proposed an agreement to vote, mentioning next Tuesday. He said if McFarland was trying to leave the blame for any delay on Morse's doorstep, "I'll kick it off right now."

More Guard Units Face Call

Morse predicted that McFarland's refusal to allow the extra day, from next Tuesday to Wednesday, probably would act to delay the vote beyond then.

During a House hearing on the UMTS bill today, Gen. Lawton Collins, Army Chief of Staff, said two more National Guard divisions conceivably may have to be called into service this year.

Six divisions of the National Guard already are training in active service. Two of them, the 40th of California and the 45th of Oklahoma, leave for Japan next month for occupation and defense duties.

Labor Leaders Talk Over Problems

James E. Carey (left), secretary-treasurer of the CIO; George M. Harrison (center), AFL vice president, and William Green, AFL president, talk over their problems as a three-hour session of the United Labor Policy Committee breaks up at Washington. The committee later ordered a sweeping boycott of the home front control program.

Clay Urges Full Speed On Europe Defense Buildup

Opposes Limitations On Troop Transfer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP) — Gen. Lucius D. Clay said today that if full speed ahead is maintained in building up Western European defenses he's convinced that within a year Russian aggression will "seem unprofitable."

To help build those defenses, Clay said, American troops must be sent abroad without any limitations placed on how many may go.

Clay, now retired from the Army and an assistant to Mobilization Chief Charles E. Wilson, is a former governor of the U. S. zone in Germany. In this job, he bumped into the Russian problem almost daily.

Clay testified before the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees. These committees are considering a resolution by the Senate Republican leader, Wherry of Nebraska, which opposes sending U. S. troops to Europe until Congress has fixed a policy.

Clay was the last witness. The committees go into executive sessions tomorrow to decide what is to be done.

In his testimony, Clay came to a conclusion almost exactly opposite that reached by former President Hoover, who appeared here yesterday.

"No Flying" Sign Out

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP) — Flying over the Nevada testing ground for atomic weapons was forbidden today in an executive order signed by President Truman.

Killing Bureaucrat Over Washington Would Be "Legal"

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP) —A flighty but entirely legal way to kill a bureaucrat was described to the House today by Rep. Keating (R-NY).

"If any member of Congress gets an urge to kill a bureaucrat, or vice versa, he can do so with impunity by taking him up in an airplane over Washington and doing the foul deed there," he said.

Under present laws, the government has no jurisdiction over the air space above the District of Columbia or other federal reservations, Keating said. He introduced legislation to assert that right.

French Cabinet Resigns, Causing Political Crisis

PARIS, Feb. 28 (AP) — The coalition government of Premier Rene Pleven, which has steered France through the first stages of rearming for western defense, resigned tonight because of a deadlock in Parliament over changes in the French election law, a domestic political issue.

The cabinet had been in office 10 days short of eight months. It was France's 16th since the liberation of this nation from the Germans.

President Vincent Auriol reluctantly accepted the resignation after refusing it twice previously within 24 hours. He summoned political leaders promptly for talks on the choice of a successor to Pleven.

Auriol is a Socialist. Pleven, a Breton businessman in private life, is a member of a small splinter group, the Democratic Socialist Union of the Resistance, which is allied with the Moderate Radical Socialists. He formerly was defense minister.

The crisis broke at a critical time for France, the key European country in defense plans of the North Atlantic alliance. She is preparing for a possible Big Four deputies meeting in Paris to open the way for a conference of United States, British, French and Russian foreign ministers on East-West problems.

Auriol is getting ready to leave March 20 for the United States for a state visit to President Truman in a demonstration of American-French friendship. Pleven conferred with President Truman in Washington last month on Atlantic defense questions and flew later to Ottawa for similar talks. On Pleven's return, parliament indorsed his actions, 401 to 172.

Theft Not So Petty

MONTREAL, Feb. 28 (AP) —Antonio Beaudet landed in court today accused of stealing a five-cent newspaper.

Complainant Peter Carol said the alleged theft was not as petty as it might sound. He accused Beaudet of having stolen a five-cent paper from his restaurant every morning since 1944.

Senator Terms Election Probe 'Silly Business'

Baltimore Printer Is Cross-Examined

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP)—A Republican called a Senate investigation of the Maryland senatorial election "silly business" today. Sen. Gillette (D-Ia.) replied that written charges had been filed and the Senate has a constitutional duty to investigate them.

Sen. Welker (R-Ida.) urged the Senate, in a speech, to halt "this whole silly business" as subcommittee members questioned a principal witness for the second day.

William H. Fedder, the witness, was cross-examined on his testimony yesterday that he was taken on a midnight ride and threatened with a "McCarthy investigation" unless he relinquished a letter. He said this letter was written by Sen. Butler, Republican winner of the Maryland contest. Butler defeated former Sen. Tydings, long time Democrat.

Fedder claimed the Butler letter guaranteed payment of bills Fedder expected to submit to Butler headquarters for campaign services. At the time he said he estimated the whole bill would be around $20,000 and he had collected about $8,000, leaving an expected balance of around $12,000 to be guaranteed.

Welker Assails Tydings

Tydings, now on a business trip, has told the committee "unadorned lies," "scurrilous literature" and a "faked" photograph were circulated in the Butler campaign.

Fedder repeated today that he distributed 169,00 copies of a tabloid "From The Record" attacking Tydings. He said he was paid $1,521 for ths job, which was door-to-door delivery. He testified he mailed 134,206 copies at a cost of $586. Tydings has called this tabloid a "tissue of lies".

In his Senate speech Welker called Tydings "the whitewash king" and said he was trying to "smear" Butler.

Grounds For Divorce

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Feb. 28 (AP) —She asked for money to buy groceries, so her husband jammed a 50-cent piece down her throat, a Weehawken woman testified in divorce court today.

Advisory Master David A. Pindar granted Mrs. Sarah Walsh Daly a divorce from the husband, Hubert, on grounds of extreme cruelty.

Boycott Of All Mobilization Units Ordered

Threat Of Future Strikes Is Raised

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP)—Top labor leaders tonight ordered a sweeping boycott of the home front control program, directing union men to "resign immediately" from every government mobilization agency.

The momentous decision dashed hopes that labor's three members will rejoin the dispute-torn Wage Stabilization Board, and indirectly raised the threat of future strikes in industry.

The United Labor Policy Committee—14 top officials of CIO, AFL and other major union groups—announced its unanimous decision after a 4½ hour session today.

Acknowledging "the gravity of this decision," the policy body charged anew that "big business" dominates the mobilization effort, that the several labor men in top federal jobs are used merely as "window dressing."

Wage Formula "Unfair"

Labor men accordingly are resigning from 24 advisory posts and other positions in the defense agencies, including the military, the committee announced. They include AFL President William Green and CIO President Philip Murray, who have advisory roles.

Explaining its action, the committee declared the new 10 per cent ceiling on wage increases is "unfair, unworkable and unjust." It was issued last night simultaneously, the labor heads said, with a price order under which "business is being allowed to write its own ceiling prices."

Labor will not resume its place on the wage board, the committee decreed, until the board is entirely "reconstituted."

The unionists, who have tried vainly to get manpower authority vested in Secretary of Labor Tobin instead of Charles E. Wilson, director of the Office of Defense Mobilization, went on:

"So long as the control of manpower rests in the ODM, no American wage or salary earner may feel safe that the big business clique in control of that agency may not suddenly seek to achieve a compulsory draft of the nation's workers."

Heat On Johnston

The labor policy group's action—a virtual declaration of war on the Truman administration's mobilization setup under Wilson—had these immediate effects:

1. The wage board, shorn of its labor representation, could not act immediately on liberalizations of the 10 per cent wage formula as recommended by Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston.

2. As a result, strike threats grew in key industries like autos and electrical products. Unless the changes are made, some workers will not get the full benefit of cost-of-living "escalator" clauses. Some contracts call for paycheck readjustments as of tomorrow.

3. The heat was turned on Stabilizer Johnston to order the revisions on his own responsibility. He has taken the stand that only a tripartite, labor-industry-public board should make such vital decisions.

4. In view of the vast breach disclosed between labor and ODM Chief Wilson, it became probable that President Truman might have to step in—and possibly order Wilson to reshape the mobilization high command.

Committee To Quiz Actor And Actress

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 28 (AP) — Actor Howard Da Silva and Actress Gale Sondergaard said today they have been served with subpoenaes to appear before the House Un-American Activities Committee in Washington March 21.

The committee has announced it is making another investigation into Communist influences in the movie capital.

Moves Develop To Extend Md. Sales Tax, Withhold Income Tax At Source

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 28 (AP) — Moves to extend the sales tax and catch up on income tax evaders to raise more money for school teachers and state employes developed in the Legislature today.

Senate Majority Leader Goldstein (D-Calvert) said he would recommend a hike in the sales tax on several commodities to bring in enough money to give each school teacher a pay raise of at least $300 a year.

And a proposal to increase the revenues from the state income tax by withholding it at the source gained support in the House Ways and Means Committee.

Majority Leader Boone (D-Baltimore County), who is also chairman of the powerful Ways and Means group, estimated payroll deductions for state income taxes at the source would add some $4,000,000 to returns by snaring those who up to now have paid no tax.

Goldstein said $4,794,000 would be available for school teacher raises by these sales tax revisions:

1—Making the tax applicable to restaurant meals costing over $1.25, to bring in $547,000. All food sales are now exempt from the tax.

2—Placing the exemption base on sales of alcoholic beverages at 14 cents. The base is now 50 cents on all items. He estimated this would add $1,997,000 to annual sales tax revenues.

3—Making the tax applicable to sales of cigarets through vending machines, $1,500,000.

4—Imposing it on rentals of calculating machines, $500,000.

5—Instituting a companion use tax on machinery bought outside the state for use in Maryland, $500.

Delegates To Use Voting Machine

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 28 (AP) — Delegates today ordered an electric machine installed in the House to record their votes.

They adopted a resolution by nine members to set up an $86,000 push-button system next year. The committee had figured, among other things, it would encourage attendance at General Assembly sessions.

600 Marines Due Home Next Week Under Rotation Plan

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 28 (INS) —The Marine Corps announced tonight that the first unwounded veterans of the Korean war to be returned to the United States under a new rotation program will arrive in San Francisco next Monday.

Six hundred leathernecks, selected because of length of time in combat, number of dependents and other factors, will dock aboard the military transport General Breckinridge March 5.

The announcement came from Maj. Gen. Graves B. Erskine, commanding general of the Marines' Department of the Pacific. It was the first indication that the rotation program, announced only four days ago, was already under way.

The Army has expressed the hope it too can get a rotation system started shortly.

President Has Legal Right To Run For Senate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP) — Congressional experts gave an off-the-cuff opinion today that President Truman has a legal right to run for his old Senate seat in 1952 if he wishes—even thought he'll still be President then.

They dug into the question after rumors cropped out that Mr. Truman would like to return to the Senate at the end of his present term.

So far as they can find, the President would be shattering precedent—but he would be acting within his legal rights to run for the Senate before giving up the presidency.

These experts—who work with members of Congress—asked that their names not be used. But they noted that Warren G. Harding ran for the presidency while still a member of the Senate. Harding won the election in 1920 and resigned from the Senate to enter the White House.

Why, the experts ask, couldn't this situation be reversed?

Two presidents have left the chief executive's office and later returned to Congress. But neither of them ran for office while still president.

John Quincy Adams was elected president by a vote of the House in 1824. He failed to win re-election in 1828—but he came back to Congress in 1831 and served eight terms.

Then, Andrew Johnson went into the White House after the assassination of President Lincoln. He was beaten for the nomination at the next GOP convention but he was elected to the Senate in 1875.

Nurses Testify At Collazo Trial

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP)—A hospital nurse testified today that Oscar Collazo told her he wanted to kill President Truman when he and a companion attempted to storm Blair House last Nov. 1.

Another nurse said Collazo told her "he had been in a shooting—that he had to do shooting for political reasons."

Middle-aged Mrs. Gertrude Buxbaum, the first of the two Emergency Hospital nurses to take the witness stand, also told a federal court jury trying Collazo for his life that the little Puerto Rican Nationalist was "very calm" when taken to the hospital shortly after the shooting. He had been wounded.

The testimony that Collazo said he "had to do a shooting for political reasons" came from Mrs. Mildred Caulfield, supervisor of the hospital's emergency room.

Mrs. Buxbaum testified she asked Collazo whether he wanted to kill the President.

"He said 'yes'," she testified. She asked him why, Mrs. Buxbaum added, and Collazo said "he had to because he was a Puerto Rican Nationalist and wanted his country to be free the same as this country. He said we did the same thing to the British."

Giant Jet Bomber Leaves Honolulu

HONOLULU, Feb. 28 (AP)—The U. S. Air Force's giant six-jet B-47 bomber left Hickam Field at 8:38 a. m. (1:38 p. m., EST) today, destination unannounced.

The big Boeing Stratojet—big as a Superfortress and as fast as a fighter plane—roared low over Honolulu and disappeared to the east.

As was the case when the bomber arrived here Feb. 22, the Air Force kept silent as to the plane's movement.

Civilian observers said when the plane arrived last week that it probably had set a new record of less than six hours for the mainland-to-Hawaii crossing.

The league then protested to the United Nations.

Dead Man's Kidney Saving Woman's Life

GLENDALE, Calif., Feb. 28 (AP) — A kidney taken from a dead man's body and connected to arteries and veins of a sick woman's arm is doing its job of eliminating waste from her blood stream, a doctor said today.

Howard Merrill, osteopathic surgeon at Monte Sano Hospital, said his patient, comatose before the delicate operation yesterday, asked for food today and was able to recognize her daughter.

Nurses Testify At Collazo Trial

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP)—A hospital nurse testified today that Oscar Collazo told her he wanted to kill President Truman when he and a companion attempted to storm Blair House last Nov. 1.

Another nurse said Collazo told her "he had been in a shooting—that he had to do shooting for political reasons."

Middle-aged Mrs. Gertrude Buxbaum, the first of the two Emergency Hospital nurses to take the witness stand, also told a federal court jury trying Collazo for his life that the little Puerto Rican Nationalist was "very calm" when taken to the hospital shortly after the shooting. He had been wounded.

The testimony that Collazo said he "had to do a shooting for political reasons" came from Mrs. Mildred Caulfield, supervisor of the hospital's emergency room.

Mrs. Buxbaum testified she asked Collazo whether he wanted to kill the President.

"He said 'yes'," she testified. She asked him why, Mrs. Buxbaum added, and Collazo said "he had to because he was a Puerto Rican Nationalist and wanted his country to be free the same as this country. He said we did the same thing to the British."

Giant Jet Bomber Leaves Honolulu

HONOLULU, Feb. 28 (AP)—The U. S. Air Force's giant six-jet B-47 bomber left Hickam Field at 8:38 a. m. (1:38 p. m., EST) today, destination unannounced.

The big Boeing Stratojet—big as a Superfortress and as fast as a fighter plane—roared low over Honolulu and disappeared to the east.

As was the case when the bomber arrived here Feb. 22, the Air Force kept silent as to the plane's movement.

Civilian observers said when the plane arrived last week that it probably had set a new record of less than six hours for the mainland-to-Hawaii crossing.

Ban On Red Cross Emblem Is Lifted

GENEVA, Feb. 28 (AP) — The League of Red Cross Societies said today the ban imposed by Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters on wearing of the Red Cross emblem in Korea has been lifted.

The league has recruited medical welfare teams from Canada, Denmark, Great Britain and the United States, at the request of the United Nations, for work among the civilian population of Korea. When members of the teams reached Tokyo they were informed they would not be permitted to wear their Red Cross emblems.

The league then protested to the United Nations.

City Recreation Department Issues Call For Workers

The Recreation Department issued its first call yesterday for playground and pool workers for the summer season.

Edmund F. Hoey, recreation director, emphasized that previous playground workers must also make new applications for jobs.

Interviews will be conducted by the Recreation Board and there is a possibility the Civil Service Commission may be asked to hold examinations, Hoey said.

Approximately 25 playground workers and 10 pool workers will be employed, the director added.

This represents a cut in the number of Recreation Department employes during the summer in a move to save money, Hoey said.

A call was made for a playground director and a new position, junior recreation assistant.

The playground director would have full charge of a playground's program, personnel, administration, maintenance of facilities and neighborhood relations.

His qualifications should include sufficient skill in and appreciation of all activities conducted at a playground to develop a well-balanced program; a practical knowledge of leagues, games, tournaments, exhibits, demonstrations and entertainments and a skill in at least one of the following: athletics, dramatics, story-telling, organized games, social recreation, informal discussion, nature study, folk dancing, music, handicraft and ability to work intelligently with parents and neighborhood leaders. Knowledge of first aid is also considered a qualification.

At least two years' experience as a playground or playfield director or assistant, recreation leader, specialist, teacher or worker in a closely-allied field, at least one year

Helping The Rebels

If revolt has broken out in Red China, as has been reported by various sources, it is to be hoped it is genuine, important and infectious. But at the same time it is necessary that Americans be prepared for disappointment and to recognize the difficulties involved in trying to help the Chinese people throw off Communist rule.

A Peiping announcement refers to thousands of "cadres," which is the regime's term for political workers, being killed—more than 3,000 in Kwangsi alone. The announcement says that sabotage and other kinds of subversive activities have increased. In many cases railways and bridges have been destroyed, factories and mines damaged, warehouses set afire.

The Peiping announcement confirms reports of guerilla warfare by pro-Nationalist groups that are said to number hundreds of thousands of armed men.

But these admissions were made in extending the death penalty to a long list of "counter-revolutionary offenses" committed by "those who work with imperialism against the fatherland." For instance, those who harbor and protect counter-revolutionaries can now be put to death. So can persons found guilty of stirring up disunity, disturbing financial markets, and inciting resistance to army and labor service orders or even tax collection.

The new decree is so broad that the regime can now put out of the way anybody who makes trouble. Another purge is certainly coming, whether the revolution is real or not. The Chinese Communists are following a familiar pattern and they have now reached the point where they are ready to tighten their deadly grip still further.

There is no doubt this move has been forced by what has happened in Korea. Arthur Moore, a British journalist in India who has just spent a month at Peiping for a New Delhi paper, writes that the war in Korea "is already somewhat of a surprise" to the Chinese Reds. He adds: "The casualties are much greater than they expected. The hospitals in Manchuria are unequal to the influx and hospitals in Peiping are heavily denuded of nurses, as they have gone to the front." He refers also to the problem of supply, which is difficult because gasoline is short.

If there is an incipient revolution in China, General MacArthur is helping it along in Korea.

Three-Cent Letter Mail

One thing at least doesn't cost any more today than it did a century ago—letter mail. One hundred years ago this coming Saturday, Congress fixed three cents as the cost of sending a letter up to 3,000 miles. It was three cents for one-half ounce in 1851 as compared to one ounce today.

Almost 70 years ago, in 1883, the letter rate was reduced to two cents. It went up to three cents for a time during World War I, then reverted to two cents, went to the present three-cents charge during the depression of 1932. For about ten years, however, the rate was two cents for local letters—that is, those for delivery within the area served by the post office of mailing.

Letter ("first-class") mail, accounting for about 45 per cent of all postal receipts, is the only category of mail matter that shows a profit in the Post Office Department's financial breakdown. The Administration is again urging Congress to raise rates other than those for letters, so as to meet 70 per cent of the postal deficit estimated at $521,000,000 in 1951-52.

The pre-1851 letter rates seem utterly fantastic today. In 1789 the charge was determined by distance, with weight disregarded—7.4 cents up to 60 miles, 11.1 cents for 60-100 miles, 14.8 cents for 100-200 miles, 3.4 cents for each additional 100 miles. It cost 59 cents to send a letter from Boston to New Orleans.

There was no delivery service at first, but in 1794 one was set up at two cents the letter. In 1810 the rates were sharply reduced to a maximum of 25 cents, but were still graded only by distance; in 1845 weight as well as distance was taken into account for the still lower rates then in effect.

Atom Propulsion

Newsmen who were on the spot following a briefing last week of the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy by AEC experts said there was quiet jubilation all over the place. The reason was that work on an atomic propulsion plant for one of the Navy's submarines was getting along much better than expected.

A bit more was added to what little was known of the project by a speech at Rochester, N. Y., by AEC Commissioner Sumner T. Pike. Briefly, he said the design for two "practical, though expensive" propulsion units is almost completed and one of them is partially built. He added it shouldn't be too many years before one or both of them should be operating in a submarine.

While atomic power in a submarine is a strictly military development, it follows that atomic power automatically becomes a possibility for surface ships, and for peacetime applications.

But think of a submarine, or any ship, being able to cruise endlessly and at will uninhibited by such vital considerations as fuel supplies! A helpful scientist has figured out that a teaspoonful of atomic substance will be the equivalent of several million times the same amount of ordinary propulsion fuel.

Add to this the fact that the portable atomic pile may be self-regenerating. Man has come in sight of the ultimate: Harnessed perpetual motion!

Defense And Socialism

Taxpayers should keep their eyes peeled for any attempt by the Administration to make the defense program the means of political promotion. The nation should not be called upon to swallow political nostrums offered in the name of national defense when they can have no bearing on the objective sought.

Having failed in the past to put across such fair-deal schemes as socialized medicine, and others, the Administration is just slick enough to revive the demand in the name of national welfare in time of war.

As burdensome as increased taxes will prove to be, the people will pay them so long as they are in behalf of national defense and preparedness. But the taxpayers are in no mood to further finance national socialism at a time when their dollars are needed for more important matters.

To paraphrase an old challenge: "Millions for defense but not one cent for socialism."

Keeping up appearances and keeping down expenses is getting harder all the time.

Vein and Lymph Obstruction

SWELLING of the legs is not an unusual occurrence among women in the summer time, especially those who are on their feet most of the day. This puffiness is not necessarily serious; it does not imply that the circulation is impaired. Furthermore, there are no after-effects.

However, not all swellings of the lower extremities are so innocuous. The cause may be obstruction of the main vein of the involved leg stemming from a clot (thrombophlebitis). Inflammation is the usual cause. The condition formerly was called "milk leg" because in bygone days it was so common after childbirth, but it develops also after injury or surgery of the lower abdomen or pelvic organs. If these factors do not play a role, and the disorder appears spontaneously, a focus of infection in the throat, tonsils, or teeth is suspected.

The early manifestations of thrombophlebitis are those of infection. Mrs. Jones, for example, was recuperating nicely from her operation when she began to run a slight temperature. Because she was in bed there was no swelling and the only clew to the origin of the fever was tenderness of the calf of the left leg over the large vein. Had she been allowed to get up and walk around, puffiness would have appeared.

Phlebitis demands expert care. The best results are obtained when the victim goes to bed and keeps the leg elevated on at least one pillow. Heat is soothing and the sulfonamides or antibiotics often overcome the infection within a few days. Anticoagulants like heparin or dicumarol are used frequently to check the spread of the disease. A bandage or elastic stocking must be worn meanwhile to prevent the leg from swelling permanently.

• — • — •

Obstruction of the lymph vessels also is a common cause of edema of the legs. These passageways convey vital tissue juices in which the cells are bathed. They are located all over the body but in the extremities are most prevalent in the layers between the skin and the muscles. Infection produces puffiness and when an entire leg is involved it often doubles in size. The skin is taut and in the early stages, pressure with the fingers or thumb usually leaves indentations. Later this may not occur because the tissues become fibrous in consistency. Lymphangitis also may occur spontaneously but usually follows injury or infection. Occasionally ringworm of the feet is the culprit. The boys who were stationed in the South Pacific will never forget the type caused by filariasis. In some areas, the natives had elephantiasis; the affected leg was so monstrous it resembled an elephant's.

Treatment with bandages and medicines is much the same as in thrombophlebitis. The swelling is more than a cosmetic handicap. The involved extremity is heavy to lug around and whenever it is injured a painful, stubborn ulcer is likely to form. If swelling continues to increase despite the best remedies, surgery sometimes is utilized. This is a tedious procedure which is not recommended too frequently because it leaves scars and disfigurements.

TOMORROW: Varieties of thyroid disease.

VITAMIN OVERDOSAGE

H. J. writes: Could overdosage of vitamins prove poisonous? If so what are the symptoms?

REPLY

Excessive amounts of most of the vitamins are eliminated. To my knowledge, only A and D overdosage can prove toxic. D is the chief culprit because too much removes calcium from the bones and tissues and deposits the mineral in the kidneys. Other symptoms include nausea, vomiting diarrhea, loss of appetite, headache, lassitude, and frequent urination. Hypervitaminosis A is extremely uncommon but when it occurs there is extreme dryness of the skin and hair, itching, a yellowish discoloration, poor appetite, weakness, and painful extremities.

TERMINOLOGY

M. R. writes: Is Bang's disease in cattle also called brucellosis?

REPLY

Brucellosis is being used by an increasing number of veterinarians to refer to Brucella abortus, or Bang's disease, in cattle. The Brucella organisms are responsible for infection in animals and humans.

LUMP CONTOUR

Mrs. D. writes: Can a physician tell from the shape (pointed or round) of a lump on a joint whether it is malignant?

REPLY

No. Malignant and benign tumors come in all shapes and sizes. Location is important. Small swellings on the joints above the finger nails, for example, usually are caused by arthritis and are not cancerous.

Visit To Turkey-Bulgaria Iron Curtain Shows It's Really Rusty Barbed Wire; Barley Fields Are Green On Both Sides Of Curtain Here

By DREW PEARSON

ALONGSIDE THE IRON CURTAIN, ADRIANOPLE, Turkey — Winston Churchill's well-coined phrase "the iron curtain" has now become so universal that some people really believe the Soviet border is encased in iron. Actually, however, the curtain is made of barbed wire—and rusty barbed wire at that.

This writer visited the southernmost segment of the iron curtain today at a spot where Democratic Turkey and Communist Bulgaria meet. This border is the start of a long tangled barricade zigzagging north past Hungary, Austria, Czechoslovakia, Germany and Poland. And though the fields of winter barley are just green on both sides of this barbed-wire barricade, it might just as well have been made of iron as far as free exchange of human intercourse is concerned.

I drove up to the curtain in a jeep with Captain Feths Seckin and Lieutenant Ali Akoz of the Turkish Army. The latter is in command of a ten-man detachment guarding the Kaprikule outpost. The road leading to the curtain was paved with centuries-old stone and beside the road were Roman wells built by Emperor Adrian. But the traffic leading to the barbed-wire curtain, aside from an ox team pulling a John Deere disc drill, a tribute to the Marshall Plan, was nil.

Suddenly the road ended. Ahead was an iron gate bearing that international English word known to every tongue: "Stop." Beyond it was another gate slightly rusty and delapidated bearing the words "Bulgária" in both French and Cydrillic. This was the iron curtain and the place which Turks call Serhad, which significantly has two meanings: The frontier and the neckline where one's head is chopped off.

Alongside the gate was a series of blockhouses—one on the Bulgarian side, a little shabby with some of its windowpanes missing, and two on the Turkish side, both new and orderly. One Turkish blockhouse—set back from the iron gate but connected with it by a series of trenches—housed troops.

I climbed stairs inside the thick-walled parapet to the tower on top of which a Turkish soldier stood scanning the langscape through field glasses. Through his glasses we could see a Bulgarian guard in the tower on the opposite side of the iron curtain scrutinizing us. From time to time he would run to the telephone evidently to notify headquarters about our party. Aside from this, there was almost no movement on the frontier. The sturdy walls, pierced with rifle slots, looked down on nothing more than the winter barley fields and the long, long barricade of barbed wire extending north.

Prisoners Escape

A herd of water buffalo grazed in the distance. They did not know the difference between communism or democracy, between Russianized Bulgaria or Turkey—to which the Truman doctrine is supplying arms and Marshall Plan aid. They only knew that the grass was just as green on either side.

"Sometimes," remarked Captain Seckin, "sheep or buffalo get under the wire and cross to the Bulgarian side and the Communists shoot them. Our farmers get no chance to herd them back." Sometimes, also, I learned, Bulgarian political prisoners sneak through the barbed wire at night to give themselves up to Turkish authorities. This happens at the rate of two or three times per month and they tell a story of harassment and political suppression in what once was a relatively democratic country.

Climbing down from the watchtower we moved closer to the iron curtain to the second Turkish building. This one was just six feet from the gate separating the two countries.

On rare occasions an official with a properly visaed passport is permitted to pass through this gate and customs officials are kept on the Turkish side to handle such transits. We sat down a few feet from the gate to drink coffee with the customs officials. The weather was cold but the sun was warm, and I pulled my chair out onto a stone platform in the sunshine in full view of the Communist guards peering down through rifle slots in their watchtower 50 feet away.

I don't know and never will know what they thought of the stranger—the civilian dressed in western clothes who sat and drank coffee just below them. I don't even know whether they recognized me as an American but the Turkish guards, who watched them from the tower with their field glasses, reported that, on the opposite side of the curtain, there was more scurrying and more frantic telephoning back to their headquarters.

However, the sun was warm and the coffee delicious and we lingered talking about the days when the army of Sultan Beyazid battled with the armored knights of the Polish king and the grand marshal of France in the days of the crusades across these same barley fields before the gates of Adrianople.

Battle For Adrianople

For hundred of years men had fought to control this gateway to the Bosporus and they were still fighting. But the big question is would another war start actively this spring? Would the Russians attack before Eisenhower has a chance to strengthen the armies of Western Europe, before an American-equipped Turkish army becomes stronger, before Marshal Tito further solidifies his hold on Yugoslavia? That is a question discussed in the chanceries and the coffee houses of the Near East and that is a question I came to Europe to try to answer.

Talking about it I drove back to Adrianople, drove back over an age-old blood-soaked battlefield now planted in barley by oxen and John Deere disc drills—a battlefield sure to be one of the first points of attack if war comes.

MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

As Of March 1

WASHINGTON

TOMORROW these reporters will separate again for some months, one to make an expedition of inquiry in Western Europe, the other to hold the fort in this dreary city. It seems a good time to try to take stock—to observe the flight of starlings over the capital, to trace the veining of the luncheon calves' liver, to consult the bunion that foretells bad weather, and by these sooth-sayer's devices, to answer the great question, "doom or no doom, war or peace?"

Two things are clear about the last three months. On the one hand, it is clear that in December the masters of the Kremlin were actively preparing new aggressions, both in the Far East and in Europe. The physical preparations for attacks on Indo-China by a "liberation army," and on Yugoslavia by the surrounding satellites, were being pushed forward with all haste. The logical conclusion, glumly reached by the leaders of most of the Western governments, was that attacks on Yugoslavia and Indo-China were planned and would shortly be launched.

On the other hand, the situation has not developed in quite this simple manner. The tempo of preparation has slackened, although the Kremlin only needs to give the signal for both the Yugoslav and Indo-Chinese operations to begin. Certain other decidedly ominous signs have been given—for example, the heavy reinforcement of the Soviet garrison on Sakhalin Island, combined with the remarks on the Korean War in Stalin's interview, can quite possibly mean that the Kremlin intends to rescue its Chinese vassals from their difficulties in Korea by directly intervening in the war in the Far East.

At the same time, the Western leadership has not been so idle as one might have expected from the condition of paralysis and division that prevailed in December. Lieutenant General Ridgway and his men have decisively turned the balance of the Korean fighting—at least unless and until the Soviets intervene. Strong diplomatic measures have been taken by London and Washington, to show the Kremlin that Yugoslavia cannot be attacked with impunity.

Atmosphere Not as Tense

Above all the great military asset of the West, the American atomic stockpile, has at least been unfrozen. All sorts of steps have been taken to convince the Kremlin that any new aggression anywhere will carry with it the terrible risk of immediate destruction of Russia's vital centers.

Over-all, despite the ominous new signs above mentioned, the present atmosphere is decidedly less tense, distinctly more hopeful, than it was in December. The wave of despair that engulfed the leadership in Washington (and in most other Western capitals) after the Chinese intervention in Korea, has at least subsided. The hope that the deterrents which are being so carefully paraded may actually do their work, is now rather generally held.

If it is permissible to make a guess—and one can only guess—the masters of the Kremlin seriously intended to launch the Yugoslav and Indo-Chinese operations when the preparations for these attasks were first noted. December, after all, was their good time, when it was natural for them to plan boldly. If one may guess further, the developments in the interval have persuaded them that the game is not worth the candle, and they have therefore adopted new tactics.

The first installment of these tactics is now only too visible. All the signs suggest that the Conference of Foreign Ministers of the Big Four, which has been the subject of so long an exchange of notes, is to be the scene of a final, grandiose attempt to split the Western alliance. No one can say how far the Kremlin will be willing to gamble the positions it now holds in Germany and elsewhere in order to divide Britain, France and the United States. Equally, no one can say whether the United States, Britain and France may not be able to turn the Kremlin's gamble to good diplomatic advantage. But while no one can foresee the Soviet methods, the Soviet aim is perfectly plain—split the West for good and all, and thus achieve the great objective,

New Presidential Tenure Law Termed Clumsy Job

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 — The American people have demonstrated that, when they want to do so, they can amend the Constitution rather quickly. But by limiting presidential tenure to two terms of four years each, a clumsy job has been done instead of a thorough streamlining of the whole system of presidential elections.

It was Woodrow Wilson who, when he was president-elect, on February 5, 1913, told Congress that limitation of presidential tenure was wrong. He wrote as follows:

"Four years is too long a term for a president who is not the true spokesman of the people, who is imposed upon and does not lead. It is too short a term for a president who is doing, or attempting a great work of reform and who has not had time to finish it."

Advocated Single Term

At that time the Democratic party had inserted in its 1912 platform a plank advocating a single term of six years and no re-election. Mr. Wilson had been asked by a House committee for his views, and he stated for the first time formally what had been his belief for years—namely, that the United States should adopt some system of responsible government which would make a president's term depend upon the will of the people expressed at intervals of perhaps two years or less.

"Why in such circumstances," said Mr. Wilson, "should he (the president) be responsible to no one for four long years? All the people's legislative spokesmen in the House of Representatives and one third of their representatives in the Senate are brought to book every two years; why not the president, if he is to be the leader of the party and the spokesman of policy.

"Sooner or later, it would seem, he must be made answerable to opinion in a somewhat more informal and intimate fashion—answerable, it may be, to the houses he seeks to lead, either personally or through a cabinet, as well as to the people for whom they speak. But that is a matter to be worked out—as it inevitably will be—in some natural American way which we cannot yet even predict."

After making this plea for a system which resembles somewhat the parliamentary form in vogue in Canada, Australia, Great Britain and many other democracies, Mr. Wilson gave as his second choice a two-term tenure as opposed to a single six-year term. He said:

"Put the present customary limitation of two years into the Constitution, if you do not trust the people to take care of themselves, but make it two terms—not one, because four years is often too long—and give the president a chance to win the full service by proving himself fit for it."

Could Be Embarrassing

It must be remembered that in the 1912 campaign, from which Mr. Wilson had just emerged the victor over a split Republican party—with President Taft and former President Theodore Roosevelt as the opposing candidates—the Democrats had for the first time in history made a campaign against the third-term idea. Vice President Theodore Roosevelt had succeeded the assassinated president, William McKinley, in September, 1901, and then was elected in 1904 for a four-year term, so he really had served about three years and six months of one term and four years of another. The Democrats argued that, even though a four-year interval had elapsed since Mr. Roosevelt left the presidency in March 1909, it would mean that the same individual would occupy the office of chief executive for what was then considered to be a "third term." Theodore Roosevelt was often referred to in that campaign as the "third term" candidate.

If the Democratic party is thinking about nominating Mr. Truman again, they will find embarrassing the position taken in 1912 on the subject of giving a vice president three terms.

This correspondent has always argued against a limitation of tenure for presidents on the theory that, if any constitutional change were made, it should be toward a responsible system which would enable the people to remove a president when he lost their confidence. Under such a plan elections could be held just the same at regular intervals.

Congress also should be subjected to the same power of the people to elect all of their legislators at least once every two years. The late Mackenzie King served as premier of Canada for 21 years but his service was not consecutive and he could have been ousted at any time by the Canadian Parliament or by the people.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Watch That Inflation!

THE REALLY big problem that this country faces today is inflation, which means that money is constantly being cheapened, so that prices go up because it costs more money to buy a given item. Sound money is usually based on gold; inflated money gives the possessor the "feeling" of having plenty while actually he has less because he has less purchasing power.

"Political Action of the Week"—Organ of the CIO-PAC—does not fear inflation. In fact, in its February 5 issue, it points out that the "freeze" orders are a fake and does so very clearly:

"WATCH for a series of revisions setting the 10 per cent above-last-June standard for wages. The first of these cleared the way for the raises. Another set of orders is due to open the way for cost-of-living raises and there are good prospects for the same sort of action on pension payments and other items. At present these are frozen, the same as bonuses, vacation and holiday pay, and higher rates for night shifts. The difference is that the cost of living raises lag several months behind higher prices and thus do not cause them. Pension and similar payments are actually money taken out of the buyers market. But higher pay for vacations and other benefits goes right into people's pockets ready to be spent."

While none of this has yet happened quite as indicated here, the fact is that such an arrangement would have pleased the CIO, and when it does happen, they will be temporarily contented, even though every increase in prices, wages, rents, profits is not an increase in value but a boost to the inflation. The old adage "whatever goes up, must come down" could hit this country with such a bang that it might be more disastrous than war.

The real trouble is that we all want more money, and we are accustomed to think in terms of currency rather than in terms of purchasing power The housewife tells you that a $10 bill flies over the butcher's counter as though it had wings, and then she wants her husband to ask for more wages. That is human nature without the restraints of disciplined thinking.

More money can be less money, if the purchasing power of the dollar goes down. The statement: "The difference is that the cost of living raises lag several months behind higher prices and thus do not cause them," is just careless thinking.

Prices rise on trends in the marketplace, because the merchant or manufacturer must calculate replacement costs as well as future buying and therefore tries to set his price so that he does not get stuck when he has to pay more for what he needs to sell. Of course, sometimes a trend is misunderstood, and also buyers' resistance can set in and the merchant is caught with goods on his hands which he cannot sell. That could, over a period, break him.

It is true that "higher pay for vacations and other beenfits goes right into people's pockets ready to be spent," but this precisely is the inflationary process. The volume of money increases; the value of money decreases. That is inflation. This is complicated by the very intricate transaction which is involved in the quarrel between the Treasury and the Federal Reserve Board.

It would seem to me that the labor leaders would devote themselves to a deflationary program at this time. Their members cannot benefit from faked increases during an inflationary period, even if increases give the impression of wonderful successes for the labor leaders.

But such successes, while personally gratifying, can in no way safeguard the value of the dollar which the worker earns, or anybody else's dollar, for that matter. And our task

Daily Lenten Devotional

WITH THE RICH YOUNG RULER
One thing thou lackest
Mark 10:21.

Read Matthew 19:13-22

On the surface there did not seem to be anything lacking in this young man. Perhaps, however, as he grew older and pondered upon the day he had been challenged to come within the fellowship of Jesus, he began to wish he could stand there again. If so, then began a bit of hell for him.

"Hell begins," said Gian-Carlo Menotti at a Town Hall meeting last Lenten season, "on the day when God grants us a clear vision of all we might have achieved, of all the gifts which we have wasted, of all that we might have done which we did not do. The poet shall forever scream the poems which he never wrote; the painter will be forever obsessed by visions of the pictures which he did not paint; the musician will strive in vain to remember the sounds which he failed to set down on paper. There are a few artists whom I can imagine resting in heavenly peace: Leonardo, Michelangelo, Goethe, and a few minor artists who have merited that peace. But for the weak, the lazy, the damned — their torture shall be the more horrible in proportion to the greatness of the genius they have wasted. For me the conception of hell lies in two words: Too late."

Let Us Pray: O God, when the vision stands clear before us, may we follow the gleam and not delay. May we not lack the one thing that keeps us out of the kingdom of God. Amen.

Helping The Rebels

If revolt has broken out in Red China, as has been reported by various sources, it is to be hoped it is genuine, important and infectious. But at the same time it is necessary that Americans be prepared for disappointment and to recognize the difficulties involved in trying to help the Chinese people throw off Communist rule.

A Peiping announcement refers to thousands of "cadres," which is the regime's term for political workers, being killed—more than 3,000 in Kwangsi alone. The announcement says that sabotage and other kinds of subversive activities have increased. In many cases railways and bridges have been destroyed, factories and mines damaged, warehouses set afire.

The Peiping announcement confirms reports of guerilla warfare by pro-Nationalist groups that are said to number hundreds of thousands of armed men.

But these admissions were made in extending the death penalty to a long list of "counter-revolutionary offenses" committed by "those who work with imperialism against the fatherland." For instance, those who harbor and protect counter-revolutionaries can now be put to death. So can persons found guilty of stirring up disunity, disturbing financial markets, and inciting resistance to army and labor service orders or even tax collection.

The new decree is so broad that the regime can now put out of the way anybody who makes trouble. Another purge is certainly coming, whether the revolution is real or not. The Chinese Communists are following a familiar pattern and they have now reached the point where they are ready to tighten their deadly grip still further.

There is no doubt this move has been forced by what has happened in Korea. Arthur Moore, a British journalist in India who has just spent a month at Peiping for a New Delhi paper, writes that the war in Korea "is already somewhat of a surprise" to the Chinese Reds. He adds: "The casualties are much greater than they expected. The hospitals in Manchuria are unequal to the influx and hospitals in Peiping are heavily denuded of nurses, as they have gone to the front." He refers also to the problem of supply, which is difficult because gasoline is short.

If there is an incipient revolution in China, General MacArthur is helping it along in Korea.

Three-Cent Letter Mail

One thing at least doesn't cost any more today than it did a century ago—letter mail. One hundred years ago this coming Saturday, Congress fixed three cents as the cost of sending a letter up to 3,000 miles. It was three cents for one-half ounce in 1851 as compared to one ounce today.

Almost 70 years ago, in 1883, the letter rate was reduced to two cents. It went up to three cents for a time during World War I, then reverted to two cents, went to the present three-cents charge during the depression of 1932. For about ten years, however, the rate was two cents for local letters—that is, those for delivery within the area served by the post office of mailing.

Letter ("first-class") mail, accounting for about 45 per cent of all postal receipts, is the only category of mail matter that shows a profit in the Post Office Department's financial breakdown. The Administration is again urging Congress to raise rates other than those for letters, so as to meet 70 per cent of the postal deficit estimated at $521,000,000 in 1951-52.

The pre-1851 letter rates seem utterly fantastic today. In 1789 the charge was determined by distance, with weight disregarded—7.4 cents up to 60 miles, 11.1 cents for 60-100 miles, 14.8 cents for 100-200 miles, 3.4 cents for each additional 100 miles. It cost 59 cents to send a letter from Boston to New Orleans.

There was no delivery service at first, but in 1794 one was set up at two cents the letter. In 1810 the rates were sharply reduced to a maximum of 25 cents, but were still graded only by distance; in 1845 weight as well as distance was taken into account for the still lower rates then in effect.

Atom Propulsion

Newsmen who were on the spot following a briefing last week of the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy by AEC experts said there was quiet jubilation all over the place. The reason was that work on an atomic propulsion plant for one of the Navy's submarines was getting along much better than expected.

A bit more was added to what little was known of the project by a speech at Rochester, N. Y., by AEC Commissioner Sumner T. Pike. Briefly, he said the design for two "practical, though expensive" propulsion units is almost completed and one of them is partially built. He added it shouldn't be too many years before one or both of them should be operating in a submarine.

While atomic power in a submarine is a strictly military development, it follows that atomic power automatically becomes a possibility for surface ships, and for peacetime applications.

But think of a submarine, or any ship, being able to cruise endlessly and at will uninhibited by such vital considerations as fuel supplies! A helpful scientist has figured out that a teaspoonful of atomic substance will be the equivalent of several million times the same amount of ordinary propulsion fuel.

Add to this the fact that the portable atomic pile may be self-regenerating. Man has come in sight of the ultimate: Harnessed perpetual motion!

Defense And Socialism

Taxpayers should keep their eyes peeled for any attempt by the Administration to make the defense program the means of political promotion. The nation should not be called upon to swallow political nostrums offered in the name of national defense when they can have no bearing on the objective sought.

Having failed in the past to put across such fair-deal schemes as socialized medicine, and others, the Administration is just slick enough to revive the demand in the name of national welfare in time of war.

As burdensome as increased taxes will prove to be, the people will pay them so long as they are in behalf of national defense and preparedness. But the taxpayers are in no mood to further finance national socialism at a time when their dollars are needed for more important matters.

To paraphrase an old challenge: "Millions for defense but not one cent for socialism."

Keeping up appearances and keeping down expenses is getting harder all the time.

Vein and Lymph Obstruction

SWELLING of the legs is not an unusual occurrence among women in the summer time, especially those who are on their feet most of the day. This puffiness is not necessarily serious; it does not imply that the circulation is impaired. Furthermore, there are no after-effects.

However, not all swellings of the lower extremities are so innocuous. The cause may be obstruction of the main vein of the involved leg stemming from a clot (thrombophlebitis). Inflammation is the usual cause. The condition formerly was called "milk leg" because in bygone days it was so common after childbirth, but it develops also after injury or surgery of the lower abdomen or pelvic organs. If these factors do not play a role, and the disorder appears spontaneously, a focus of infection in the throat, tonsils, or teeth is suspected.

The early manifestations of thrombophlebitis are those of infection. Mrs. Jones, for example, was recuperating nicely from her operation when she began to run a slight temperature. Because she was in bed there was no swelling and the only clew to the origin of the fever was tenderness of the calf of the left leg over the large vein. Had she been allowed to get up and walk around, puffiness would have appeared.

Phlebitis demands expert care. The best results are obtained when the victim goes to bed and keeps the leg elevated on at least one pillow. Heat is soothing and the sulfonamides or antibiotics often overcome the infection within a few days. Anticoagulants like heparin or dicumarol are used frequently to check the spread of the disease. A bandage or elastic stocking must be worn meanwhile to prevent the leg from swelling permanently.

• — • — •

Obstruction of the lymph vessels also is a common cause of edema of the legs. These passageways convey vital tissue juices in which the cells are bathed. They are located all over the body but in the extremities are most prevalent in the layers between the skin and the muscles. Infection produces puffiness and when an entire leg is involved it often doubles in size. The skin is taut and in the early stages, pressure with the fingers or thumb usually leaves indentations. Later this may not occur because the tissues become fibrous in consistency. Lymphangitis also may occur spontaneously but usually follows injury or infection. Occasionally ringworm of the feet is the culprit. The boys who were stationed in the South Pacific will never forget the type caused by filariasis. In some areas, the natives had elephantiasis; the affected leg was so monstrous it resembled an elephant's.

Treatment with bandages and medicines is much the same as in thrombophlebitis. The swelling is more than a cosmetic handicap. The involved extremity is heavy to lug around and whenever it is injured a painful, stubborn ulcer is likely to form. If swelling continues to increase despite the best remedies, surgery sometimes is utilized. This is a tedious procedure which is not recommended too frequently because it leaves scars and disfigurements.

TOMORROW: Varieties of thyroid disease.

VITAMIN OVERDOSAGE

H. J. writes: Could overdosage of vitamins prove poisonous? If so what are the symptoms?

REPLY

Excessive amounts of most of the vitamins are eliminated. To my knowledge, only A and D overdosage can prove toxic. D is the chief culprit because too much removes calcium from the bones and tissues and deposits the mineral in the kidneys. Other symptoms include nausea, vomiting diarrhea, loss of appetite, headache, lassitude, and frequent urination. Hypervitaminosis A is extremely uncommon but when it occurs there is extreme dryness of the skin and hair, itching, a yellowish discoloration, poor appetite, weakness, and painful extremities.

Visit To Turkey-Bulgaria Iron Curtain Shows It's Really Rusty Barbed Wire; Barley Fields Are Green On Both Sides Of Curtain Here

Says DREW PEARSON

ALONGSIDE THE IRON CURTAIN, ADRIANOPLE, Turkey — Winston Churchill's well-coined phrase "the iron curtain" has now become so universal that some people really believe the Soviet border is encased in iron. Actually, however, the curtain is made of barbed wire—and rusty barbed wire at that.

This writer visited the southernmost segment of the iron curtain today at a spot where Democratic Turkey and Communist Bulgaria meet. This border is the start of a long tangled barricade zigzagging north past Hungary, Austria, Czechoslovakia, Germany and Poland. And though the fields of winter barley are just green on both sides of this barbed-wire barricade, it might just as well have been made of iron as far as free exchange of human intercourse is concerned.

I drove up to the curtain in a jeep with Captain Fethi Seckin and Lieutenant Ali Akoz of the Turkish Army. The latter is in command of a ten-man detachment guarding the Kaprikule outpost. The road leading to the curtain was paved with centuries-old stone and beside the road were Roman wells built by Emperor Adrian. But the traffic leading to the barbed-wire curtain, aside from an ox team pulling a John Deere disc drill, a tribute to the Marshall Plan, was nil.

Suddenly the road ended. Ahead was an iron gate bearing that international English word known to every tongue: "Stop." Beyond it was another gate slightly rusty and delapidated bearing the words "Bulgaria" in both French and Cydrillic. This was the iron curtain and the place which Turks call Serhad, which significantly has two meanings: The frontier and the neckline where one's head is chopped off.

Alongside the gate was a series of blockhouses—one on the Bulgarian side, a little shabby with some of its windowpanes missing, and two on the Turkish side, both new and orderly. One Turkish blockhouse—set back from the iron gate but connected with it by a series of trenches—housed troops.

I climbed stairs inside the thick-walled parapet to the tower on top of which a Turkish soldier stood scanning the langscape through field glasses. Through his glasses we could see a Bulgarian guard in the tower on the opposite side of the iron curtain scrutinizing us. From time to time he would run to the telephone evidently to notify headquarters about our party. Aside from this, there was almost no movement on the frontier. The sturdy walls, pierced with rifle slots, looked down on nothing more than the winter barley fields and the long, long barricade of barbed wire extending north.

Prisoners Escape

A herd of water buffalo grazed in the distance. They did not know the difference between communism or democracy, between Russianized Bulgaria or Turkey—to which the Truman doctrine is supplying arms and Marshall Plan aid. They only knew that the grass was just as green on either side.

"Sometimes," remarked Captain Seckin, "sheep or buffalo get under the wire and cross to the Bulgarian side and the Communists shoot them. Our farmers get no chance to herd them back." Sometimes, also, I learned, Bulgarian political prisoners sneak through the barbed wire at night to give themselves up to Turkish authorities. This happens at the rate of two or three times per month and they tell a story of harassment and political suppression in what once was a relatively democratic country.

Climbing down from the watch-tower we moved closer to the iron curtain to the second Turkish building. This one was just six feet from the gate separating the two countries.

On rare occasions an official with a properly visaed passport is permitted to pass through this gate and customs officials are kept on the Turkish side to handle such transits. We sat down a few feet from the gate to drink coffee with the customs officials. The weather was cold but the sun was warm, and I pulled my chair out onto a stone platform in the sunshine in full view of the Communist guards peering down through rifle slots in their watchtower 50 feet away.

I don't know and never will know what they thought of the stranger—the civilian dressed in western clothes who sat and drank coffee just below them. I don't even know whether they recognized me as an American but the Turkish guards, who watched them from the tower with their field glasses, reported that, on the opposite side of the curtain, there was more scurrying and more frantic telephoning back to their headquarters.

However, the sun was warm and the coffee delicious and we lingered talking about the days when the army of Sultan Beyazid battled with the armored knights of the Polish king and the grand marshal of France in the days of the crusades across these same barley fields before the gates of Adrianople.

Battle For Adrianople

For hundred of years men had fought to control this gateway to the Bosporus and they were still fighting. But the big question is would another war start actively this spring? Would the Russians attack before Eisenhower has a chance to strengthen the armies of Western Europe, before an American-equipped Turkish army becomes stronger, before Marshal Tito further solidifies his hold on Yugoslavia? That is a question discussed in the chanceries and the coffee houses of the Near East and that is a question I came to Europe to try to answer.

Talking about it I drove back to Adrianople, drove back over an age-old blood-soaked battlefield now planted in barley by oxen and John Deere disc drills—a battlefield sure to be one of the first points of attack if war comes.

MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

As Of March 1

WASHINGTON

TOMORROW these reporters will separate again for some months, one to make an expedition of inquiry in Western Europe, the other to hold the fort in this dreary city. It seems a good time to try to take stock—to observe the flight of starlings over the capital, to trace the veining of the luncheon calves' liver, to consult the bunion that foretells bad weather, and by these sooth-sayer's devices, to answer the great question, "doom or no doom, war or peace?"

Two things are clear about the last three months. On the one hand, it is clear that in December the masters of the Kremlin were actively preparing new aggressions, both in the Far East and in Europe. The physical preparations for attacks on Indo-China by a "liberation army," and on Yugoslavia by the surrounding satellites, were being pushed forward with all haste. The logical conclusion, glumly reached by the leaders of most of the Western governments, was that attacks on Yugoslavia and Indo-China were planned and would shortly be launched.

On the other hand, the situation has not developed in quite this simple manner. The tempo of preparation has slackened, although the Kremlin only needs to give the signal for both the Yugoslav and Indo-Chinese operations to begin. Certain other decidedly ominous signs have been given—for example, the heavy reinforcement of the Soviet garrison on Sakhalin Island, combined with the remarks on the Korean War in Stalin's interview, can quite possibly mean that the Kremlin intends to rescue its Chinese vassals from their difficulties in Korea by directly intervening in the war in the Far East.

At the same time, the Western leadership has not been so idle as one might have expected from the condition of paralysis and division that prevailed in December. Lieutenant General Ridgway and his men have decisively turned the balance of the Korean fighting—at least unless and until the Soviets intervene. Strong diplomatic measures have been taken by London and Washington, to show the Kremlin that Yugoslavia cannot be attacked with impunity.

Atmosphere Not as Tense

Above all the great military asset of the West, the American atomic stockpile, has at least been unfrozen. All sorts of steps have been taken to convince the Kremlin that any new aggression anywhere will carry with it the terrible risk of immediate destruction of Russia's vital centers.

Over-all, despite the ominous new signs above mentioned, the present atmosphere is decidedly less tense, distinctly more hopeful, than it was in December. The wave of despair that engulfed the leadership in Washington (and in most other Western capitals) after the Chinese intervention in Korea, has at least subsided. The hope that the deterrents which are being so carefully paraded may actually do their work, is now rather generally held.

If it is permissible to make a guess—and one can only guess—the masters of the Kremlin seriously intended to launch the Yugoslav and Indo-Chinese operations when the preparations for these attasks were first noted. December, after all, was their good time, when it was natural for them to plan boldly. If one may guess further, the developments in the interval have persuaded them that the game is not worth the candle, and they have therefore adopted new tactics.

The first installment of these tactics is now only too visible. All the signs suggest that the Conference of Foreign Ministers of the Big Four, which has been the subject of so long an exchange of notes, is to be the scene of a final, grandiose attempt to spiit the Western alliance. No one can say how far the Kremlin will be willing to gamble the positions it now holds in Germany and elsewhere in order to divide Britain, France and the United States. Equally, no one can say whether the United States, Britain and France may not be able to turn the Kremlin's gamble to good diplomatic advantage. But while no one can foresee the Soviet methods, the Soviet aim is perfectly plain—split the West for good and all, and thus achieve the great objective,

New Presidential Tenure Law Termed Clumsy Job

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 — The American people have demonstrated that, when they want to do so, they can amend the Constitution rather quickly. But by limiting presidential tenure to two terms of four years each, a clumsy job has been done instead of a thorough streamlining of the whole system of presidential elections.

It was Woodrow Wilson who, when he was president-elect, on February 5, 1913, told Congress that limitation of presidential tenure was wrong. He wrote as follows:

"Four years is too long a term for a president who is not the true spokesman of the people, who is imposed upon and does not lead. It is too short a term for a president who is doing, or attempting a great work of reform and who has not had time to finish it."

Advocated Single Term

At that time the Democratic party had inserted in its 1912 platform a plank advocating a single term of six years and no re-election. Mr. Wilson had been asked by a House committee for his views, and he stated for the first time formally what had been his belief for years—namely, that the United States should adopt some system of responsible government which would make a president's term depend upon the will of the people expressed at intervals of perhaps two years or less.

"Why in such circumstances," said Mr. Wilson, "should he (the president) be responsible to no one for four long years? All the people's legislative spokesmen in the House of Representatives and one third of their representatives in the Senate are brought to book every two years; why not the president, if he is to be the leader of the party and the spokesman of policy.

"Sooner or later, it would seem, he must be made answerable to opinion in a somewhat more informal and intimate fashion—answerable, it may be, to the houses he seeks to lead, either personally or through a cabinet, as well as to the people for whom they speak. But that is a matter to be worked out—as it inevitably will be—in some natural American way which we cannot yet even predict."

After making this plea for a system which resembles somewhat the parliamentary form in vogue in Canada, Australia, Great Britain and many other democracies, Mr. Wilson gave as his second choice a two-term tenure as opposed to a single six-year term. He said:

"Put the present customary limitation of two years into the Constitution, if you do not trust the people to take care of themselves, but make it two terms—not one, because four years is often too long—and give the president a chance to win the full service by proving himself fit for it."

Could Be Embarrassing

It must be remembered that in the 1912 campaign, from which Mr. Wilson had just emerged the victor over a split Republican party—with President Taft and former President Theodore Roosevelt as the opposing candidates—the Democrats had for the first time in history made a campaign against the third-term idea. Vice President Theodore Roosevelt had succeeded the assassinated president, William McKinley, in September, 1901, and then was elected in 1904 for a four-year term, so he really had served about three years and six months of one term and four years of another. The Democrats argued that, even though a four-year interval had elapsed since Mr. Roosevelt left the presidency in March 1909, it would mean that the same individual would occupy the office of chief executive for what was then considered to be a "third term." Theodore Roosevelt was often referred to in that campaign as the "third term" candidate.

If the Democratic party is thinking about nominating Mr. Truman again, they will find embarrassing the position taken in 1912 on the subject of giving a vice president three terms.

This correspondent has always argued against a limitation of tenure for presidents on the theory that, if any constitutional change were made, it should be toward a responsible system which would enable the people to remove a president when he lost their confidence. Under such a plan elections could be held just the same at regular intervals.

Congress also should be subjected to the same power of the people to elect all of their legislators at least once every two years. The late Mackenzie King served as premier of Canada for 21 years but his service was not consecutive and he could have been ousted at any time by the Canadian Parliament or by the people.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Watch That Inflation!

THE REALLY big problem that this country faces today is inflation, which means that money is constantly being cheapened, so that prices go up because it costs more money to buy a given item. Sound money is usually based on gold; inflated money gives the possessor the "feeling" of having plenty while actually he has less because he has less purchasing power.

"Political Action of the Week"—Organ of the CIO-PAC—does not fear inflation. In fact, in its February 5 issue, it points out that the "freeze" orders are a fake and does so very clearly:

"WATCH for a series of revisions setting the 10 per cent above-last-June standard for wages. The first of these cleared the way for the raises. Another set of orders is due to open the way for cost-of-living raises and there are good prospects for the same sort of action on pension payments and other items. At present these are frozen, the same as bonuses, vacation and holiday pay, and higher rates for night shifts. The difference is that the cost of living raises lag several months behind higher prices and thus do not cause them. Pension and similar payments are actually money taken out of the buyers market. But higher pay for vacations and other benefits goes right into people's pockets ready to be spent."

While none of this has yet happened quite as indicated here, the fact is that such an arrangement would have pleased the CIO, and when it does happen, they will be temporarily contented, even though every increase in prices, wages, rents, profits is not an increase in value but a boost to the inflation. The old adage "whatever goes up, must come down" could hit this country with such a bang that it might be more disastrous than war.

The real trouble is that we all want more money, and we are accustomed to think in terms of currency rather than in terms of purchasing power. The housewife tells you that a $10 bill flies over the butcher's counter as though it had wings, and then she wants her husband to ask for more wages. That is human nature without the restraints of disciplined thinking.

More money can be less money, if the purchasing power of the dollar goes down. The statement: "The difference is that the cost of living raises lag several months behind higher prices and thus do not cause them. Pension and similar payments are actually money taken out of the buyers market. But higher pay for vacations and other benefits goes right into people's pockets ready to be spent."

Prices rise on trends in the marketplace, because the merchant or manufacturer must calculate replacement costs as well as future buying and therefore tries to set his price so that he does not get stuck when he has to pay more for what he needs to sell. Of course, sometimes a trend is misunderstood, and also buyers' resistance can set in and the merchant is caught with goods on his hands which he cannot sell. That could, over a period, break him.

It is true that "higher pay for vacations and other beenfits goes right into people's pockets ready to be spent," but this precisely is the inflationary process. The volume of money increases; the value of money decreases. That is inflation. This is complicated by the very intricate transaction which is involved in the quarrel between the Treasury and the Federal Reserve Board.

It would seem to me that the labor leaders would devote themselves to a deflationary program at this time. Their members cannot benefit from faked increases during an inflationary period, even if increases give the impression of wonderful successes for the labor leaders.

But such successes, while personally gratifying, can in no way safeguard the value of the dollar which the worker earns, or anybody else's dollar, for that matter. And our task

Fellowship Of Prayer

Daily Lenten Devotional

WITH THE RICH YOUNG RULER
One thing thou lackest
Mark 10:21.

Read Matthew 19:13-22

On the surface there did not seem to be anything lacking in this young man. Perhaps, however, as he grew older and pondered upon the day he had been challenged to come within the fellowship of Jesus, he began to wish he could stand there again. If so, then began a bit of hell for him.

"Hell begins," said Gian-Carlo Menotti at a Town Hall meeting last Lenten season, "on the day when God grants us a clear vision of all we might have achieved, of all the gifts which we have wasted, of all that we might have done which we did not do. The poet shall forever scream the poems which he never wrote: the painter will be forever obsessed by visions of the pictures which he did not paint; the musician will strive in vain to remember the sounds which he failed to set down on paper. There are a few artists whom I can imagine resting in heavenly peace: Leonardo, Michelangelo, Goethe, and a few minor artists who have merited that peace. But for the weak, the lazy, the damned — their torture shall be the more horrible in proportion to the greatness of the genius they have wasted. For me the conception of hell lies in two words: Too late."

Let Us Pray: O God, when the vision stands clear before us, may we follow the gleam and not delay. May we not lack the one thing that keeps us out of the kingdom of God. Amen.

"Have you just had an unhappy love affair?" asked the decorator.

Jovial, rotund radio millionaire Senator Homer E. Capehart has entered the latest Kentucky feud—Does not involve Martins, Coys, reckless mountain boys, nor moonshine . . . But gourmets who are scrapping over how to cook a wild duck.

Senator Capehart inserted in the Congressional Record, a dispatch from a Louisville paper as his opening shot . . . The Courier-Journal had written up a challenge between two Kentuckians over wild duck cooking.

Capehart spluttered he couldn't understand how anybody in Kentucky, or any place south of Indiana, could roast a duck when it is not possible to get good duck there to begin with!

He told his colleagues that, "The midwest flyway goes through Indiana and we bag all the good ducks on the way south. Kentucky gets only those that we call 'seconds.'"

"I'd like to challenge my good friend and colleague, the Gentleman from Kentucky, to a duck roasting and tasting contest to be held at the Pendennis Club in Louisville. No holds barred. And I shall even submit to throwing into the feud the esteemed Vice President, the Honorable Alben Barkley."

Capehart also said that Kentuckians don't know how to stuff ducks!

"You stuff it with apple and sage dressing to disguise the taste of the duck—a duck that was unwanted in Indiana. Of course, I should be much happier if this feud were over fried chicken!"

As the picture finished, FDR's mother was on her feet, "Oh, Franklin," she said, "how can there be another war! I can't believe it! It is not so."

But President Roosevelt replied to her, "Of course there's going to be another war. A big war. Soon!"

This scene is re-told by ace newsreel man Laurence Stallings, who had come up to Hyde Park to obtain the President's permission to use parts of old films of Roosevelt in a documentary picture on "The First World War" . . . The commercial use of his face without his approval was an infringement of his private rights, so Stallings had to get FDR's okay.

In the March issue of "Esquire," Stallings tells how he awaited the President's verdict after he had shown him the film . . .

"Sir," Stallings began, "you have a right, as a private citizen —"

"I have a right as President of the United States," corrected Roosevelt . . . Menacing him with his cigaret holder, he pointed out the extreme powers of censorship granted in the Federal Codes to the President . . . He was, in fact, "Censor-in-Chief" as well as "Commander-in-Chief."

But little by little, he revealed his sympathy and agreement with the message of the film.

As Stallings stood to say good night, FDR flashed his famous smile.

"Soon, eh, Laurence?"

You can grow a short coiffure into a long one most attractively by using these Powers Girl techniques!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

IT'S THE American women, not the hair stylists, who have demanded longer coiffures! They are tired of the upkeep and severity of short locks.

Does that mean that the head that has worn a smooth crowd of close-cropped hair must go through a growing-out period with distressing wisps and stragglers?

Not if you follow the Powers Girl techniques! The models have been letting their tresses grow since early winter and with nary a shaggy-dog effect. Here's their advice on how to attain any length of hair desired without a single growing-out pain.

1. Keep the longest fringe of hair trimmed evenly. 2. Have a soft permanent so that your locks will be manageable during the entire period of growth. 3. Set your sights now on the final style to which you aspire so you'll know how much growing you need wait for, and can begin training your waves and curls in the right direction immediately. When the growth is finished, the style should be perfected.

In choosing a new style "Secrets of Charm" readers know that becomingness is the first consideration. But for success, it must also be easy to care for and suitable to your daily activities. The suggestions that follow meet both these requirements.

For the business woman and the busy home manager, a short page boy turned under from a smooth crown. Pull the hair back slick at the temples (with or without bangs) or wear a soft low pompadour of waves across the forehead (not the towering pomp of yesterday!). The back may be swirled to one side or clustered in loose curls on the nape.

Longer Styles

For the teenager, a long bob turned up or under, but no shoulder sweeping mop! For the college girl, a short bob (ear tips showing) turned up or under and very sleek. For all, a chignon, real or false, perched low on the neck, high on the crown or smartly to one side of the head and sized in proportion to the head and features.

Any of these changes are sufficient to add new interest to your appearance—something every woman should seek now and then!

Jovial, rotund radio millionaire Senator Homer E. Capehart has entered the latest Kentucky feud—Does not involve Martins, Coys, reckless mountain boys, nor moonshine . . . But gourmets who are scrapping over how to cook a wild duck.

Senator Capehart inserted in the Congressional Record, a dispatch from a Louisville paper as his opening shot . . . The Courier-Journal had written up a challenge between two Kentuckians over wild duck cooking.

Capehart spluttered he couldn't understand how anybody in Kentucky, or any place south of Indiana, could roast a duck when it is not possible to get good duck there to begin with!

He told his colleagues that, "The midwest flyway goes through Indiana and we bag all the good ducks on the way south. Kentucky gets only those that we call 'seconds.'"

"I'd like to challenge my good friend and colleague, the Gentleman from Kentucky, to a duck roasting and tasting contest to be held at the Pendennis Club in Louisville. No holds barred. And I shall even submit to throwing into the feud the esteemed Vice President, the Honorable Alben Barkley."

Capehart also said that Kentuckians don't know how to stuff ducks!

"You stuff it with apple and sage dressing to disguise the taste of the duck—a duck that was unwanted in Indiana. Of course, I should be much happier if this feud were over fried chicken!"

As the picture finished, FDR's mother was on her feet, "Oh, Franklin," she said, "how can there be another war! I can't believe it! It is not so."

But President Roosevelt replied to her, "Of course there's going to be another war. A big war. Soon!"

This scene is re-told by ace newsreel man Laurence Stallings, who had come up to Hyde Park to obtain the President's permission to use parts of old films of Roosevelt in a documentary picture on "The First World War" . . . The commercial use of his face without his approval was an infringement of his private rights, so Stallings had to get FDR's okay.

In the March issue of "Esquire," Stallings tells how he awaited the President's verdict after he had shown him the film . . .

"Sir," Stallings began, "you have a right, as a private citizen —"

"I have a right as President of the United States," corrected Roosevelt . . . Menacing him with his cigaret holder, he pointed out the extreme powers of censorship granted in the Federal Codes to the President . . . He was, in fact, "Censor-in-Chief" as well as "Commander-in-Chief."

But little by little, he revealed his sympathy and agreement with the message of the film.

As Stallings stood to say good night, FDR flashed his famous smile.

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

IT'S THE American women, not the hair stylists, who have demanded longer coiffures! They are tired of the upkeep and severity of short locks.

Does that mean that the head that has worn a smooth crowd of close-cropped hair must go through a growing-out period with distressing wisps and stragglers?

Wilson Receives Warehouse Clerk Appointment

John R. Wilson, 609 North Mechanic Street, was named warehouse clerk for the Street Department yesterday by the Mayor and Council.

Wilson was first on the list of eligibles submitted Monday night to the council by the Civil Service Commission.

The appointment is effective today. His salary will be $216 a month.

In another order, the council approved payrolls for the last two weeks of the month.

The council met briefly before leaving for Annapolis with a local delegation to represent the city and other interested groups in hearings on the home rule bill and pay increases for city firemen and policemen.

Included in the group driving to Annapolis were Mayor Thomas S. Post, Commissioners Lucile W. Roeder, John L. Long, William H. Buchholtz, and George H. Tederick, Mrs. Gerard Everstine, Mrs. Marguerite Deetz, Mrs. Nell Thomas Nichols and Robert Little Ebert.

Phone Company Elects Officers

At the regular meeting of the board of directors of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Baltimore the following officers of the company were reelected:

H. Randolph Maddox, president; Frederick G. Macarow, Robert C. McCann and William J. McManus, vice presidents; Robert W. Michie, vice president and comptroller; John T. Quisenberry, general counsel; Robert V. Russell, secretary and treasurer; W. Griffin Morrel, vice president and general manager and E. R. Koogle, auditor.

Following reelection of the officers, the directors approved expenditures of $561,000 for the improvement and expansion of telephone facilities throughout Maryland.

The major portion of the amount approved, $355,000, constituted additional expenditures, made necessary by increased labor and material costs, for a number of projects the company now has under way throughout the state.

ALONG THE POTOMAC TO WASHINGTON

(By Representative J. Glenn Beall, Sixth Maryland District)

THE Senate last week passed a bill to set up a five-member board with power to renegotiate billions of dollars worth of defense contracts. Most of these now are being rushed to contractors without competitive bids. A similar contract renegotiation board during World War II is credited with saving more than $10 billion on about $200 billion worth of contracts. Every dollar that can be saved means that much less taxes.

The present reciprocal trade agreements program is still taking money out of the taxpayers' pocket. Senator Williams, Republican of Delaware, called attention to the fact that this country lost $7,000,000 selling government - owned cheddar cheese to England while at the same time importing English cheddar cheese into this country. We sold 50 million pounds of cheddar cheese to Great Britain for 15 cents a pound which had cost the Agriculture Department about 31 cents a pound. Then the British Empire, through Canada and New Zealand, imported into this country the same type of cheese at from 21 to 37 cents a pound, under the reciprocal trade agreements program by cutting tariff rates in half.

Last September Congress gave President Truman authority to freeze wages and roll back prices. Despite the mounting cost of living, the President did not act until January.

Commenting on the President's delay, the National Republic said, "Congress demanded immediate price freezes when the Korean aggression broke in the summer of 1950. But the President said partial measures would suffice. Meanwhile prices advanced almost daily. Rising prices since last June 25 have eaten up enough of our defense dollars to

Outfit and equip 10 infantry divisions

Buy 300 B-36 bombers, enough for ten B-36 bomber groups

Buy 2,250 F-80 jet fighters, enough for 30 groups

Buy enough tanks for 10 armored divisions."

Speaking of saving money, the President's budget calls for spending $1,600,000 for acquisition of land in Washington for parks and playgrounds. Last year he spent one-third of this amount for this desirable but non-essential purpose. He reduces the rural electrification program from $293 million last year to $268 million this year while increasing the salaries and expenses of the REA from $6,800,000 this year to $8,500,000 next year. He would increase the overhead expenses of the housing and home finance agency's administration office alone from $1,900,000 last year to $4,100,000 this year. Also he would increase expenditures for advance planning of non-federal public works in the housing and home finance agency from $1,500,000 last year to $8 million next year and would increase administrative expenses for the public housing program from $4,200,000 to $12,400,000 next year.

These are only some of the nonessential expenditures which the President has advocated and which should be thoroughly examined before new taxes are imposed.

UNDER THE DOME

Residents of Montgomery County, government employes assigned to duty at the National Airport have contacted me regarding the parking situation. I have gotten in touch with the director of the Airport. It seems that a plan has been proposed to give a private concession control of the parking areas which are on government - owned property. This would result in the employes having to pay a fee of approximately $25 annually.

At the request of officials of the Naval Ordnance Laboratory, I contacted the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission asking that New Hampshire Avenue be fixed in such a way that the traffic to and from the laboratory could travel normally. The street was torn up one day in such a way that most of the employes were late for work. The condition has been corrected.

I appeared before the Board of Veterans Appeals on February 28 in behalf of a veteran in the district.

Damage Suit Filed By Beauty Operator

The operator of a local beauty shop docketed suit yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court for $5,000 in damages from her former landlords.

Arrah Wanna Lease Seeders is suing Leo and Clara C. Palmer, 826 Columbia Avenue.

Mrs. Seeders, through her attorney, Earl E. Manges, contends that the Palmers and she had a verbal agreement on a lease for an indefinite period of a room at 302 Pulaski Street.

She charged that on September 3, 1949, the Palmers locked her out and took over her driers, permanent wave machine, sink and other equipment.

She is suing on one count for loss of profits and on a second count for loss and damage to the equipment.

The first pigs brought to America were landed in Florida by De Soto in 1539.

Women own about 48 per cent of American railroad stocks.

City Business Opposes Plans To Move Meet

Hagerstown Dates May Be Transferred

A report that Hagerstown's 10-day horse race meeting might be held in Cumberland was a "surprise" to members of the Cumberland Fair Association last night.

An official of the local group said last night he had received numerous calls from city businessmen opposing the idea of the additional 10 days of racing at the Fairgo track.

Actually, the officials said, a bill has been introduced in the state legislature which would permit Maryland race tracks to move their programs to another track in case of an emergency with the approval of the State Racing Commission.

However, he related, the bill is not yet law and the move would still have to have the State Racing Commission's approval before the Hagerstown dates could be moved forward with the Cumberland meeting.

The idea originated at meeting of the State Racing Commission and race track owners in Baltimore and it was decided to ask the legislature to pass the "emergency" bill, the local official noted.

The Hagerstown grandstand has been torn down since last summer on orders of the commission which found it sub-standard. The government freeze on critical building materials has made it unlikely the stands can be rebuilt for the Hagerstown meet, July 31 to August 11.

The State Racing Commission also proposed that the state's share of betting take be reduced on the first $2,000,000 in wagering, the report stated, in an effort to help the smaller tracks financially.

U. S. Sprinters Lose In Finals

South Americans Edge States Stars

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 28 (INS)—Two United States sprint stars were the victims of stunning upsets today in the first Pan-American games.

Arthur Bragg, national sprint king from Morgan State College, who earlier had won his semi-final heat, was beaten in the finals of the 100-meter run by Cuba's Rafael Chacon.

Lanky Don Halderman, of Los Angeles, could do no better than third in the finals of the 400-meter hurdles event. This race was won by Colombia's Sergio Aparicio in a new South American record time of 53.4 seconds.

Argentina's weight of numbers at the games began to tell in the second day of action, although three U. S. gal athletes qualified for the semi-finals in the women's 100-meter sprint and sharpshooter Arthur Jackson gained the Stars and Stripes its fourth finals victory.

Jackson scored his triumph in the 22-caliber 50 and 100-meter shooting event with a score of 591. The team title was taken by Argentina, which also held the lead at the end of the second day in the pentathlon.

Another medal winner today was Mexico's Olga Gracia in the women's Javelin. She beat out Amelie Bert of Providence, R. I. with a toss of 129.4 feet.

Jean Leron Patton, Nashville, Tenn., and Janet Moreau, Pawtucket, R. I., each scored heat victories in the women's 100-meter run.

Seven Teams Post Forfeit Bonds In Pen-Mar League

Eighth Berth Open; Open Season Apr. 29

Seven teams posted forfeit bonds for the 1951 Pen-Mar Baseball League season at a meeting earlier this week at Frostburg American Legion Home.

Two of last year's teams did not have representation at the meeting while one new member was voted into the league, officials reported.

Keyser's Ridge and Flintstone are the two 1950 members not in the fold while the league voted to allow Mt. Savage to enter a team in the circuit.

The eighth berth is being held open in the hope that Keyser Ridge or some other team will fill the bill.

The next meeting of the loop will be held Sunday, March 11 at 2 p.m. at the Frostburg Legion home and representatives of teams seeking the final spot in the circuit are urged to be present with $35 forfeit bond. This will be the final opportunity for another team to join the circuit, league authorities said. A final vote of the member teams will be necessary for the retention of a new organization.

Flintstone forfeited three games during last season's play and would have to be voted into the league again, officials said.

Teams retaining franchises in the league are Zihlman, Barrelville, Eckhart, Wellersburg, Klondike and Ellerslie in addition to Mt. Savage.

Prior to the regular league meeting March 11 the By-Laws Committee will be at the legion home at 1:30 p.m.

The league expects to open a possible 28-game schedule April 29.

City Business Opposes Plans To Move Meet

Hagerstown Dates May Be Transferred

A report that Hagerstown's 10-day horse race meeting might be held in Cumberland was a "surprise" to members of the Cumberland Fair Association last night.

An official of the local group said last night he had received numerous calls from city businessmen opposing the idea of the additional 10 days of racing at the Fairgo track.

Actually, the officials said, a bill has been introduced in the state legislature which would permit Maryland race tracks to move their programs to another track in case of an emergency with the approval of the State Racing Commission.

However, he related, the bill is not yet law and the move would still have to have the State Racing Commission's approval before the Hagerstown dates could be moved forward with the Cumberland meeting.

The idea originated at meeting of the State Racing Commission and race track owners in Baltimore and it was decided to ask the legislature to pass the "emergency" bill, the local official noted.

The Hagerstown grandstand has been torn down since last summer on orders of the commission which found it sub-standard. The government freeze on critical building materials has made it unlikely the stands can be rebuilt for the Hagerstown meet, July 31 to August 11.

The State Racing Commission also proposed that the state's share of betting take be reduced on the first $2,000,000 in wagering, the report stated, in an effort to help the smaller tracks financially.

U. S. Sprinters Lose In Finals

South Americans Edge States Stars

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 28 (INS)—Two United States sprint stars were the victims of stunning upsets today in the first Pan-American games.

Arthur Bragg, national sprint king from Morgan State College, who earlier had won his semi-final heat, was beaten in the finals of the 100-meter run by Cuba's Rafael Chacon.

Lanky Don Halderman, of Los Angeles, could do no better than third in the finals of the 400-meter hurdles event. This race was won by Colombia's Sergio Aparicio in a new South American record time of 53.4 seconds.

Argentina's weight of numbers at the games began to tell in the second day of action, although three U. S. gal athletes qualified for the semi-finals in the women's 100-meter sprint and sharpshooter Arthur Jackson gained the Stars and Stripes its fourth finals victory.

Jackson scored his triumph in the 22-caliber 50 and 100-meter shooting event with a score of 591. The team title was taken by Argentina, which also held the lead at the end of the second day in the pentathlon.

Another medal winner today was Mexico's Olga Gracia in the women's Javelin. She beat out Amelie Bert of Providence, R. I. with a toss of 129.4 feet.

Jean Leron Patton, Nashville, Tenn., and Janet Moreau, Pawtucket, R. I., each scored heat victories in the women's 100-meter run.

Small Colleges Accept NIT Bid

NEW YORK, Feb. 28 (AP) — Three small school powers—Beloit, Dayton and Lawrence Tech—joined the National Invitation Basketball Tournament field today and the final five teams may be named by Saturday.

If all the little pieces fit into the Madison Square Garden jigsaw puzzle, Oklahoma A. & M. St. Louis, LaSalle, Cincinnati and either New York U. or Fordham will round out the 12-team field.

Beloit (16-4), Dayton (23-4), and Lawrence Tech of Detroit (20-2) followed North Carolina State, Brigham Young, Arizona and St. John's of Brooklyn into the 14th annual N.I.T. which begins March 10 and concludes March 17.

Seven Teams Post Forfeit Bonds In Pen-Mar League

Eighth Berth Open; Open Season Apr. 29

Seven teams posted forfeit bonds for the 1951 Pen-Mar Baseball League season at a meeting earlier this week at Frostburg American Legion Home.

Two of last year's teams did not have representation at the meeting while one new member was voted into the league, officials reported.

Keyser's Ridge and Flintstone are the two 1950 members not in the fold while the league voted to allow Mt. Savage to enter a team in the circuit.

The eighth berth is being held open in the hope that Keyser Ridge or some other team will fill the bill.

The next meeting of the loop will be held Sunday, March 11 at 2 p.m. at the Frostburg Legion home and representatives of teams seeking the final spot in the circuit are urged to be present with $35 forfeit bond. This will be the final opportunity for another team to join the circuit, league authorities said. A final vote of the member teams will be necessary for the retention of a new organization.

Flintstone forfeited three games during last season's play and would have to be voted into the league again, officials said.

Teams retaining franchises in the league are Zihlman, Barrelville, Eckhart, Wellersburg, Klondike and Ellerslie in addition to Mt. Savage.

Prior to the regular league meeting March 11 the By-Laws Committee will be at the legion home at 1:30 p.m.

The league expects to open a possible 28-game schedule April 29.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 28—(INS)—Certainly Dick Powell was intrigued, delighted and flattered by the offer to take Ezio Pinza's role on Broadway in "South Pacific." But he is already committed to Universal-International for "You Never Know," a picture he has set his heart on doing.

Dick wired Leonard Goldstein, the producer: "I will be home next week for wardrobe fittings in ectoplasm." You see, "You Never Know" is the story of the reincarnation of a man who returns to track down his murderer, and it's melodrama with no comedy and no singing.

Dick Powell

With George Sanders out and Dick Powell not available, the search is still on for a "wonderful guy" to carry on the Pinza role.

If you don't think "Rage Of The Vulture" is going before the cameras and soon, listen to this:

Deborah Kerr has been borrowed by Paramount from MGM for the femme lead opposite Alan Ladd. Seems that Jo Swerling and Lewis Melcher are busy rewriting the part to fit the attractive Deborah.

And just to show you this is really going to be a top movie, a telephone call was made to St. Louis to ask Charles Boyer to interrupt his personal appearance tour to play the cultured Hindu. Boyer asked that a script be forwarded to him.

There have been dozens of actresses discussed for the dashing Maid Marion role in "The Story Of Robin Hood" which Walt Disney is making in England, but none was right.

That is until a technicolor test of Joan Rice, filmed at the Denham Studios in London and flown here especially for Walt to see. One look at it and Joan was chosen. The Rice girl skyrocketed from a bit part to stardom in "Blackmail," and a two-year contract with J. Arthur Rank.

"The Story Of Robin Hood" will be an all-live action feature without the usual cartoons, and it gets going May 1. Walt, himself, joins the company in London in June.

From New York I hear that Elia Kazan is in New York talking business to Marlon Brando. He wants Brando for "Zapata," the John Steinbeck story which Kazan will direct.

Since Brando was in "Streetcar Named Desire" for Elia, he is eager to get him for the Zanuck picture—and, at this writing, it looks as if he might be successful.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Piper Laurie's new beau is Dick Contino, accordion-playing champ. They were glimpsed together at the Palladium.

Reports from Las Vegas says that Billy Wilkerson has sold his interest in his swank La Rue Cafe there.

Michael Perlman, who has many friends in Hollywood, is now in charge of the Barberry Room in New York and that's one reason so many people are flocking there.

Lucille Ball gave a party for thirty for Desi Arnez' opening at the Biltmore Bowl. In the party were Charlie Coburn and Kay St. Germain Garson, Jack's ex-wife who put on quite a dancing act. Marie Wilson was with a good looking pilot who is the image of Dean Martin but whose name is Friedman.

Mrs. Clark Gable again goes with Clark to live in a mountain cabin on location. They leave next week for Winslow, Arizona, where Clark will live for many weeks making "Lone Star."

Talk is that Munitions King Fritz Mandl, Hedy Lamarr's ex, is engaged to a French ballerina.

Although it's hush-hush, I hear that Spyros Skouras has paid the first $400,000 for the world rights to Ediphone, a Swiss invented big screen television.

All three of Burt Lancaster's youngsters are down with mumps. Never a dull moment in that household.

Lash La Rue would like to have everyone know that his dates with Marilyn Maxwell are just professional talks. Oh, is that what they are calling it this year?

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

3 AWOL Soldiers Face Federal Prosecution

Three AWOL soldiers arrested about two weeks ago for stealing a 1950 sedan in Grantsville have been turned over to Federal authorities in Pittsburgh for prosecution under the Dyer Act.

State Police said the trio was nabbed February 17 in Uniontown, Pa., after they took the automobile of Randall Wiley, Grantsville. A girl with them was released.

Authorities identified the prisoners as Richard Heater, 19, Philippi, W. Va., and John Rossiter, 19, and Paul Daughenbaugh, 17, both of Altoona, Pa. They were charged with transporting a stolen vehicle across a state line.

Teamsters Get Pact With Wholesale Firm

Local 453, Teamsters Union (AFL), announced a contract agreement was reached yesterday with the Prichard Corporation.

C. E. Stutzman, union business agent, said the pact, covering six drivers and warehousemen, provides $50 for a 40 hour week, time and one half after 40 hours, six paid holidays and one week's paid vacation after one year's service, with two weeks vacation after 3 years.

He said the rate is the same as that provided in pacts reached recently with the C. D. Kenny and Kenneweg wholesale grocery companies.

Six Area Men Enlist In Navy

Recent enlistments in the United States Navy from this area include William Alfred Nixon, 21, RFD No. 2, Boswell, Pa.; Herman V. Lewis, 18, 546 North Center Street; William M. Shockey, 20, Charleston Street, Lanaconing; John R. Hartig, 20, 129 Pine Street, Frostburg; James G. Lancaster, 20, of 4 Centenial Street, Frostburg; and Kenneth Lee Kerns, 22, Fort Ashby, W. Va.

Recruits from this area are now being sent to Great Lakes, Ill., New Port, R. I., or San Diego, Calif. according to BMC E. V. Rinner, local recruiter.

Frostburg Welsh Will Observe St. David's Day With Friday Rites

Wales Patron Saint Will Be Remembered

FROSTBURG — Rev. W. D. Reese, a native of Wales and retired pastor of Welsh Baptist Memorial Church, will deliver the St. David's Day address at a program to be presented Friday, 8 p. m., at the church, Beall Street, under auspices of the Pioneer Club, whose members consist largely of descendants of early Welsh settlers in this community.

Rev. Reese states that St. David, the patron saint of Wales was born sometime between the fourth and fifth centuries and was educated in a village now known as Whiteland, Cardiganshire, Wales. He established a large number of churches and missions during his lifetime and was honored by the leader of the churches and the authorities of the Welsh people as the prince of the British Islands.

St. David's Day, is observed all over the world where Welsh people reside, the period for the celebrations being the first seven days in March. One of the largest observances this year, he said, will be at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, New York, this week, where the speakers will be members of the United Nations, representing the British Isles.

While there are many people of Welsh ancestry in Allegany County, Rev. Reese said, there has never been much emphasis placed on the observance of St. David's Day, excepting the annual observance in Frostburg.

The local program Friday evening will include, organ prelude by Shirley Miller and quartet selections by Mrs. Edna Engle, Mrs. Lois Alexander, Betty Ann Hanna and Rev. Karl Kauffman.

65 Bedford Dairy Farmers Honored For 1950 Records

Sixty-five dairy farmers from the Bedford (Pa.) area were honored at the Bedford High School, Bedford, last night by Supplee-Wills-Jones Milk Company.

These men were selected for their outstanding contributions in level month-to-month production of high quality milk throughout 1950.

Heading the list as top prize winners were Thomas Beegle, Everett, and Glenn Mellot, also of Everett, who were especially cited for having achieved the greatest success among district farmers in this third annual program sponsored by the Supplee Company.

In pointing out that production by Supplee shippers reached an all time high in 1950 of 341,000,000 pounds, Dr. Roy F. Davenport, director of Field Service, said:

"In view of the fact that all signs point to increased demands for dairy products, we must maintain the present high rate of production, but, at the same time, not lose sight of the importance of doing a still better job in terms of level month-to-month production. We hope to do this by getting greater fall production rather than just a decreased output in the spring."

A Column for Men

STAG LINES

By BERT BACHARACH

Riot in Color

Uninhibited Sport Shirts

FASHION: The comedy team of Kirkwood and Goodman (at left) prove that men no longer have any inhibitions when it comes to sport shirts. Color and patterns run veritable riot in these printed rayons.

Handyman: Borrow your wife's colorless nail polish and coat the inside of a leather watch band to keep it from discoloring or chafing your wrist. . . . Coat timetables, etc., that are frequently consulted, to keep them from smudging and deteriorating. . . . If a paintbrush is shedding its bristles, apply polish at base of bristles. They'll last longer.

New Ideas: When zippered garments are laundered or cleaned, zipper lubricant is removed. The new "Ziprite" lubricating stick keeps them running smoothly.

Your Headsize: Few people know what the size of a man's nat means. Theoretically, it's the diameter in inches—if the oval of a head, or hat, were to be compressed into a perfect circle. However, it's not practical to do that trick with hats—or heads—so here's a better formula for those who have to determine their hat or head size (for mail ordering and the like). Put a tape measure around the head from the middle of the forehead and over the bump in back. Then apply the measurement against the chart below:

SIZE	INCHES	SIZE	INCHES
6⅞	21½	7¼	22⅝
7	21⅞	7⅜	23
7⅛	22¼	7½	23½

Amateur Chef: Put Stilton or bleu cheese in a crock, punch holes in cheese and fill 'em with port wine. Let stand for ten days—and use for spread. . . . If you're cooking a steak outdoors and want to be sure it won't be tough, tenderize it by soaking in a pint of water and a teaspoonful of vinegar for ten minutes before cooking.

Odd Items: Mindy Carson (right) doesn't want to cash in on looking like Bergman and doesn't want her men to look like Rossellini, either! She says, "The day of striped pants, etc., has passed. Men look best in tweeds, sportswear, and the like." . . . Frank Marlowe, comedian on Kate Smith's TV show, owns sixty suits—and claims that gives him 181 changes. . . . This week's "Pass the Cigars" to John Daly, on "What's My Line?" who has just about the nicest and friendliest personality on TV.

That basketball scandal in Madison Square Garden is the toughest since they threw me out of reform school for playing with loaded checkers.

See where Bill Corum wants his alma mammy Missouri to erase its Madison Square victories from its recorders. They didn't know they were being helped like baby's first step.

Bill, that basketball scandal is going to have even more terrific effect on our way of democracy. Congress is now figuring out another amendment. No person over six feet, seven inches, can be elected President of the United States.

Not that it will do Bill and me any good. There hasn't been a little giant since Stephen Douglas.

A Column for Men

STAG LINES

By BERT BACHARACH

Uninhibited Sport Shirts

FASHION: The comedy team of Kirkwood and Goodman (at left) prove that men no longer have any inhibitions when it comes to sport shirts. Color and patterns run veritable riot in these printed rayons.

Handyman: Borrow your wife's colorless nail polish and coat the inside of a leather watch band to keep it from discoloring or chafing your wrist. . . . Coat timetables, etc., that are frequently consulted, to keep them from smudging and deteriorating. If a paintbrush is shedding its bristles, apply polish at base of bristles. They'll last longer.

Riot in Color

New Ideas: When zippered garments are laundered or cleaned, zipper lubricant is removed. The new "Ziprite" lubricating stick keeps them running smoothly.

Your Headsize: Few people know what the size of a man's nat means. Theoretically, it's the diameter in inches—if the oval of a head, or hat, were to be compressed into a perfect circle. However, it's not practical to do that trick with hats—or heads—so here's a better formula for those who have to determine their hat or head size (for mail ordering and the like). Put a tape measure around the head from the middle of the forehead and over the bump in back. Then apply the measurement against the chart below:

SIZE	INCHES	SIZE	INCHES
6⅞	21½	7¼	22⅝
7	21⅞	7⅜	23
7⅛	22¼	7½	23½

Amateur Chef: Put Stilton or bleu cheese in a crock, punch holes in cheese and fill 'em with port wine. Let stand for ten days—and use for spread. . . . If you're cooking a steak outdoors and want to be sure it won't be tough, tenderize it by soaking in a pint of water and a teaspoonful of vinegar for ten minutes before cooking.

Odd Items: Mindy Carson (right) doesn't want to cash in on looking like Bergman and doesn't want her men to look like Rossellini, either! She says, "The day of striped pants, etc., has passed. Men look best in tweeds, sportswear, and the like." . . . Frank Marlowe, comedian on Kate Smith's TV show, owns sixty suits—and claims that gives him 181 changes. . . . This week's "Pass the Cigars" to John Daly, on "What's My Line?" who has just about the nicest and friendliest personality on TV.

Baering Down On The News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Distributed By INS

That basketball scandal in Madison Square Garden is the toughest since they threw me out of reform school for playing with loaded checkers.

•—•—•

See where Bill Corum wants his alma mammy Missouri to erase its Madison Square victories from its recorders. They didn't know they were being helped like baby's first step.

•—•—•

Bill, that basketball scandal is going to have even more terrific effect on our way of democracy. Congress is now figuring out another amendment. No person over six feet, seven inches, can be elected President of the United States.

•—•—•

Not that it will do Bill and me any good. There hasn't been a little giant since Stephen Douglas.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear husband and beloved father, Louis A. Kabosky, who passed away one year ago, March 1, 1950.
No one knows how much we miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered. Since you left us
Life has never been the same.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true,
There is not a day dear father,
That we do not think of you.
Sadly missed by WIFE & CHILDREN

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear husband and beloved father, Louis A. Kabosky, who passed away one year ago, March 1, 1950.
No one knows how much we miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered. Since you left us
Life has never been the same.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true,
There is not a day dear father,
That we do not think of you.
Sadly missed by WIFE & CHILDREN

Market Stages Recovery Following Early Setback

NEW YORK, Feb. 28 (AP)—The stock market displayed a litte of its old-time bounce today in staging a recovery drive that put prices ahead after an early setback.

The performance, however, was not regarded as conclusive evidence that the market is shaking off its lethargy of the past few days.

For one thing, the volume of business remained at the low level of 1,640,000 shares. Yesterday it was only 40,000 shares larger. Traders are agreed that any decisive price movement must be accompanied by a respectable volume before they are impressed.

Missouri Pacific preferred jumped 5⅛ to 27⅝, and Alleghany added ⅝ at 4¼. It was the third most active issue and M. P. preferred was fourth.

In the number one spot was International Telephone up ½ at 17¼, and second place was taken by Avco up ⅛ at 8½. Avco yesterday was the most active issue after publication of a highly favorable earnings statement.

American Telephone, eighth most active, closed with a gain of 1⅛ at 157⅜ after touching 158.

Philip Morris was up 1¾ at 55¾ after declaration of a five per cent stock dividend in addition to a 75-cent regular.

Goodrich, with 1950 sales the biggest in history, reported profits equal to $24.19 a share as against $14.36 the previous year, and at the same time declared a 50-cent dividend. The stock was up ⅞ at 46¼.

Westinghouse Electric dropped 1½ to 35¾.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks added 20 cents at $95.10 with the industrial component up 30 cents, and the rails and utilities each up 10 cents.

Matter Of Fact

Stage-Setting Interview

Perhaps the Soviets may attain this objective, by the follies of the Western leadership. If the Soviets fail, we must certainly expect another interlude of acute and imminent danger this summer. A spring Conference of Foreign Ministers that does not satisfy the Kremlin can all too easily be transformed into the prelude to a summer attack all along the line. Stalin has told us in his interview, "War is not inevitable unless these dreadful people persist in trying to defend themselves from us, and continue to refuse to give our Chinese allies everything they want." That sounds, at least, like stage-setting for the Foreign Ministers' meeting.

at this moment is to protect the value of the dollar.

It would appear that Charles E. Wilson faces lots of trouble with labor leaders who place themselves above economic law. If they push Wilson too hard, he will have no alternative but to resign, for it is impossible to believe that he will permit himself to be reduced to the position of Donald Nelson of World War II, who was pushed around by every kind of pressure group. Wilson is bound to stand firm on policy and to protect the country against every self-serving element in the population, business, farmer and labor.

of which is related to a playground is the experience requirement, Hoey said.

The salary range for playground director is $200 to $300, depending on experience and qualifications, for ten weeks' work.

The junior recreation assistant must have at least two years of high school education and much the same qualifications as the director in regards to personal relationships. His duties would be of a routine nature calling for little experience including supervision of sand boxes, apparatus or wading pool play and assisting at other activities.

Salary would range from $100 to $150 for a ten-week season.

Applications may be obtained at the Recreation Office, City Hall.

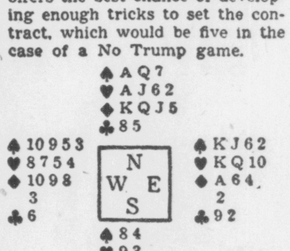
BIDDING GUIDES LEAD

ONE PARADOX among the many in our game is the fact that frequently you can take more tricks trying for a low contract than you can in a higher one. The reason is that against a high one, such as a slam, a smart defender will make a different lead. Then his purpose is to select the opening best calculated to produce one trick for his side against a grand slam or two against a small slam. If, however, the contract be a mere game, then he chooses the lead which he thinks offers the best chance of developing enough tricks to set the contract, which would be five in the case of a No Trump game.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1 ♥	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
2 NT	Pass	3 NT

That may look like funny bidding, when South had that Goliath of a club suit, but it happened to win the North-South top score on the deal in a big duplicate game. Against that East, with his side obliged to develop five tricks in order to beat the contract, selected his fourth-best spade. Since North won that with the Q and had the suit still stopped, he was able to lead the diamond K next. After East won with the A, he returned the spade K, since West had given him the 9 on the first trick. North of course won that with the A and then ran two diamonds, the heart A and a bunch of clubs to take a total of an even dozen.

Nobody would think of leading a spade from East's holding against a small slam, no matter how the deal was bid. Most tables produced No Trump contracts by North, of small slam dimensions, and in every such case East made the sound lead of the heart K, despite the fact that North had bid the suit. This established the Q, so that when North had to play diamonds, the A of that suit was followed by the heart Q to beat the slam.

Every South bid some number of clubs after the 1-Heart by North, which in some cases was doubled by East and in some over-called with 1-Spade. The bidding then varied terrifically. Where South wound up as declarer, at either 5-Clubs or 6-Clubs, not over eleven tricks were taken by any declarer.

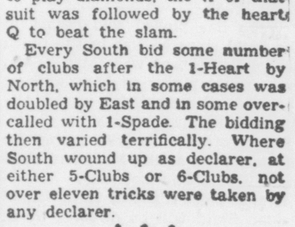
Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

If South bids 1-Heart, North 1-Spade, South 2-Clubs, North 2-Spades, South 2-No Trumps and North 3-No Trumps, what card should West lead?

Market Stages Recovery Following Early Setback

NEW YORK, Feb. 28 (AP)—The stock market displayed a litte of its old-time bounce today in staging a recovery drive that put prices ahead after an early setback.

The performance, however, was not regarded as conclusive evidence that the market is shaking off its lethargy of the past few days.

For one thing, the volume of business remained at the low level of 1,640,000 shares. Yesterday it was only 40,000 shares larger. Traders are agreed that any decisive price movement must be accompanied by a respectable volume before they are impressed.

Missouri Pacific preferred jumped 5⅛ to 27⅝, and Alleghany added ⅝ at 4¼. It was the third most active issue and M. P. preferred was fourth.

In the number one spot was International Telephone up ½ at 17¼, and second place was taken by Avco up ⅛ at 8½. Avco yesterday was the most active issue after publication of a highly favorable earnings statement.

American Telephone, eighth most active, closed with a gain of 1⅛ at 157⅜ after touching 158.

Philip Morris was up 1¾ at 55¾ after declaration of a five per cent stock dividend in addition to a 75-cent regular.

Goodrich, with 1950 sales the biggest in history, reported profits equal to $24.19 a share as against $14.36 the previous year, and at the same time declared a 50-cent dividend. The stock was up ⅞ at 46¼.

Westinghouse Electric dropped 1½ to 35¾.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks added 20 cents at $95.10 with the industrial component up 30 cents, and the rails and utilities each up 10 cents.

Matter Of Fact

which is to halt Western rearmament.

Stage-Setting Interview

Perhaps the Soviets may attain this objective, by the follies of the Western leadership. If the Soviets fail, we must certainly expect another interlude of acute and imminent danger this summer. A spring Conference of Foreign Ministers that does not satisfy the Kremlin can all too easily be transformed into the prelude to a summer attack all along the line. Stalin has told us in his interview, "War is not inevitable unless these dreadful people persist in trying to defend themselves from us, and continue to refuse to give our Chinese allies everything they want." That sounds, at least, like stage-setting for the Foreign Ministers' meeting.

These Days

at this moment is to protect the value of the dollar.

It would appear that Charles E. Wilson faces lots of trouble with labor leaders who place themselves above economic law. If they push Wilson too hard, he will have no alternative but to resign, for it is impossible to believe that he will permit himself to be reduced to the position of Donald Nelson of World War II, who was pushed around by every kind of pressure group. Wilson is bound to stand firm on policy and to protect the country against every self-serving element in the population, business, farmer and labor.

The salary range for playground director is $200 to $300, depending on experience and qualifications, for ten weeks' work.

The junior recreation assistant must have at least two years of high school education and much the same qualifications as the director in regards to personal relationships. His duties would be of a routine nature calling for little experience including supervision of sand boxes, apparatus or wading pool play and assisting at other activities.

Salary would range from $100 to $150 for a ten-week season.

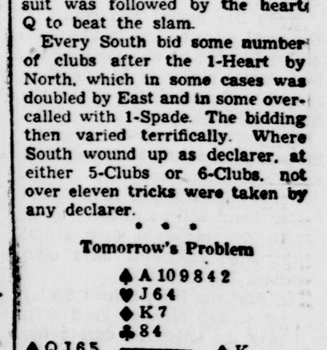
BIDDING GUIDES LEAD

ONE PARADOX among the many in our game is the fact that frequently you can take more tricks trying for a low contract than you can in a higher one. The reason is that against a high one, such as a slam, a smart defender will make a different lead. Then his purpose is to select the opening best calculated to produce one trick for his side against a grand slam or two against a small slam. If, however, the contract be a mere game, then he chooses the lead which he thinks offers the best chance of developing enough tricks to set the contract, which would be five in the case of a No Trump game.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1 ♥	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
2 NT	Pass	3 NT

That may look like funny bidding, when South had that Goliath of a club suit, but it happened to win the North-South top score on the deal in a big duplicate game. Against that East, with his side obliged to develop five tricks in order to beat the contract, selected his fourth-best spade. Since North won that with the Q and had the suit still stopped, he was able to lead the diamond K next. After East won with the A, he returned the spade K, since West had given him the 9 on the first trick. North of course won that with the A and then ran two diamonds, the heart A and a bunch of clubs to take a total of an even dozen.

Nobody would think of leading a spade from East's holding against a small slam, no matter how the deal was bid. Most tables produced No Trump contracts by North, of small slam dimensions, and in every such case East made the sound lead of the heart K, despite the fact that North had bid the suit. This established the Q, so that when North had to play diamonds, the A of that suit was followed by the heart Q to beat the slam.

Every South bid some number of clubs after the 1-Heart by North, which in some cases was doubled by East and in some over-called with 1-Spade. The bidding then varied terrifically. Where South wound up as declarer, at either 5-Clubs or 6-Clubs, not over eleven tricks were taken by any declarer.

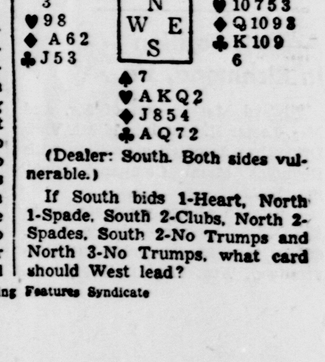
Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

If South bids 1-Heart, North 1-Spade, South 2-Clubs, North 2-Spades, South 2-No Trumps and North 3-No Trumps, what card should West lead?

Progress Is Reported On Bus Contract

Efforts Redoubled To Beat Strike Deadline

BULLETIN

A tentative agreement was reached early this morning on a new bus contract here.

Union officials said they will recommend membership acceptance of the offer.

The pact was to be presented for membership ratification or rejection at a meeting scheduled today at 4 a.m. in Allegany Trades Council Hall.

Some progress was reported late last night as federal and state conciliators redoubled their 11th hour efforts to avert a bus strike threatened today which would cripple local transportation.

Officials of Local 1110, Bus Drivers Union (AFL), and the Cumberland Transit Lines were still holding individual conferences at 10:15 p. m. and were preparing to go back into joint negotiations at any moment.

C. Stanley Clevenger, Winchester, Va., federal conciliator, said some progress was being made.

A union official confirmed the report by saying the talks were "not as stalemated as they were".

Drivers served notice yesterday that a strike would begin this morning if an agreement were not reached.

Explore Possibilities

Clevenger, with James A. Holden, federal conciliation commissioner, and Mrs. Margaret W. Kimble, deputy commissioner of the Maryland Department of Labor and Industry, arranged a number of joint and individual conferences yesterday.

Clevenger said earlier yesterday that both sides were busy exploring every possibility of getting together on a contract.

It was reported that discussion on an annual wage offer of the firm had been deferred in favor of some form of a flat wage increase.

The amount of any wage boost under consideration was not disclosed.

The union negotiators were headed by Frederick Fitzgerald, Belmont, Mass., an international vice president. He was assisted by James Morrison, president; Burr Powell, Harvey May and Lawrence Grim.

Company negotiators were Guy M. Davis, president of the Cumberland Transit Lines; A. J. Hutton, manager, and J. Kenneth Morgan, auditor.

Union Plans Meeting

James H. Morrison, president of Local 1110, said strike sanction was received yesterday from the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric, Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America, AFL.

Negotiate New Bus Contract Here

GOP Central Committee Member Resigns Position In Appointments' Protest

Wilson Contends Party May Suffer

Contending that some of the recent appointments recommended by the Republican State Central Committee for Allegany County are unjustified and will harm the party, David Jerome Wilson, Frostburg, resigned from the committee last night.

In a letter to Earl E. Manges, GOP committee chairman, Wilson said, "My conscience would not permit me to do otherwise." Copies of the letter were sent to Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin, State Senator Robert B. Kimble and The Cumberland News.

Manges could not be reached for comment on the letter last night.

Not Specific

Wilson's letter did not mention any specific appointments concerning which he disapproved nor would he identify them publicly when questioned last night.

Wilson's letter:

"Kindly consider this letter as a tender of my resignation as a member of the Republican State Central Committee for Allegany County effective immediately.

"I regret that I must resign from a position of public trust to which I was so recently elected; however, in view of the pressure which was brought upon me in connection with the recommendations for appointments to various positions in the county and the way the matter was handled, my conscience would not permit me to do otherwise.

"I am no politician and do not know many of the political leaders in the county, so I did not know most of the applicants for the various positions, and had to rely on the knowledge of the other members of the committee and political leaders who assured me that all of the applicants were beyond a question of a doubt well qualified.

"When I heard of the many letters of protest and petitions which were sent to Governor McKeldin in opposition to some of the persons recommended by the Republican State Central Committee I felt it was high time to conduct my own investigation, which I must admit proved to me that the protests were well founded.

"I learned of numerous trips made to Annapolis by some of the applicants and influential political leaders on their behalf, which in my opinion is not the way a government by the people and for the people should be operated.

Not Included In Deal

"I want my friends and associates to know that my action as a member of the committee was not the result of any deal, or done with the idea of feathering my political nest, so I am sending a copy of this letter to The Cumberland News with a request that it be published. I am also sending a copy of the letter to Governor McKeldin and to Senator Robert B. Kimble.

"This letter is written after much thought and deliberation and I hope that all of the citizens of the county will realize the embarrassing position in which I find myself. I have always been a loyal Republican, and I will continue to be, but I believe that some of the appointments made are so completely unjustified, and will do such harm to the party, that I cannot remain a member of the committee which approved them. At any time I am called on, I will be very glad to serve the best interests of the party."

Wilson was elected to the eight-member committee last September in the Republican primary election. He was to have served a four-year term on that body. Although he has lived in Allegany County all of his life this was the first time he had ever been elected to a public office, he said last night. He has been employed at the Celanese plant about 23 years and is a foreman there.

It was understood that the committee has the authority to appoint a successor to Wilson. Besides Manges and Wilson other committee members are Edgar M. Lewis, vice chairman; James Park, secretary-treasurer; Thomas Elias, Jeremiah T. Defibaugh, Victor M. Hebb and Marshall Van Meter.

Teamsters Win Contract With Astor Cab Firm

Yellow Top Talks To Continue Here

The Astor Cab Company and Local 453, Teamsters Union (AFL), last night reached a contract agreement covering 37 drivers of the firm, C. E. Stutzman, union business agent, announced.

The pact will provide that experienced drivers will get 40 per cent of commissions immediately, with new or inexperienced men working for 35 per cent for their first eight weeks.

The $100 a week needed to qualify for 45 per cent of fares has been reduced to $90 and the qualifying time dropped from one year to six months. Also drivers need not work a sixth day in a week to qualify for the bonus rate.

Stutzman said a contract will be prepared today for signing.

He said the union will continue negotiations with the Yellow Top firm on the basis of the above agreement.

Potomac Park Election To Be Held In April

To Choose Members Citizens Committee

The annual election of the Citizens Committee of Potomac Park will be held in the Potomac Park Community building the first Monday in April.

The Citizens Committee supervises the money collected through taxation for the purpose of street lighting, water and fire protection of the special taxing area.

Persons wishing to register as candidates for offices on the Citizens Committee may register until March 30 on the area's election book which will be at the Potomac Park Grocery Store, according to Edward Shaffer, a member of the committee.

At the last election, held in April, 1950, 148 votes were cast, with 259 persons eligible.

The present Citizens Committee includes Alex Monnett, chairman; John S. Cook, Bruce Thompson, Charles Pfeiffer and Shaffer.

The Potomac Park taxing area was the first of its kind established in Allegany County.

In 1950, a tax of 20 cents on each $100 of assessable property provided $1,300 to meet the costs of the civic improvements.

Violence Erupts Anew In Preston Coal Fields

Caps, Powder Stolen From Area Magazine

Sheriff J. H. Benson of Preston County said last night that warrants for the arrest of pickets involved in the stoning of three cars and a pickup truck carrying miners to work Wednesday morning at 6:45 a. m. were being prepared and will be served today.

Sheriff Benson added that a magazine owned by Joseph Zuwoski was broken into early this week and a large amount of caps and dynamite stolen. It is located at the overhead bridge on Route 26 between Kingwood and Tunnelton. State Police are investigating the incident.

Windows were knocked out of the vehicles and one picket, Dexter Strawser, was arrested at the scene and brought to the Kingwood County Jail. No charges have been preferred.

Owners of the automobiles attacked during the early morning hours Wednesday belonged to Eli Christopher, Kingwood, Gale Williams, Tunnelton and W. D. Matheney, Kingwood, Route 1. The pickup truck was owned by Ralph Miller, Tunnelton.

The cars were stoned as the miners were going to work at the Raymond Hartman Mine on old Route 26, two miles south of Kingwood while the pickup was hit near Snyder's Crossing at the B and C Mine.

Sheriff Benson said someone with a high-powered rifle Tuesday shot several times at an $80,000 power shovel at the stripping operation of W. R. Shirley and Jay Simpson at Lenox. The motor, crankcase, cab and shovel housing were punctured by the shots. No arrests have been reported and the West Virginia State Police are continuing the investigation.

Approximately 30 to 35 carloard of pickets were out yesterday morning but no violence other than the stoning of the four vehicles was reported.

Pair Will Face School Burglary Charge Today

Fletcher Probes Midland Case

A man and woman who allegedly broke into the Midland Elementary School over the past weekend and stole bedding and meat will be charged today with statutory burglary and arraigned in Trial Magistrates Court for preliminary hearings, State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher said last night.

The defendants were identified as Raymond Gallagher, 25, and Mrs. Anna Mae Boor, 32, both of Midland.

They were arrested early Wednesday by Deputy Sheriff William E. Orr, Jr., after a two-day investigation. They were apprehended together in a shack at a mine on Firley's Hill, several miles from the school. They had a mattress, two blankets and two sheets from the school in their possession, the sheriff's office reported.

Gallagher and Mrs. Boor were brought to the Allegany county jail around 1 a. m. Wednesday. They were taken to Fletcher's office yesterday morning for questioning and he said they admitted breaking into the school early Sunday morning. Besides the bedding, which had been supplied for a cot in the school by the PTA, they also took 30 pounds of ground beef, 10 pounds of weiners and a small quantity of bacon.

Discovery that the school had been forcibly entered was made Monday morning by Edward Eisentrout, janitor, when he went to work.

Admitted For Surgery

Lorenzo Valentine, 76, of 1031 Bedford Street, was admitted to Allegany Hospital yesterday afternoon and underwent surgery last night. His condition was reported as fair.

Permit For Gas Station Turned Down

Claimed Violation Of City Ordinance

The Zoning Board of Appeals last night turned down an applicant who sought to build a service station on Louisiana Avenue.

John Riley, 507 Louisiana Avenue, had appealed the action of the City Engineer in refusing to issue a permit to build and operate a gas station on the lot occupied by his home.

In unanimously disapproving the application, members of the Board said the construction of the station would have been a direct violation of the city ordinance, since it would have placed a business in a Residential B district.

Over a dozen residents of the area appeared at the hearing and raised strenuous objections to the construction of a business establishment, saying property values would be affected seriously by the encroachment of business firms.

Petitions bearing the names of 51 opponents and 18 favoring the application were presented to the zoning board.

Among them were Charles Callis, who some time ago was refused a permit to build a service station on the southeast corner of Louisiana Avenue and Hilltop Drive, directly opposite the site sought by Riley.

The board granted a permit to C. W. Viney, 214 Mary Street, to build a three-car garage and apartment on the rear of the lot occupied by his home.

The board said the structure will be built on a 90 by 125 foot lot, adequate for the structure.

Two of the garage spaces will be used for cars and the third for storage, since the home proper does not have a cellar for storage space.

Food Cost Rise Continues In City

The fluctuation of food costs has risen from $8.25 in February 1950 to $9.25 in February of this year. This information was given yesterday by the report of activities of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

Four Additional Civil Defense Areas Set Up

Code Number For County Discussed

Four new defense areas were set up last night at a meeting of the Allegany County Fire Chiefs Association and representatives of fire companies of the surrounding area. The new areas include Bedford, Pa., Hyndman, Pa., and two area industrial plants.

Representatives from Hyndman, Lonaconing, Clarysville, and Wiley Ford Fire Departments attended the meeting and expressed willingness to participate in the Civil Defense Program.

The purpose of the meeting is to stress setting up of defenses in the event of bombing raids and in case of fires to have volunteer fire departments placed so as to provide most effectiveness.

During the meeting last night a code number for Allegany County was discussed. The official armband to be worn by volunteer firemen throughout the county was also shown and discussed.

Fire chiefs of industrial plants are asked to attend the future meetings.

An Executive Board meeting of the Allegany and Garrett County Firemen Association will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 p. m. at District 16 at Oldtown Road. Companies who have not attended similar meetings recently are asked to send representatives.

The next meeting of the Allegany and Garrett County Fire Chiefs Association will be held Wednesday, March 7 at 8 p. m. in Corrigansville Fire Hall. Further plans on Civil Defense will be discussed.

Pfc. Jackson Is Reported Missing

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Jackson, Shaft, received a telegram from the Defense Department Tuesday night stating that her husband, Pfc. William Robert Jackson, 27, has been missing in action in Korea since February 9.

Pfc. Jackson, a veteran of World War II, had three years service, including 23 months in the ETO. Following his honorable discharge, he was in the Army's inactive reserve.

He was recalled to duty October 14 and trained at Camp Campbell, Ky., and at Camp Stoneman, Cal. He arrived in Japan December 23 and six days later in Korea, where he served with the 24th Infantry Division.

A son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jackson, West Main Street, Frostburg, he worked as a first class powder operator at the Allegany Ballistics laboratory prior to his recall to service.

Cobey Urges Adoption Of Home Rule

Police And Firemen Oppose Measure

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 28 (AP) — W. Earle Cobey, city solicitor of Cumberland, today told the legislators that only constitutional home rule could unravel the present "hodgepodge" charter of that city.

He declared before a hearing of the House Judiciary committee that constitutional home rule would be more satisfactory and "stable" than statutory home rule because the form of government chosen by the residents could not be revoked by the state.

A home rule bill for Cumberland was introduced by the Allegany Delegation on Feb. 8. It would amend the constitution to allow election of an 11-member board to draw up a home-rule city charter for referendum by the city's residents.

Constitutional home rule, now practiced in Baltimore City and Montgomery County, involves a governmental charter adopted by referendum. It is authorized by the constitution's "home rule" amendment.

Statutory home rule, in effect in Hagerstown, can be revoked by the legislature at any time. Under that authority Cumberland would only retain its powers, such as the right to tax and fix employe's wages, "at the pleasure of the legislature," Cobey said.

A bill for state-wide constitutional home rule has been studied and may be introduced by House Minority Leader Lofsrand (R-Montgomery).

Cumberland's charter was drawn up in 1815 and was last revised in 1910. The city with a population of almost 38,000 is second only to Baltimire.

Opponents to the bill were headed by Attorney William H. Geppert, representing the city's police and firemen.

He insisted the bill should be amended to provide continuance of civil service.

"Many of the fire and policemen are old," he declared. "They can't go out and get another job. If this bill is passed they would lose any right of redress before the legislature.

"The voters at referendum voted down home rule in 1949. I don't know if they've changed their minds in one and a half years though."

Bills passed included SB114—by Fraley — allowing Garrett County treasurer $200 annually for the secretarial help in making out tax bills.

Settlement Ends Mine Suit

After Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris heard most of the testimony in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday morning, the rival attorneys in a dispute over mine rights informed him after the lunch recess that an out-of-court settlement had been reached.

The suit was brought by Jesse Trimble, part owner of mineral rights in a Mt. Savage area mine, against George Bishields, Mt. Savage coal operator. Trimble is entitled to one-third of a seventh share in the mineral rights of the estate of the late George Thomas Trimble.

Representing Trimble was I. Duke Avnet, Baltimore and Cumberland attorney, while Edward J. Ryan was counsel for the defendant.

Trimble sued for one-twenty-first of the coal royalty profits from a mine leased to Bishields by the heirs of the George Thomas Trimble estate.

Avnet contended in his opening statement that he will prove that Maude Ryan and Mabel Harden, who comprise one-seventh of the Trimble heirs, did not sign the lease.

He also contended that Bishields has not complied with the terms of the lease which call for a seven and one-half per cent royalty on each ton of coal mined, with 25 cents a ton set as the minimum.

Avnet asked the court to derive a just sum for the royalties due Trimble and to enjoin Bishields from operating the mine.

Nine Area Homeowners Ordered By Court To Fix Faulty Sewers

Owners of nine homes along McMullen Highway have been ordered to eliminate the seepage of sewage upon the road.

J. Byron Dowling, state sanitarian, said court orders have been issued to the property owners, requiring that conditions leading to a serious health and safety hazard be corrected within 60 days.

In virtually every case, he said, raw sewage has been seeping down upon the highway due to inadequate or poorly installed septic tanks.

Dowling said 18 other cases of a similar nature along the highway have been corrected voluntarily within the past two months.

The State Roads Commission has cooperated in the drive to halt the flowing of sewage along the highway both because the presence of the sewage is a health hazard and because the raw sewage has created icy spots on the highway which have been a menace to traffic during the winter.

Officials said the situation, most critical along the McMullen Highway exists in at least 150 spots along primary roads of this county.

Progress Is Reported On Bus Contract

Efforts Redoubled To Beat Strike Deadline

BULLETIN

A tentative agreement was reached early this morning on a new bus contract here.

Union officials said they will recommend membership acceptance of the offer.

The pact was to be presented for membership ratification or rejection at a meeting scheduled today at 4 a.m. in Allegany Trades Council Hall.

Some progress was reported late last night as federal and state conciliators redoubled their 11th hour efforts to avert a bus strike threatened today which would cripple local transportation.

Officials of Local 1110, Bus Drivers Union (AFL), and the Cumberland Transit Lines were still holding individual conferences at 10:15 p. m. and were preparing to go back into joint negotiations at any moment.

C. Stanley Clevenger, Winchester, Va., federal conciliator, said some progress was being made.

A union official confirmed the report by saying the talks were "not as stalemated as they were".

Drivers served notice yesterday that a strike would begin this morning if an agreement were not reached.

Explore Possibilities

Clevenger, with James A. Holden, federal conciliation commissioner, and Mrs. Margaret W. Kimble, deputy commissioner of the Maryland Department of Labor and Industry, arranged a number of joint and individual conferences yesterday.

Clevenger said earlier yesterday that both sides were busy exploring every possibility of getting together on a contract.

It was reported that discussion on an annual wage offer of the firm had been deferred in favor of some form of a flat wage increase.

The amount of any wage boost under consideration was not disclosed.

The union negotiators were headed by Frederick Fitzgerald, Belmont, Mass., an international vice president. He was assisted by James Morrison, president; Burr Powell, Harvey May and Lawrence Grim.

Company negotiators were Guy M. Davis, president of the Cumberland Transit Lines; A. J. Hutton, manager, and J. Kenneth Morgan, auditor.

Union Plans Meeting

James H. Morrison, president of Local 1110, said strike sanction was received yesterday from the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric, Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America, AFL.

Seated behind them in the same order are Harvey May, union shop steward; J. Kenneth Morgan, accountant for the bus firm, and Guy M. Davis, president of the transit line. Seated at the rear of the conference table is A. J. Hutton, bus line manager; James A. Holden, federal conciliator; C. Stanley Clevenger, federal conciliator; Mrs. Margaret W. Kimble, deputy commissioner of the Maryland Department of Labor and Industry, and Lawrence Grim, union business agent.

GOP Central Committee Member Resigns Position In Appointments' Protest

Wilson Contends Party May Suffer

Contending that some of the recent appointments recommended by the Republican State Central Committee for Allegany County are unjustified and will harm the party, David Jerome Wilson, Frostburg, resigned from the committee last night.

In a letter to Earl E. Manges, GOP committee chairman, Wilson said, "My conscience would not permit me to do otherwise." Copies of the letter were sent to Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin, State Senator Robert B. Kimble and The Cumberland News.

Manges could not be reached for comment on the letter last night.

Not Specific

Wilson's letter did not mention any specific appointments concerning which he disapproved nor would he identify them publicly when questioned last night.

Wilson's letter:

"Kindly consider this letter as a tender of my resignation as a member of the Republican State Central Committee for Allegany County effective immediately.

"I regret that I must resign from a position of public trust to which I was so recently elected; however, in view of the pressure which was brought upon me in connection with the recommendations for appointments to various positions in the county and the way the matter was handled, my conscience would not permit me to do otherwise.

"I am no politician and do not know many of the political leaders in the county, so I did not know most of the applicants for the various positions, and had to rely on the knowledge of the other members of the committee and political leaders who assured me that all of the applicants were beyond a question of a doubt well qualified.

"When I heard of the many letters of protest and petitions which were sent to Governor McKeldin in opposition to some of the persons recommended by the Republican State Central Committee I felt it was high time to conduct my own investigation, which I must admit proved to me that the protests were well founded.

"I learned of numerous trips made to Annapolis by some of the applicants and influential political leaders on their behalf, which in my opinion is not the way a government by the people and for the people should be operated.

Not Included In Deal

"I want my friends and associates to know that my action as a member of the committee was not the result of any deal, or done with the idea of feathering my political nest, so I am sending a copy of this letter to The Cumberland News with a request that it be published. I am also sending a copy of the letter to Governor McKeldin and to Senator Robert B. Kimble.

"This letter is written after much thought and deliberation and I hope that all of the citizens of the county will realize the embarrassing position in which I find myself. I have always been a loyal Republican, and I will continue to be, but I believe that some of the appointments made are so completely unjustified, and will do such harm to the party, that I cannot remain a member of the committee which approved them. At any time I am called on, I will be very glad to serve the best interests of the party."

Wilson was elected to the eight-member committee last September in the Republican primary election. He was to have served a four-year term on that body. Although he has lived in Allegany County all of his life this was the first time he had ever been elected to a public office, he said last night. He has been employed at the Celanese plant about 23 years and is a foreman there.

It was understood that the committee has the authority to appoint a successor to Wilson. Besides Manges and Wilson other committee members are Edgar M. Lewis, vice chairman; James Park, secretary-treasurer; Thomas Elias, Jeremiah T. Defibaugh, Victor M. Hebb and Marshall Van Meter.

Teamsters Win Contract With Astor Cab Firm

Yellow Top Talks To Continue Here

The Astor Cab Company and Local 453, Teamsters Union (AFL), last night reached a contract agreement covering 37 drivers of the firm, C. E. Stutzman, union business agent, announced.

The $100 a week needed to qualify for 45 per cent of fares has been reduced to $90 and the qualifying time dropped from one year to six months. Also drivers need not work a sixth day in a week to qualify for the bonus rate.

Stutzman said a contract will be prepared today for signing.

He said the union will continue negotiations with the Yellow Top firm on the basis of the above agreement.

Violence Erupts Anew In Preston Coal Fields

Caps, Powder Stolen From Area Magazine

Sheriff J. H. Benson of Preston County said last night that warrants for the arrest of pickets involved in the stoning of three cars and a pickup truck carrying miners to work Wednesday morning at 6:45 a. m. were being prepared and will be served today.

Sheriff Benson added that a magazine owned by Joseph Zuwoski was broken into early this week and a large amount of caps and dynamite stolen. It is located at the overhead bridge on Route 26 between Kingwood and Tunnelton. State Police are investigating the incident.

Windows were knocked out of the vehicles and one picket, Dexter Strawser, was arrested at the scene and brought to the Kingwood County Jail. No charges have been preferred.

Owners of the automobiles attacked during the early morning hours Wednesday belonged to Eli Christopher, Kingwood, Gale Williams, Tunnelton and W. D. Matheney, Kingwood, Route 1. The pickup truck was owned by Ralph Miller, Tunnelton.

The cars were stoned as the miners were going to work at the Raymond Hartman Mine on old Route 26, two miles south of Kingwood while the pickup was hit near Snyder's Crossing at the B and C Mine.

Sheriff Benson said someone with a high-powered rifle Tuesday shot several times at an $80,000 power shovel at the stripping operation of W. R. Shirley and Jay Simpson at Lenox. The motor, crankcase, cab and shovel housing were punctured by the shots. No arrests have been reported and the West Virginia State Police are continuing the investigation.

Approximately 30 to 35 carloard of pickets were out yesterday morning but no violence other than the stoning of the four vehicles was reported.

Pair Will Face School Burglary Charge Today

Fletcher Probes Midland Case

A man and woman who allegedly broke into the Midland Elementary School over the past weekend and stole bedding and meat will be charged today with statutory burglary and arraignied in Trial Magistrates Court for preliminary hearings, State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher said last night.

The defendants were identified as Raymond Gallagher, 25, and Mrs. Anna Mae Boor, 32, both of Midland.

They were arrested early Wednesday by Deputy Sheriff William E. Orr, Jr., after a two-day investigation. They were apprehended together in a shack at a mine on Firley's Hill, several miles from the school. They had a mattress, two blankets and two sheets from the school in their possession, the sheriff's office reported.

Gallagher and Mrs. Boor were brought to the Allegany county jail around 1 a. m. Wednesday. They were taken to Fletcher's office yesterday morning for questioning and he said they admitted breaking into the school early Sunday morning. Besides the bedding, which had been supplied for a cot in the school by the PTA, they also took 30 pounds of ground beef, 10 pounds of weiners and a small quantity of bacon.

Discovery that the school had been forcibly entered was made Monday morning by Edward Eisentrout, janitor, when he went to work.

Permit For Gas Station Turned Down

Claimed Violation Of City Ordinance

The Zoning Board of Appeals last night turned down an applicant who sought to build a service station on Louisiana Avenue.

John Riley, 507 Louisiana Avenue, had appealed the action of the City Engineer in refusing to issue a permit to build and operate a gas station on the lot occupied by his home.

In unanimously disapproving the application, members of the Board said the construction of the station would have been a direct violation of the city ordinance, since it would have placed a business in a Residential B district.

Over a dozen residents of the area appeared at the hearing and raised strenuous objections to the construction of a business establishment, saying property values would be affected seriously by the encroachment of business firms.

Petitions bearing the names of 51 opponents and 18 favoring the application were presented to the zoning board.

Among them were Charles Callis, who some time ago was refused a permit to build a service station on the southeast corner of Louisiana Avenue and Hilltop Drive, directly opposite the site sought by Riley.

The board granted a permit to C. W. Viney, 214 Mary Street, to build a three-car garage and apartment on the rear of the lot occupied by his home.

The board said the structure will be built on a 90 by 125 foot lot, adequate for the structure.

Two of the garage spaces will be used for cars and the third for storage, since the home proper does not have a cellar for storage space.

Four Additional Civil Defense Areas Set Up

Code Number For County Discussed

Four new defense areas were set up last night at a meeting of the Allegany County Fire Chiefs Association and representatives of fire companies of the surrounding area. The new areas include Bedford, Pa., Hyndman, Pa., and two area industrial plants.

Representatives from Hyndman, Lonaconing, Clarysville, and Wiley Ford Fire Departments attended the meeting and expressed willingness to participate in the Civil Defense Program.

The purpose of the meeting is to stress setting up of defenses in the event of bombing raids and in case of fires to have volunteer fire departments placed so as to provide most effectiveness.

During the meeting last night a code number for Allegany County was discussed. The official armband to be worn by volunteer firemen throughout the county was also shown and discussed.

Fire chiefs of industrial plants are asked to attend the future meetings.

An Executive Board meeting of the Allegany and Garrett County Firemen Association will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 p. m. at District 16 at Oldtown Road. Companies who have not attended similar meetings recently are asked to send representatives.

The next meeting of the Allegany and Garrett County Fire Chiefs Association will be held Wednesday, March 7 at 8 p. m. in Corrigansville Fire Hall. Further plans on Civil Defense will be discussed.

Nine Area Homeowners Ordered By Court To Fix Faulty Sewers

Owners of nine homes along McMullen Highway have been ordered to eliminate the seepage of sewage upon the road.

J. Byron Dowling, state sanitarian, said court orders have been issued to the property owners, requiring that conditions leading to a serious health and safety hazard be corrected within 60 days.

In virtually every case, he said, raw sewage has been seeping down upon the highway due to inadequate or poorly installed septic tanks.

Dowling said 18 other cases of a similar nature along the highway have been corrected voluntarily within the past two months.

The State Roads Commission has cooperated in the drive to halt the flowing of sewage along the highway both because the presence of the sewage is a health hazard and because the raw sewage has created icy spots on the highway which have been a menace to traffic during the winter.

Officials said the situation, most critical along the McMullen Highway exists in at least 150 spots along primary roads of this county.

Allies Open Attack On 25-Mile Front

Punch Aimed At Reds North Of Hoengsong

Other U. N. Troops Push Across Han

TOKYO, Thursday, March 1 (AP)—U. S. Marines led a powerful attack today by Allied troops and planes along a 25-mile front in Central Korea against the heart of Chinese Red defenses.

Simultaneously, U. S. Third Division infantrymen on the western front crossed the Han River in assault boats and attacked a two-mile-long sand island southeast of Red-held Seoul.

Both actions met fierce enemy resistance.

Primary purpose of the big central front assault: Make the Chinese either stand and fight or withdraw from the one sector best suited for any enemy counter-offensive.

Purpose of the Third Division action was: Get troops across the southern loop of the Han; establish a bridgehead; then move tanks across the shallow northern loop of the river into flatland southeast of Seoul.

Bitter Opposition

Third Division soldiers ran into hard-fighting Reds near Sinchon on the north side of the island and Chamsil near the southern shore.

The central front assault gained ground despite bitter opposition.

U. S. First Marine Division troops, spearheading the assault, quickly captured 600-foot "clover leaf hill," a strategic height in the Hoengsong area. A Marine spokesman said the attack was progressing on schedule.

The drive by American, British Commonwealth and South Korean troops was aimed at heavily-manned Communist mountain positions north of the road hub of Hoengsong, AP Correspondent Stan Swinton reported from U. S. Eighth Army headquarters.

The 25-mile attack front extended generally eastward from Hoengsong.

The new attack amounted to a westward swing of an Allied punch which earlier in the week crushed North Koreans around Pangnim, 24 miles southeast of Hoengsong.

East of Hoengsong the trackless mountains are unsuitable for any enemy counter-punch. In Western Korea, the flatlands around Red-held Seoul call for commitments of masses of men — easy to spot and slaughter with planes and artillery.

Planes Support Offensive

Clearing weather over the rain-soaked central front enabled swarms of planes to support the new Allied limited offensive.

Other primary aims of the new thrust were to cut enemy supply lines north of Hoengsong to two Chinese divisions and to imperil Hongchon. That Chinese assembly center is 15 air miles northwest of Hoengsong.

Hoengsong, a wrecked no-man's land, was not considered of any military value by the attacking Allies.

Brig. Gen. Lewis B. "Chesty" Puller's First Marine Division smashed into heavy enemy resistance at the outset of the attack.

The leathernecks, moving up both sides of the Twinnam River, struck toward a mountain pass. Through the pass, the main highway leads northwest from Hoengsong to Hongchon.

The Winnam winds just west of Hoengsong southward toward the Han River.

Luciano Is Termed Crime Empire Czar

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP) — Mobsters are using fantastic crime and gambling profits to finance an underground government that could turn subversive and wreck the United States, the Senate Crime Committee reported today.

The crime investigators said the czar of a vast American underworld lives in Italy and is Charles "Lucky" Luciano, deported New York vice overlord. And there is evidence the Mafia, "Black Hand" Sicilian society, also operates here, the report said, and may be the "adhesive" holding gangs together.

Preliminary Report

The 35-page report is a preliminary one. But it said if Americans ever had any doubt that U. S. crime is organized, that doubt is now dispelled by facts the committee has uncovered "over ten months of the most intensive investigation of its kind ever attempted."

It estimated "conservatively" that $20,000,000,000 changes hands every year in organized illegal gambling.

It said the gangsters do not hesitate to use murder, bombing or any other form of violence to eliminate competition. And it said large sums in "ice" — protection money — are used to buy off local and federal officials.

The report added that there is evidence of corruption and connivance at all levels of government. It said bribes, political pressure and threats are used to gain protection.

The committee said it is an inescapable conclusion that an underworld government exists, controlled by the mobsters.

Enforces Its Own Laws

"This phantom government enforces its own law, carries out its own executions and not only ignores but abhors the democratic processes of justice which are held to be the safeguards of the American citizen," the report said.

It added that if not curbed this underworld could become the basis for a subversive movement "which could wreck the very foundations of this country." It said the confidence of millions of citizens in the ability of its government to protect them has already been undermined and many are "ripe for an approach to do the bidding of anyone willing to pay the price."

Russia Cuts Prices Of Food, Other Goods Up To 20%

MOSCOW, Feb. 28 (AP)—The Soviet government announced tonight retail price cuts ranging from 10 to 20 per cent on a list of consumer goods, including bread and meat.

The announcement said Soviet purchasers will save 27,500,000,000 rubles a year on purchases in state stores as a result of the new cuts and the state revenue thus would lose that amount.

"The socialist state is making this sacrifice for the sake of steadily improving the well-being of the people," the announcement said.

This is the fourth such price cut announced in three years. The announcement said the cuts were decided upon by the Soviet government, the Council of Ministers and the Communist Party Central Committee "in connection with the new successes achieved in 1950 in the development of industry and agriculture, in raising labor productivity and lowering production costs."

Prices in restaurants, dining rooms, cafes and similar catering establishments will be reduced in line with the new cuts.

On this same date last year the Soviet Union announced that the ruble was revalued so that its value in terms of gold was the equivalent of 25 American cents. Previously it had been 19 cents. At the same time last year prices were cut from eight to 50 per cent on a list of consumer goods. The year before, in February and in April, 1948, there were other cuts in consumer goods prices.

OPS Director Of Enforcement Orders Probe Of Meat Prices

Will Determine Whether Wholesalers And Packers Complying With Ceilings

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP) — The Office of Price Stabilization tonight threw "all available enforcement manpower" into a nationwide investigation of meat prices to see whether packers and wholesalers are complying with price ceilings.

Edward P. Morgan, the OPS director of enforcement, who ordered the investigation, announced that the agency has received complaints from a "substantial portion" of the meat industry, consisting chiefly of wholesalers, jobbers and non-slaughtering processors.

According to Morgan, the companies have complained that they are being compelled to pay prices from three to five cents a pound higher than those which they paid during the "base period," Dec. 19 through Jan. 25, while their own selling prices have remained frozen at their "base period" levels.

Livestock Ceilings Due

Morgan's announcement came on a day when the Office of Price Stabilization already had announced that "it won't be many days" until price ceilings are ordered on livestock.

How many days, the agency wouldn't predict. An OPS spokesman said the job of fixing livestock ceilings is "tremendously complicated."

Meat is under price controls, but live animals aren't. Slaughterers have been complaining that rising prices for live animals have caught them in a squeeze.

Morgan ordered an "immediate" and "concentrated" effort to uncover any violations that may exist among packers, or wholesalers.

It was the first major investigation to be launched by the OPS, although spot checks have been made here and there.

More Investigators Hired

OPS officials could not say how many investigators now are on the OPS payroll but they said all of the 14 regional offices and 63 district offices have "at least some" enforcement personnel and that investigators are being hired as fast as possible.

An OPS spokesman, when asked whether the term "black market" is justified in connection with the investigation, said he doubts whether the term would be strictly accurate at this stage. He said "a black market implies a knowledge on both sides that the sales are at illegal prices," but actually some people are uncertain as to just what meat ceilings are at present.

Soviet Yes Or No On Japan Sought

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP) — Ambassador John Foster Dulles said today the United States is making another effort to get Russia to go along on a prompt peace settlement with Japan.

If Moscow refuses, Dulles said, the U. S. and friendly governments will make separate settlements with the Japanese.

Dulles, who is President Truman's special treaty envoy, said he has asked for an early meeting with Jacob Malik, Soviet representative at the United Nations. He added he still hopes Russia will take part.

At a State Department news conference following his return from conferences with Japanese leaders, Dulles also:

1. Suggested that if Russia continues to hold back, the U. S. may refuse to recognize the Soviet occupation of the Kurile Islands and the southern half of Sakhalin north of Japan.

2. Charged that Russia, while occupying the Kuriles, has taken over the tiny Habomai island group off the shore of Japanese Hokkaido.

3. Said that present plans are to dispense with a full dress peace conference like the Versailles conference after World War I. Instead, Dulles said, there will be separate treaties between Japan and each of her former foes.

Denise Darcel Admits Marriage Is On Rocks

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 28 (AP)—Actress Denise Darcel, France's gift to the sweater brigade, confirmed today she is seeking legal separation from her wealthy husband, Peter Crosby.

"I guess maybe Peter is too busy, and I'm too busy. My career and my health are in danger," she said in an interview.

The well-rounded actress, currently singing at a Miami Beach night club, admitted that her marriage of less than five months reached a crisis last Saturday when Crosby poured a bottle of champagne over her head in a Manhattan night club.

Senators Scolded For Delaying Vote On Draft Measure

Angry Argument Remains Unsettled

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP)—The Senate quit in a huff tonight after an angry and unsettled argument about when it should stop talking and start voting on the drafting of 18-year-olds and other features of the universal military service and training bill.

Democratic Leader McFarland of Arizona scolded senators of both parties for not staying on the Senate floor to debate and vote on the measure.

"We ought to have passed this bill in two days," McFarland boomed. "It's emergency legislation."

Only a few senators have listened during the two days of debate, and only one major speech—by Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) — was made today.

Irritated By Morse's Offer

At one point McFarland shouted that American soldiers fighting in Korea "are not waiting for a unanimous consent agreement" before they go into action. He was trying to get such an agreement to vote.

The Democratic leader seemed irritated at an offer by Sen. Morse (R-Ore), acting as Republican leader, to reach a final vote on the bill and all its amendments by next Wednesday.

After offering numerous major amendments to the bill, Morse forced a series of delaying quorum calls. Once it was necessary to send the Senate sergeant-at-arms out to round up absent senators in order to get the 49 required to conduct business.

Smiling broadly, Morse disclosed it was McFarland who had first proposed an agreement to vote, mentioning next Tuesday. He said if McFarland was trying to leave the blame for any delay on Morse's doorstep, "I'll kick it off right now."

More Guard Units Face Call

Morse predicted that McFarland's refusal to allow the extra day, from next Tuesday to Wednesday, probably would act to delay the vote beyond then.

During a House hearing on the UMTS bill today, Gen. Lawton Collins, Army Chief of Staff, said two more National Guard divisions conceivably may have to be called into service this year.

Six divisions of the National Guard already are training in active service. Two of them, the 40th of California and the 45th of Oklahoma, leave for Japan next month for occupation and defense duties.

Clay Urges Full Speed On Europe Defense Buildup

Opposes Limitations On Troop Transfer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP) — Gen. Lucius D. Clay said today that if full speed ahead is maintained in building up Western European defenses he's convinced that within a year Russian aggression will "seem unprofitable."

To help build those defenses, Clay said, American troops must be sent abroad without any limitations placed on how many may go.

Clay, now retired from the Army and an assistant to Mobilization Chief Charles E. Wilson, is a former governor of the U. S. zone in Germany. In this job, he bumped into the Russian problem almost daily.

Clay testified before the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees. These committees are considering a resolution by the Senate Republican leader, Wherry of Nebraska, which opposes sending U. S. troops to Europe until Congress has fixed a policy.

Clay was the last witness. The committees go into executive sessions tomorrow to decide what is to be done.

In his testimony, Clay came to a conclusion almost exactly opposite that reached by former President Hoover, who appeared here yesterday.

"No Flying" Sign Out

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP) — Flying over the Nevada testing ground for atomic weapons was forbidden today in an executive order signed by President Truman.

Killing Bureaucrat Over Washington Would Be "Legal"

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP) —A flighty but entirely legal way to kill a bureaucrat was described to the House today by Rep. Keating (R-NY).

"If any member of Congress gets an urge to kill a bureaucrat, or vice versa, he can do so with impunity by taking him up in an airplane over Washington and doing the foul deed there," he said.

Under present laws, the government has no jurisdiction over the air space above the District of Columbia or other federal reservations, Keating said. He introduced legislation to assert that right.

French Cabinet Resigns, Causing Political Crisis

PARIS, Feb. 28 (AP) — The coalition government of Premier Rene Pleven, which has steered France through the first stages of rearming for western defense, resigned tonight because of a deadlock in Parliament over changes in the French election law, a domestic political issue.

The cabinet had been in office 10 days short of eight months. It was France's 16th since the liberation of this nation from the Germans.

President Vincent Auriol reluctantly accepted the resignation after refusing it twice previously within 24 hours. He summoned political leaders promptly for talks on the choice of a successor to Pleven.

Auriol is a Socialist. Pleven, a Breton businessman in private life, is a member of a small splinter group, the Democratic Socialist Union of the Resistance, which is allied with the Moderate Radical Socialists. He formerly was defense minister.

The crisis broke at a critical time for France, the key European country in defense plans of the North Atlantic alliance. She is preparing for a possible Big Four deputies meeting in Paris to open the way for a conference of United States, British, French and Russian foreign ministers on East-West problems.

Auriol is getting ready to leave March 20 for the United States for a state visit to President Truman in a demonstration of American-French friendship. Pleven conferred with President Truman in Washington last month on Atlantic defense questions and flew later to Ottawa for similar talks. On Pleven's return, parliament indorsed his actions, 401 to 172.

Theft Not So Petty

MONTREAL, Feb. 28 (AP) —Antonio Beaudet landed in court today accused of stealing a five-cent newspaper.

Complainant Peter Carol said the alleged theft was not as petty as it might sound. He accused Beaudet of having stolen a five-cent paper from his restaurant every morning since 1944.

Senator Terms Election Probe 'Silly Business'

Baltimore Printer Is Cross-Examined

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP)—A Republican called a Senate investigation of the Maryland senatorial election "silly business" today. Sen. Gillette (D-Ia.) replied that written charges had been filed and the Senate has a constitutional duty to investigate them.

Sen. Welker (R-Ida.) urged the Senate, in a speech, to halt "this whole silly business" as subcommittee members questioned a principal witness for the second day.

William H. Fedder, the witness, was cross-examined on his testimony yesterday that he was taken on a midnight ride and threatened with a "McCarthy investigation" unless he relinquished a letter. He said this letter was written by Sen. Butler, Republican winner of the Maryland contest. Butler defeated former Sen. Tydings, long time Democrat.

Fedder claimed the Butler letter guaranteed payment of bills Fedder expected to submit to Butler headquarters for campaign services. At the time he said he estimated the whole bill would be around $20,000 and he had collected about $8,000, leaving an expected balance of around $12,000 to be guaranteed.

Welker Assails Tydings

Tydings, now on a business trip, has told the committee "unadorned lies," "scurrilous literature" and a "faked" photograph were circulated in the Butler campaign.

Fedder repeated today that he distributed 169,00 copies of a tabloid "From The Record" attacking Tydings. He said he was paid $1,521 for ths job, which was door-to-door delivery. He testified he mailed 134,206 copies at a cost of $586. Tydings has called this tabloid a "tissue of lies".

In his Senate speech Welker called Tydings "the whitewash king" and said he was trying to "smear" Butler.

Grounds For Divorce

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Feb. 28 (AP) —She asked for money to buy groceries, so her husband jammed a 50-cent piece down her throat, a Weehawken woman testified in divorce court today.

Advisory Master David A. Pindar granted Mrs. Sarah Walsh Daly a divorce from the husband, Hubert, on grounds of extreme cruelty.

Boycott Of All Mobilization Units Ordered

Threat Of Future Strikes Is Raised

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP)—Top labor leaders tonight ordered a sweeping boycott of the home front control program, directing union men to "resign immediately" from every government mobilization agency.

The momentous decision dashed hopes that labor's three members will rejoin the dispute-torn Wage Stabilization Board, and indirectly raised the threat of future strikes in industry.

The United Labor Policy Committee—14 top officials of CIO, AFL and other major union groups—announced its unanimous decision after a 4½ hour session today.

Acknowledging "the gravity of this decision," the policy body charged anew that "big business" dominates the mobilization effort, that the several labor men in top federal jobs are used merely as "window dressing."

Wage Formula "Unfair"

Labor men accordingly are resigning from 24 advisory posts and other positions in the defense agencies, including the military, the committee announced. They include AFL President William Green and CIO President Philip Murray, who have advisory roles.

Explaining its action, the committee declared the new 10 per cent ceiling on wage increases is "unfair, unworkable and unjust." It was issued last night simultaneously, the labor heads said, with a price order under which "business is being allowed to write its own ceiling prices."

Labor will not resume its place on the wage board, the committee decreed, until the board is entirely "reconstituted."

The unionists, who have tried vainly to get manpower authority vested in Secretary of Labor Tobin instead of Charles E. Wilson, director of the Office of Defense Mobilization, went on:

"So long as the control of manpower rests in the ODM, no American wage or salary earner may feel safe that the big business clique in control of that agency may not suddenly seek to achieve a compulsory draft of the nation's workers."

Heat On Johnston

The labor policy group's action—a virtual declaration of war on the Truman administration's mobilization setup under Wilson—had these immediate effects:

1. The wage board, shorn of its labor representation, could not act immediately on liberalizations of the 10 per cent wage formula as recommended by Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston.

2. As a result, strike threats grew in key industries like autos and electrical products. Unless the changes are made, some workers will not get the full benefit of cost-of-living "escalator" clauses. Some contracts call for paycheck readjustments as of tomorrow.

3. The heat was turned on Stabilizer Johnston to order the revisions on his own responsibility. He has taken the stand that only a tripartite, labor-industry-public board should make such vital decisions.

4. In view of the vast breach disclosed between labor and ODM Chief Wilson, it became probable that President Truman might have to step in—and possibly order Wilson to reshape the mobilization high command.

Committee To Quiz Actor And Actress

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 28 (AP) — Actor Howard Da Silva and Actress Gale Sondergaard said today they have been served with subpoenaes to appear before the House Un-American Activities Committee in Washington March 21.

The committee has announced it is making another investigation into Communist influences in the movie capital.

Moves Develop To Extend Md. Sales Tax, Withhold Income Tax At Source

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 28 (AP) — Moves to extend the sales tax and catch up on income tax evaders to raise more money for school teachers and state employes developed in the Legislature today.

Senate Majority Leader Goldstein (D-Calvert) said he would recommend a hike in the sales tax on several commodities to bring in enough money to give each school teacher a pay raise of at least $300 a year.

And a proposal to increase the revenues from the state income tax by withholding it at the source gained support in the House Ways and Means Committee.

Majority Leader Boone (D-Baltimore County), who is also chairman of the powerful Ways and Means group, estimated payroll deductions for state income taxes at the source would add some $4,000,000 to returns by snaring those who up to now have paid no tax.

Goldstein said $4,794,000 would be available for school teacher raises by these sales tax revisions:

1—Making the tax applicable to restaurant meals costing over $1.25, to bring in $547,000. All food sales are now exempt from the tax.

2—Placing the exemption base on sales of alcoholic beverages at 14 cents. The base is now 50 cents on all items. He estimated this would add $1,997,000 to annual sales tax revenues.

3—Making the tax applicable to sales of cigarets through vending machines, $1,500,000.

4—Imposing it on rentals of calculating machines, $500,000.

5—Instituting a companion use tax on machinery bought outside the state for use in Maryland, $500.

Delegates To Use Voting Machine

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 28 (AP) — Delegates today ordered an electric machine installed in the House to record their votes.

They adopted a resolution by nine members to set up an $86,000 push-button system next year. The committee had figured, among other things, it would encourage attendance at General Assembly sessions.

600 Marines Due Home Next Week Under Rotation Plan

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 28 (INS) —The Marine Corps announced tonight that the first unwounded veterans of the Korean war to be returned to the United States under a new rotation program will arrive in San Francisco next Monday.

Six hundred leathernecks, selected because of length of time in combat, number of dependents and other factors, will dock aboard the military transport General Breckinridge March 5.

The announcement came from Maj. Gen. Graves B. Erskine, commanding general of the Marines' Department of the Pacific. It was the first indication that the rotation program, announced only four days ago, was already under way.

The Army has expressed the hope it too can get a rotation system started shortly.

President Has Legal Right To Run For Senate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP) — Congressional experts gave an off-the-cuff opinion today that President Truman has a legal right to run for his old Senate seat in 1952 if he wishes—even thought he'll still be President then.

They dug into the question after rumors cropped out that Mr. Truman would like to return to the Senate at the end of his present term.

So far as they can find, the President would be shattering precedent—but he would be acting within his legal rights to run for the Senate before giving up the presidency.

These experts—who work with members of Congress—asked that their names not be used. But they noted that Warren G. Harding ran for the presidency while still a member of the Senate. Harding won the election in 1920 and resigned from the Senate to enter the White House.

Why, the experts ask, couldn't this situation be reversed?

Two presidents have left the chief executive's office and later returned to Congress. But neither of them ran for office while still president.

John Quincy Adams was elected president by a vote of the House in 1824. He failed to win re-election in 1828—but he came back to Congress in 1831 and served eight terms.

Then, Andrew Johnson went into the White House after the assassination of President Lincoln. He was beaten for the nomination at the next GOP convention but he was elected to the Senate in 1875.

Phone Company Gives Immigrant $1,050 "Refund"

NEW YORK, Feb. 28 (AP)—Hersch Bornstein, 31, an immigrant peddler, got a "refund" of $1,050 today from the telephone company.

Bornstein recently moved into an apartment and hid the $1,050, his savings, in the telephone box left by a previous tenant.

Bornstein did not become a telephone subscriber himself, so telephone men came and removed the phone. The peddler was not home at the time.

When he discovered the loss, he notified the telephone company. The box was opened and the money found. It was returned after he identified himself at a police station.

Order To Close 321 VA Offices Cancelled

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP) — Veterans Administrator Carl R. Gray said today he has cancelled an order that would have closed 321 VA one-man contact offices April 1.

Only 74 of the offices are to be closed now, Gray told an American Legion rehabilitation conference. It has not been decided which offices will be closed.

Gray said Jan. 30 that 321 offices where only one contact representative was assigned would be closed because of budgetary limitations.

Gray appealed to the American Legion for help in getting qualified professional personnel for veterans hospitals.

Nurses Testify At Collazo Trial

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP)—A hospital nurse testified today that Oscar Collazo told her he wanted to kill President Truman when he and a companion attempted to storm Blair House last Nov. 1.

Another nurse said Collazo told her "he had been in a shooting—that he had to do shooting for political reasons."

Middle-aged Mrs. Gertrude Buxbaum, the first of the two Emergency Hospital nurses to take the witness stand, also told a federal court jury trying Collazo for his life that the little Puerto Rican Nationalist was "very calm" when taken to the hospital shortly after the shooting. He had been wounded.

The testimony that Collazo said he "had to do a shooting for political reasons" came from Mrs. Mildred Caulfield, supervisor of the hospital's emergency room.

Mrs. Buxbaum testified she asked Collazo whether he wanted to kill the President.

"He said 'yes'," she testified. She asked him why, Mrs. Buxbaum added, and Collazo said "he had to because he was a Puerto Rican Nationalist and wanted his country to be free the same as this country. He said we did the same thing to the British."

Giant Jet Bomber Leaves Honolulu

HONOLULU, Feb. 28 (AP)—The U. S. Air Force's giant six-jet B-47 bomber left Hickam Field at 8:38 a. m. (1:38 p. m., EST) today, destination unannounced.

The big Boeing Stratojet—big as a Superfortress and as fast as a fighter plane—roared low over Honolulu and disappeared to the east.

As was the case when the bomber arrived here Feb. 22, the Air Force kept silent as to the plane's movement.

Civilian observers said when the plane arrived last week that it probably had set a new record of less than six hours for the mainland-to-Hawaii crossing.

Ban On Red Cross Emblem Is Lifted

GENEVA, Feb. 28 (AP) — The League of Red Cross Societies said today the ban imposed by Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters on wearing of the Red Cross emblem in Korea has been lifted.

The league has recruited medical welfare teams from Canada, Denmark, Great Britain and the United States, at the request of the United Nations, for work among the civilian population of Korea. When members of the teams reached Tokyo they were informed they would not be permitted to wear their Red Cross emblems.

The league then protested to the United Nations.

City Recreation Department Issues Call For Workers

The Recreation Department issued its first call yesterday for playground and pool workers for the summer season.

Edmund P. Hoey, recreation director, emphasized that previous playground workers must also make new applications for jobs.

Interviews will be conducted by the Recreation Board and there is a possibility the Civil Service Commission may be asked to hold examinations, Hoey said.

Approximately 25 playground workers and 10 pool workers will be employed, the director added.

This represents a cut in the number of Recreation Department employes during the summer in a move to save money, Hoey said.

A call was made for a playground director and a new position, junior recreation assistant.

The playground director would have full charge of a playground's program, personnel, administration, maintenance of facilities and neighborhood relations.

His qualifications should include sufficient skill in and appreciation of all activities conducted at a playground to develop a well-balanced program; a practical knowledge of leagues, games, tournaments, exhibits, demonstrations and entertainments and a skill in at least one of the following: athletics, dramatics, story-telling, organized games, social recreation, informal discussion, nature study, folk dancing, music, handicraft and ability to work intelligently with parents and neighborhood leaders. Knowledge of first aid is also considered a qualification.

At least two years' experience as a playground or playfield director or assistant, recreation leader, specialist, teacher or worker in a closely-allied field, at least one year

Helping The Rebels

If revolt has broken out in Red China, as has been reported by various sources, it is to be hoped it is genuine, important and infectious. But at the same time it is necessary that Americans be prepared for disappointment and to recognize the difficulties involved in trying to help the Chinese people throw off Communist rule.

A Peiping announcement refers to thousands of "cadres," which is the regime's term for political workers, being killed—more than 3,000 in Kwangsi alone. The announcement says that sabotage and other kinds of subversive activities have increased. In many cases railways and bridges have been destroyed, factories and mines damaged, warehouses set afire.

The Peiping announcement confirms reports of guerilla warfare by pro-Nationalist groups that are said to number hundreds of thousands of armed men.

But these admissions were made in extending the death penalty to a long list of "counter-revolutionary offenses" committed by "those who work with imperialism against the fatherland." For instance, those who harbor and protect counter-revolutionaries can now be put to death. So can persons found guilty of stirring up disunity, disturbing financial markets, and inciting resistance to army and labor service orders or even tax collection.

The new decree is so broad that the regime can now put out of the way anybody who makes trouble. Another purge is certainly coming, whether the revolution is real or not. The Chinese Communists are following a familiar pattern and they have now reached the point where they are ready to tighten their deadly grip still further.

There is no doubt this move has been forced by what has happened in Korea. Arthur Moore, a British journalist in India who has just spent a month at Peiping for a New Delhi paper, writes that the war in Korea "is already somewhat of a surprise" to the Chinese Reds. He adds: "The casualties are much greater than they expected. The hospitals in Manchuria are unequal to the influx and hospitals in Peiping are heavily denuded of nurses, as they have gone to the front." He refers also to the problem of supply, which is difficult because gasoline is short.

If there is an incipient revolution in China, General MacArthur is helping it along in Korea.

Three-Cent Letter Mail

One thing at least doesn't cost any more today than it did a century ago—letter mail. One hundred years ago this coming Saturday, Congress fixed three cents as the cost of sending a letter up to 3,000 miles. It was three cents for one-half ounce in 1851 as compared to one ounce today.

Almost 70 years ago, in 1883, the letter rate was reduced to two cents. It went up to three cents for a time during World War I, then reverted to two cents, went to the present three-cents charge during the depression of 1932. For about ten years, however, the rate was two cents for local letters—that is, those for delivery within the area served by the post office of mailing.

Letter ("first-class") mail, accounting for about 45 per cent of all postal receipts, is the only category of mail matter that shows a profit in the Post Office Department's financial breakdown. The Administration is again urging Congress to raise rates other than those for letters, so as to meet 70 per cent of the postal deficit estimated at $521,000,000 in 1951-52.

The pre-1851 letter rates seem utterly fantastic today. In 1789 the charge was determined by distance, with weight disregarded—7.4 cents up to 60 miles, 11.1 cents for 60-100 miles, 14.8 cents for 100-200 miles, 3.4 cents for each additional 100 miles. It cost 59 cents to send a letter from Boston to New Orleans.

There was no delivery service at first, but in 1794 one was set up at two cents the letter. In 1810 the rates were sharply reduced to a maximum of 25 cents, but were still graded only by distance; in 1845 weight as well as distance was taken into account for the still lower rates then in effect.

Atom Propulsion

Newsmen who were on the spot following a briefing last week of the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy by AEC experts said there was quiet jubilation all over the place. The reason was that work on an atomic propulsion plant for one of the Navy's submarines was getting along much better than expected.

A bit more was added to what little was known of the project by a speech at Rochester, N. Y., by AEC Commissioner Sumner T. Pike. Briefly, he said the design for two "practical, though expensive" propulsion units is almost completed and one of them is partially built. He added it shouldn't be too many years before one or both of them should be operating in a submarine.

While atomic power in a submarine is a strictly military development, it follows that atomic power automatically becomes a possibility for surface ships, and for peacetime applications.

But think of a submarine, or any ship, being able to cruise endlessly and at will uninhibited by such vital considerations as fuel supplies! A helpful scientist has figured out that a teaspoonful of atomic substance will be the equivalent of several million times the same amount of ordinary propulsion fuel.

Add to this the fact that the portable atomic pile may be self-regenerating. Man has come in sight of the ultimate: Harnessed perpetual motion!

Defense And Socialism

Taxpayers should keep their eyes peeled for any attempt by the Administration to make the defense program the means of political promotion. The nation should not be called upon to swallow political nostrums offered in the name of national defense when they can have no bearing on the objective sought.

Having failed in the past to put across such fair-deal schemes as socialized medicine, and others, the Administration is just slick enough to revive the demand in the name of national welfare in time of war.

As burdensome as increased taxes will prove to be, the people will pay them so long as they are in behalf of national defense and preparedness. But the taxpayers are in no mood to further finance national socialism at a time when their dollars are needed for more important matters.

To paraphrase an old challenge: "Millions for defense but not one cent for socialism."

Keeping up appearances and keeping down expenses is getting harder all the time.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Vein and Lymph Obstruction

SWELLING of the legs is not an unusual occurrence among women in the summer time, especially those who are on their feet most of the day. This puffiness is not necessarily serious; it does not imply that the circulation is impaired. Furthermore, there are no after-effects.

However, not all swellings of the lower extremities are so innocuous. The cause may be obstruction of the main vein of the involved leg stemming from a clot (thrombophlebitis). Inflammation is the usual cause. The condition formerly was called "milk leg" because in bygone days it was so common after childbirth, but it develops also after injury or surgery of the lower abdomen or pelvic organs. If these factors do not play a role, and the disorder appears spontaneously, a focus of infection in the throat, tonsils, or teeth is suspected.

The early manifestations of thrombophlebitis are those of infection. Mrs. Jones, for example, was recuperating nicely from her operation when she began to run a slight temperature. Because she was in bed there was no swelling and the only clew to the origin of the fever was tenderness of the calf of the left leg over the large vein. Had she been allowed to get up and walk around, puffiness would have appeared.

Phlebitis demands expert care. The best results are obtained when the victim goes to bed and keeps the leg elevated on at least one pillow. Heat is soothing and the sulfonamides or antibiotics often overcome the infection within a few days. Anticoagulants like heparin or dicumarol are used frequently to check the spread of the disease. A bandage or elastic stocking must be worn meanwhile to prevent the leg from swelling permanently.

• — • — •

Obstruction of the lymph vessels also is a common cause of edema of the legs. These passageways convey vital tissue juices in which the cells are bathed. They are located all over the body but in the extremities are most prevalent in the layers between the skin and the muscles. Infection produces puffiness and when an entire leg is involved it often doubles in size. The skin is taut and in the early stages, pressure with the fingers or thumb usually leaves indentations. Later this may not occur because the tissues become fibrous in consistency. Lymphangitis also may occur spontaneously but usually follows injury or infection. Occasionally ringworm of the feet is the culprit. The boys who were stationed in the South Pacific will never forget the type caused by filariasis. In some areas, the natives had elephantiasis; the affected leg was so monstrous it resembled an elephant's.

Treatment with bandages and medicines is much the same as in thrombophlebitis. The swelling is more than a cosmetic handicap. The involved extremity is heavy to lug around and whenever it is injured a painful, stubborn ulcer is likely to form. If swelling continues to increase despite the best remedies, surgery sometimes is utilized. This is a tedious procedure which is not recommended too frequently because it leaves scars and disfigurements.

TOMORROW: Varieties of thyroid disease.

VITAMIN OVERDOSAGE

H. J. writes: Could overdosage of vitamins prove poisonous? If so what are the symptoms?

REPLY

Excessive amounts of most of the vitamins are eliminated. To my knowledge, only A and D overdosage can prove toxic. D is the chief culprit because too much removes calcium from the bones and tissues and deposits the mineral in the kidneys. Other symptoms include nausea, vomiting diarrhea, loss of appetite, headache, lassitude, and frequent urination. Hypervitaminosis A is extremely uncommon but when it occurs there is extreme dryness of the skin and hair, itching, a yellowish discoloration, poor appetite, weakness, and painful extremities.

• — • — •

TERMINOLOGY

M. R. writes: Is Bang's disease in cattle also called brucellosis?

REPLY

Brucellosis is being used by an increasing number of veterinarians to refer to Brucella abortus, or Bang's disease, in cattle. The Brucella organisms are responsible for infection in animals and humans.

• — • — •

LUMP CONTOUR

Mrs. D. writes: Can a physician tell from the shape (pointed or round) of a lump on a joint whether it is malignant?

REPLY

No. Malignant and benign tumors come in all shapes and sizes. Location is important. Small swellings on the joints above the finger nails, for example, usually are caused by arthritis and are not cancerous.

Visit To Turkey-Bulgaria Iron Curtain Shows It's Really Rusty Barbed Wire; Barley Fields Are Green On Both Sides Of Curtain Here

Says DREW PEARSON

ALONGSIDE THE IRON CURTAIN, ADRIANOPLE, Turkey — Winston Churchill's well-coined phrase "the iron curtain" has now become so universal that some people really believe the Soviet border is encased in iron. Actually, however, the curtain is made of barbed wire—and rusty barbed wire at that.

This writer visited the southernmost segment of the iron curtain today at a spot where Democratic Turkey and Communist Bulgaria meet. This border is the start of a long tangled barricade zigzagging north past Hungary, Austria, Czechoslovakia, Germany and Poland. And though the fields of winter barley are just green on both sides of this barbed-wire barricade, it might just as well have been made of iron as far as free exchange of human intercourse is concerned.

I drove up to the curtain in a jeep with Captain Fethi Seckin and Lieutenant Ali Akoz of the Turkish Army. The latter is in command of a ten-man detachment guarding the Kaprikule outpost. The road leading to the curtain was paved with centuries-old stone and beside the road were Roman wells built by Emperor Adrian. But the traffic leading to the barbed-wire curtain, aside from an ox team pulling a John Deere disc drill, a tribute to the Marshall Plan, was nil.

Suddenly the road ended. Ahead was an iron gate bearing that international English word known to every tongue: "Stop." Beyond it was another gate slightly rusty and delapidated bearing the words "Bulgaria" in both French and Cydrillic. This was the iron curtain and the place which Turks call Serhad, which significantly has two meanings: The frontier and the neckline where one's head is chopped off.

Alongside the gate was a series of blockhouses—one on the Bulgarian side, a little shabby with some of its windowpanes missing, and two on the Turkish side, both new and orderly. One Turkish blockhouse—set back from the iron gate but connected with it by a series of trenches—housed troops.

I climbed stairs inside the thick-walled parapet to the tower on top of which a Turkish soldier stood scanning the langscape through field glasses. Through his glasses we could see a Bulgarian guard in the tower on the opposite side of the iron curtain scrutinizing us. From time to time he would run to the telephone evidently to notify headquarters about our party. Aside from this, there was almost no movement on the frontier. The sturdy walls, pierced with rifle slots, looked down on nothing more than the winter barley fields and the long, long barricade of barbed wire extending north.

Prisoners Escape

A herd of water buffalo grazed in the distance. They did not know the difference between communism or democracy, between Russianized Bulgaria or Turkey—to which the Truman doctrine is supplying arms and Marshall Plan aid. They only knew that the grass was just as green on either side.

"Sometimes," remarked Captain Seckin, "sheep or buffalo get under the wire and cross to the Bulgarian side and the Communists shoot them. Our farmers get no chance to herd them back." Sometimes, also, I learned, Bulgarian political prisoners sneak through the barbed wire at night to give themselves up to Turkish authorities. This happens at the rate of two or three times per month and they tell a story of harassment and political suppression in what once was a relatively democratic country.

Climbing down from the watchtower we moved closer to the iron curtain to the second Turkish building. This one was just six feet from the gate separating the two countries.

On rare occasions an official with a properly visaed passport is permitted to pass through this gate and customs officials are kept on the Turkish side to handle such transits. We sat down a few feet from the gate to drink coffee with the customs officials. The weather was cold but the sun was warm, and I pulled my chair out onto a stone platform in the sunshine in full view of the Communist guards peering down through rifle slots in their watchtower 50 feet away.

I don't know and never will know what they thought of the stranger—the civilian dressed in western clothes who sat and drank coffee just below them. I don't even know whether they recognized me as an American but the Turkish guards, who watched them from the tower with their field glasses, reported that, on the opposite side of the curtain, there was more scurrying and more frantic telephoning back to their headquarters.

However, the sun was warm and the coffee delicious and we lingered talking about the days when the army of Sultan Beyazid battled with the armored knights of the Polish king and the grand marshal of France in the days of the crusades across these same barley fields before the gates of Adrianople.

Battle For Adrianople

For hundred of years men had fought to control this gateway to the Bosporus and they were still fighting. But the big question is would another war start actively this spring? Would the Russians attack before Eisenhower has a chance to strengthen the armies of Western Europe, before an American-equipped Turkish army becomes stronger, before Marshal Tito further solidifies his hold on Yugoslavia? That is a question discussed in the chanceries and the coffee houses of the Near East and that is a question I came to Europe to try to answer.

Talking about it I drove back to Adrianople, drove back over an age-old blood-soaked battlefield now planted in barley by oxen and John Deere disc drills—a battlefield sure to be one of the first points of attack if war comes.

MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

As Of March 1

WASHINGTON

TOMORROW these reporters will separate again for some months, one to make an expedition of inquiry in Western Europe, the other to hold the fort in this dreary city. It seems a good time to try to take stock—to observe the flight of starlings over the capital, to trace the veining of the luncheon calves' liver, to consult the bunion that foretells bad weather, and by these sooth-sayer's devices, to answer the great question, "doom or no doom, war or peace?"

Two things are clear about the last three months. On the one hand, it is clear that in December the masters of the Kremlin were actively preparing new aggressions, both in the Far East and in Europe. The physical preparations for attacks on Indo-China by a "liberation army," and on Yugoslavia by the surrounding satellites, were being pushed forward with all haste. The logical conclusion, glumly reached by the leaders of most of the Western governments, was that attacks on Yugoslavia and Indo-China were planned and would shortly be launched.

On the other hand, the situation has not developed in quite this simple manner. The tempo of preparation has slackened, although the Kremlin only needs to give the signal for both the Yugoslav and Indo-Chinese operations to begin. Certain other decidedly ominous signs have been given—for example, the heavy reinforcement of the Soviet garrison on Sakhalin Island, combined with the remarks on the Korean War in Stalin's interview, can quite possibly mean that the Kremlin intends to rescue its Chinese vassals from their difficulties in Korea by directly intervening in the war in the Far East.

At the same time, the Western leadership has not been so idle as one might have expected from the condition of paralysis and division that prevailed in December. Lieutenant General Ridgway and his men have decisively turned the balance of the Korean fighting—at least unless and until the Soviets intervene. Strong diplomatic measures have been taken by London and Washington, to show the Kremlin that Yugoslavia cannot be attacked with impunity.

Atmosphere Not as Tense

Above all the great military asset of the West, the American atomic stockpile, has at least been unfrozen. All sorts of steps have been taken to convince the Kremlin that any new aggression anywhere will carry with it the terrible risk of immediate destruction of Russia's vital centers.

Over-all, despite the ominous new signs above mentioned, the present atmosphere is decidedly less tense, distinctly more hopeful, than it was in December. The wave of despair that engulfed the leadership in Washington (and in most other Western capitals) after the Chinese intervention in Korea, has at least subsided. The hope that the deterrents which are being so carefully paraded may actually do their work, is now rather generally held.

If it is permissible to make a guess—and one can only guess—the masters of the Kremlin seriously intended to launch the Yugoslav and Indo-Chinese operations when the preparations for these attasks were first noted. December, after all, was their good time, when it was natural for them to plan boldly. If one may guess further, the developments in the interval have persuaded them that the game is not worth the candle, and they have therefore adopted new tactics.

The first installment of these tactics is now only too visible. All the signs suggest that the Conference of Foreign Ministers of the Big Four, which has been the subject of so long an exchange of notes, is to be the scene of a final, grandiose attempt to split the Western alliance. No one can say how far the Kremlin will be willing to gamble the positions it now holds in Germany and elsewhere in order to divide Britain, France and the United States. Equally, no one can say whether the United States, Britain and France may not be able to turn the Kremlin's gamble to good diplomatic advantage. But while no one can foresee the Soviet methods, the Soviet aim is perfectly plain—split the West for good and all, and thus achieve the great objective,

New Presidential Tenure Law Termed Clumsy Job

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 — The American people have demonstrated that, when they want to do so, they can amend the Constitution rather quickly. But by limiting presidential tenure to two terms of four years each, a clumsy job has been done instead of a thorough streamlining of the whole system of presidential elections.

It was Woodrow Wilson who, when he was president-elect, on February 5, 1913, told Congress that limitation of presidential tenure was wrong. He wrote as follows:

"Four years is too long a term for a president who is not the true spokesman of the people, who is imposed upon and does not lead. It is too short a term for a president who is doing, or attempting a great work of reform and who has not had time to finish it."

Advocated Single Term

At that time the Democratic party had inserted in its 1912 platform a plank advocating a single term of six years and no re-election. Mr. Wilson had been asked by a House committee for his views, and he stated for the first time formally what had been his belief for years—namely, that the United States should adopt some system of responsible government which would make a president's term depend upon the will of the people expressed at intervals of perhaps two years or less.

"Why in such circumstances," said Mr. Wilson, "should he (the president) be responsible to no one for four long years? All the people's legislative spokesmen in the House of Representatives and one third of their representatives in the Senate are brought to book every two years; why not the president, if he is to be the leader of the party and the spokesman of policy.

"Sooner or later, it would seem, he must be made answerable to opinion in a somewhat more informal and intimate fashion—answerable, it may be, to the houses he seeks to lead, either personally or through a cabinet, as well as to the people for whom they speak. But that is a matter to be worked out—as it inevitably will be—in some natural American way which we cannot yet even predict."

After making this plea for a system which resembles somewhat the parliamentary form in vogue in Canada, Australia, Great Britain and many other democracies, Mr. Wilson gave as his second choice a two-term tenure as opposed to a single six-year term. He said:

"Put the present customary limitation of two years into the Constitution, if you do not trust the people to take care of themselves, but make it two terms—not one, because four years is often too long—and give the president a chance to win the full service by proving himself fit for it."

Could Be Embarrassing

It must be remembered that in the 1912 campaign, from which Mr. Wilson had just emerged the victor over a split Republican party—with President Taft and former President Theodore Roosevelt as the opposing candidates—the Democrats had for the first time in history made a campaign against the third-term idea. Vice President Theodore Roosevelt had succeeded the assassinated president, William McKinley, in September, 1901, and then was elected in 1904 for a four-year term, so he really had served about three years and six months of one term and four years of another. The Democrats argued that, even though a four-year interval had elapsed since Mr. Roosevelt left the presidency in March 1909, it would mean that the same individual would occupy the office of chief executive for what was then considered to be a "third term." Theodore Roosevelt was often referred to in that campaign as the "third term" candidate.

If the Democratic party is thinking about nominating Mr. Truman again, they will find embarrassing the position taken in 1912 on the subject of giving a vice president three terms.

This correspondent has always argued against a limitation of tenure for presidents on the theory that, if any constitutional change were made, it should be toward a responsible system which would enable the people to remove a president when he lost their confidence. Under such a plan elections could be held just the same at regular intervals.

Congress also should be subjected to the same power of the people to elect all of their legislators at least once every two years. The late Mackenzie King served as premier of Canada for 21 years but his service was not consecutive and he could have been ousted at any time by the Canadian Parliament or by the people.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Watch That Inflation!

THE REALLY big problem that this country faces today is inflation, which means that money is constantly being cheapened, so that prices go up because it costs more money to buy a given item. Sound money is usually based on gold; inflated money gives the possessor the "feeling" of having plenty while actually he has less because he has less purchasing power.

"Political Action of the Week"—Organ of the CIO-PAC—does not fear inflation. In fact, in its February 5 issue, it points out that the "freeze" orders are a fake and does so very clearly:

"WATCH for a series of revisions setting the 10 per cent-above-last-June standard for wages. The first of these cleared the way for the raises. Another set of orders is due to open the way for cost-of-living raises and there are good prospects for the same sort of action on pension payments and other items. At present these are frozen, the same as bonuses, vacation and holiday pay, and higher rates for night shifts. The difference is that the cost of living raises lag several months behind higher prices and thus do not cause them. Pension and similar payments are actually money taken out of the buyers market. But higher pay for vacations and other benefits goes right into people's pockets ready to be spent."

While none of this has yet happened quite as indicated here, the fact is that such an arrangement would have pleased the CIO, and when it does happen, they will be temporarily contented, even though every increase in prices, wages, rents, profits is not an increase in value but a boost to the inflation. The old adage "whatever goes up, must come down" could hit this country with such a bang that it might be more disastrous than war.

The real trouble is that we all want more money, and we are accustomed to think in terms of currency rather than in terms of purchasing power. The housewife tells you that a $10 bill flies over the butcher's counter as though it had wings, and then she wants her husband to ask for more wages. That is human nature without the restraints of disciplined thinking.

More money can be less money, if the purchasing power of the dollar goes down. The statement: "The difference is that the cost of living raises lag several months behind higher prices and thus do not cause them. Pension and similar payments are actually money taken out of the buyers market. But higher pay for vacations and other benefits goes right into people's pockets ready to be spent."

Prices rise on trends in the marketplace, because the merchant or manufacturer must calculate replacement costs as well as future buying and therefore tries to set his price so that he does not get stuck when he has to pay more for what he needs to sell. Of course, sometimes a trend is misunderstood, and also buyers' resistance can set in and the merchant is caught with goods on his hands which he cannot sell. That could, over a period, break him.

It is true that "higher pay for vacations and other beenfits goes right into people's pockets ready to be spent," but this precisely is the inflationary process. The volume of money increases; the value of money decreases. That is inflation. This is complicated by the very intricate transaction which is involved in the quarrel between the Treasury and the Federal Reserve Board.

It would seem to me that the labor leaders would devote themselves to a deflationary program at this time. Their members cannot benefit from faked increases during an inflationary period, even if increases give the impression of wonderful successes for the labor leaders.

But such successes, while personally gratifying, can in no way safeguard the value of the dollar which the worker earns, or anybody else's dollar, for that matter. And our task

Fellowship Of Prayer

Daily Lenten Devotional

WITH THE RICH YOUNG RULER

One thing thou lackest
Mark 10:21.

Read Matthew 19:13-22

On the surface there did not seem to be anything lacking in this young man. Perhaps, however, as he grew older and pondered upon the day he had been challenged to come within the fellowship of Jesus, he began to wish he could stand there again. If so, then began a bit of hell for him.

"Hell begins," said Gian-Carlo Menotti at a Town Hall meeting last Lenten season, "on the day when God grants us a clear vision of all we might have achieved, of all the gifts which we have wasted, of all that we might have done which we did not do. The poet shall forever scream the poems which he never wrote; the painter will be forever obsessed by visions of the pictures which he did not paint; the musician will strive in vain to remember the sounds which he failed to set down on paper. There are a few artists whom I can imagine resting in heavenly peace: Leonardo, Michelangelo, Goethe, and a few minor artists who have merited that peace. But for the weak, the lazy, the damned — their torture shall be the more horrible in proportion to the greatness of the genius they have wasted. For me the conception of hell lies in two words: Too late."

Let Us Pray: O God, when the vision stands clear before us, may we follow the gleam and not delay. May we not lack the one thing that keeps us out of the kingdom of God. Amen.

A Cup of Milk and You...

The idea here is so simple a ten-year boy (or girl) could write this ad. You get the Cake Mix with Pillsbury on the front of the box at your grocery store. You get the milk out of the icebox. You get the you into it by reminding yourself that you can now make cakes (white or chocolate fudge) as glamorous, spellbinding and delicious as the one you see here. See what we mean by Pillsbury, a cup of milk and you? Shouldn't you do something about it?

Remember—You and Ann Pillsbury can make a great team

WASHINGTON

A MAN named Brodie stopped a brodie . . . Norris Poulson, representative from California, got a letter from a California soldier now in Korea, which depicted vividly the rigorous conditions of the battle zone . . . Rep. Poulson decded to insert it in the Congressional Record. Sent it over to the Government Printing Office where Frank Brodie, an alert staffer, discovered the soldier had put in some very down-to-earth-four-letter-word-G-I-language . . . Brodie stopped a brodie, and changed all the %‡!$%$"★%$!| blankety blank-blanks to nice clean adjectives and exclamations pure as the driven you-know-what.

A brand new divorcee has applied to John Robert the well-known interior decorator for a job.

"Have you just had an unhappy love affair?" asked the decorator.

"Why — yes —," admitted the surprised divorcee, "how did you know?"

"All charming young ladies who have divorces want to become decorators," he sighed. "I don't know why they think that messing up their own lives qualifies them to fix up other people's houses!"

Jovial, rotund radio millionaire Senator Homer E. Capehart has entered the latest Kentucky feud—Does not involve Martins, Coys, reckless mountain boys, nor moonshine . . . But gourmets who are scrapping over how to cook a wild duck.

Senator Capehart inserted in the Congressional Record, a dispatch from a Louisville paper as his opening shot . . . The Courier-Journal had written up a challenge between two Kentuckians over wild duck cooking.

Capehart spluttered he couldn't understand how anybody in Kentucky, or any place south of Indiana, could roast a duck when it is not possible to get good duck there to begin with!

He told his colleagues that, "The midwest flyway goes through Indiana and we bag all the good ducks on the way south. Kentucky gets only those that we call 'seconds.'"

"I'd like to challenge my good friend and colleague, the Gentleman from Kentucky, to a duck roasting and tasting contest to be held at the Pendennis Club in Louisville. No holds barred. And I shall even submit to throwing into the feud the esteemed Vice President, the Honorable Alben Barkley."

Capehart also said that Kentuckians don't know how to stuff ducks!

"You stuff it with apple and sage dressing to disguise the taste of the duck—a duck that was unwanted in Indiana. Of course, I should be much happier if this feud were over fried chicken!"

As the picture finished, FDR's mother was on her feet, "Oh, Franklin," she said, "how can there be another war! I can't believe it! It is not so."

But President Roosevelt replied to her, "Of course there's going to be another war. A big war. Soon!"

This scene is re-told by ace newsreel man Laurence Stallings, who had come up to Hyde Park to obtain the President's permission to use parts of old films of Roosevelt in a documentary picture on "The First World War" . . . The commercial use of his face without his approval was an infringement of his private rights, so Stallings had to get FDR's okay.

In the March issue of "Esquire," Stallings tells how he awaited the President's verdict after he had shown him the film . . .

"Sir," Stallings began, "you have a right, as a private citizen —"

"I have a right as President of the United States," corrected Roosevelt . . . Menacing him with his cigaret holder, he pointed out the extreme powers of censorship granted in the Federal Codes to the President . . . He was, in fact, "Censor-in-Chief" as well as "Commander-in-Chief."

But little by little, he revealed his sympathy and agreement with the message of the film.

As Stallings stood to say good night, FDR flashed his famous smile.

"Soon, eh, Laurence?"

You can grow a short coiffure into a long one most attractively by using these Powers Girl techniques!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

IT'S THE American women, not the hair stylists, who have demanded longer coiffures! They are tired of the upkeep and severity of short locks.

Does that mean that the head that has worn a smooth crowd of close-cropped hair must go through a growing-out period with distressing wisps and stragglers?

Not if you follow the Powers Girl techniques! The models have been letting their tresses grow since early winter and with nary a shaggy-dog effect. Here's their advice on how to attain any length of hair desired without a single growing-out pain.

1. Keep the longest fringe of hair trimmed evenly. 2. Have a soft permanent so that your locks will be manageable during the entire period of growth. 3. Set your sights now on the final style to which you aspire so you'll know how much growing you need wait for, and can begin training your waves and curls in the right direction immediately. When the growth is finished, the style should be perfected.

In choosing a new style "Secrets of Charm" readers know that becomingness is the first consideration. But for success, it must also be easy to care for and suitable to your daily activities. The suggestions that follow meet both these requirements.

For the business woman and the busy home manager, a short page boy turned under from a smooth crown. Pull the hair back slick at the temples (with or without bangs) or wear a soft low pompadour of waves across the forehead (not the towering pomp of yesterday!). The back may be swirled to one side or clustered in loose curls on the nape.

Longer Styles

For the teenager, a long bob turned up or under, but no shoulder sweeping mop! For the college girl, a short bob (ear tips showing) turned up or under and very sleek. For all, a chignon, real or false, perched low on the neck, high on the crown or smartly to one side of the head and sized in proportion to the head and features.

Any of these changes are sufficient to add new interest to your appearance—something every woman should seek now and then!

Wilson Receives Warehouse Clerk Appointment

John R. Wilson, 609 North Mechanic Street, was named warehouse clerk for the Street Department yesterday by the Mayor and Council.

Wilson was first on the list of eligibles submitted Monday night to the council by the Civil Service Commission.

The appointment is effective today. His salary will be $216 a month.

In another order, the council approved payrolls for the last two weeks of the month.

The council met briefly before leaving for Annapolis with a local delegation to represent the city and other interested groups in hearings on the home rule bill and pay increases for city firemen and policemen.

Included in the group driving to Annapolis were Mayor Thomas S. Post, Commissioners Lucile W. Roeder, John L. Long, William H. Buchholtz, and George H. Tederick, Mrs. Gerard Everstine, Mrs. Marguerite Deetz, Mrs. Nell Thomas Nichols and Robert Little Ebert.

Phone Company Elects Officers

At the regular meeting of the board of directors of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Baltimore the following officers of the company were reelected:

H. Randolph Maddox, president; Frederick G. Macarow, Robert C. McCann and William J. McManus, vice presidents; Robert W. Michie, vice president and comptroller; John T. Quisenberry, general counsel; Robert V. Russell, secretary and treasurer; W. Griffin Morrel, vice president and general manager and E. R. Koogle, auditor.

Following reelection of the officers, the directors approved expenditures of $561,000 for the improvement and expansion of telephone facilities throughout Maryland.

The major portion of the amount approved, $355,000, constituted additional expenditures, made necessary by increased labor and material costs, for a number of projects the company now has under way throughout the state.

ALONG THE POTOMAC TO WASHINGTON

(By Representative J. Glenn Beall, Sixth Maryland District)

THE Senate last week passed a bill to set up a five-member board with power to renegotiate billions of dollars worth of defense contracts. Most of these now are being rushed to contractors without competitive bids. A similar contract renegotiation board during World War II is credited with saving more than $10 billion on about $200 billion worth of contracts. Every dollar that can be saved means that much less taxes.

The present reciprocal trade agreements program is still taking money out of the taxpayers' pocket. Senator Williams, Republican of Delaware, called attention to the fact that this country lost $7,000,000 selling government - owned cheddar cheese to England while at the same time importing English cheddar cheese into this country. We sold 50 million pounds of cheddar cheese to Great Britain for 15 cents a pound which had cost the Agriculture Department about 31 cents a pound. Then the British Empire, through Canada and New Zealand, imported into this country the same type of cheese at from 21 to 37 cents a pound, under the reciprocal trade agreements program by cutting tariff rates in half.

Last September Congress gave President Truman authority to freeze wages and roll back prices. Despite the mounting cost of living, the President did not act until January.

Commenting on the President's delay, the National Republic said, "Congress demanded immediate price freezes when the Korean aggression broke in the summer of 1950. But the President said partial measures would suffice. Meanwhile prices advanced almost daily. Rising prices since last June 25 have eaten up enough of our defense dollars to

Outfit and equip 10 infantry divisions

Buy 300 B-36 bombers, enough for ten B-36 bomber groups

Buy 2,250 F-80 jet fighters, enough for 30 groups

Buy enough tanks for 10 armored divisions."

Speaking of saving money, the President's budget calls for spending $1,600,000 for acquisition of land in Washington for parks and playgrounds. Last year he spent one-third of this amount for this desirable but non-essential purpose. He reduces the rural electrification program from $293 million last year to $268 million this year while increasing the salaries and expenses of the REA from $6,800,000 this year to $8,500,000 next year. He would increase the overhead expenses of the housing and home finance agency's administration office alone from $1,900,000 last year to $4,100,000 this year. Also he would increase expenditures for advance planning of non-federal public works in the housing and home finance agency from $1,500,000 last year to $8 million next year and would increase administrative expenses for the public housing program from $4,200,000 to $12,400,000 next year.

These are only some of the non-essential expenditures which the President has advocated and which should be thoroughly examined before new taxes are imposed.

UNDER THE DOME

Residents of Montgomery County, government employes assigned to duty at the National Airport have contacted me regarding the parking situation. I have gotten in touch with the director of the Airport. It seems that a plan has been proposed to give a private concession control of the parking areas which are on government - owned property. This would result in the employes having to pay a fee of approximately $25 annually.

At the request of officials of the Naval Ordnance Laboratory, I contacted the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission asking that New Hampshire Avenue be fixed in such a way that the traffic to and from the laboratory could travel normally. The street was torn up one day in such a way that most of the employes were late for work. The condition has been corrected.

I appeared before the Board of Veterans Appeals on February 28 in behalf of a veteran in the district.

Damage Suit Filed By Beauty Operator

The operator of a local beauty shop docketed suit yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court for $5,000 in damages from her former landlords.

Arrah Wanna Lease Seeders is suing Leo and Clara C. Palmer, 826 Columbia Avenue.

Mrs. Seeders, through her attorney, Earl E. Manges, contends that the Palmers and she had a verbal agreement on a lease for an indefinite period of a room at 302 Pulaski Street.

She charged that on September 3, 1949, the Palmers locked her out and took over her driers, permanent wave machine, sink and other equipment.

She is suing on one count for loss of profits and on a second count for loss and damage to the equipment.

Barton, Fort Hill Clash For Title; Keyser High Wins, 69-59

Playoff Set For Tonight In Frostburg

Capacity Crowd Will See WMI League Game At Beall High

Tonight's the night Barton High School and Fort Hill High School battle it out for the championship of the Western Maryland Interscholastic Basketball League.

Beall High School, Frostburg, will be the scene of action, the starting time is 8 o'clock and a capacity crowd of 900 persons will witness the playoff, 7th in the 31-year history of the county schoolboy circuit.

Teams Split Even

Fort Hill beat Barton, 48-36, here and Barton won the return game on its home court, 56-46, as the teams finished their regular schedules deadlocked for first place with 8-2 records. Fort Hill's other loss came in the final league game at the hands of Allegany, 54-40. Allegany also holds a 48-46 decision over Barton.

Coach John Thomas' Barton quint boasts an overall record of 17 wins and two losses while the Sentinels of John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh have marked up 19 victories against two losses.

Both teams have played on the Beall court this season. Fort Hill whipped Beall 54-43 and Barton won 61-44.

Starting Lineups

Tonight's probable starting lineups will be:

Barton — Bob and Bill Kirk, forwards; Arnold Tichnell, center, and Tom Clark and Don Bean, guards.

Fort Hill — Glen Wilson and George McGregor, forwards; Lynn Beightol, center, and Ronnie Cage and Eddie Landis, guards.

William Bossi and Alex Rich of Windber, Pa., will be the referees, J. Suter Kegg, sports editor of the Cumberland Times, official scorer, and Eugene Hopkins, of Allegany High School, official timer.

Play In State Games

Regardless of the outcome of today's game Fort Hill and Barton will play in the state tourney. The Sentinels qualified for the Class "A" games by winning three out of four from Beall and AHS, the county's other Class "A" schools. Barton is the only Class "C" school and qualified automatically. Central of Lonaconing won two games from Bruce of Westernport and will represent the county in the Class "B" tournament.

Central plays at Accident in Garrett county in the first of the intercounty games on Friday. Barton faces Friendsville at Grantsville, Saturday night, and Fort Hill plays Frederick in Hagerstown, March 3.

All seats for the Barton-Fort Hill title clash tonight at the Beall High Gym in Frostburg have been sold, Arthur G. Ramey of the Allegany County Board of Education reported last night.

City Business Opposes Plans To Move Meet

Hagerstown Dates May Be Transferred

A report that Hagerstown's 10-day horse race meeting might be held in Cumberland was a "surprise" to members of the Cumberland Fair Association last night.

An official of the local group said last night he had received numerous calls from city businessmen opposing the idea of the additional 10 days of racing at the Fairgo track.

Actually, the officials said, a bill has been introduced in the state legislature which would permit Maryland race tracks to move their programs to another track in case of an emergency with the approval of the State Racing Commission.

However, he related, the bill is not yet law and the move would still have to have the State Racing Commission's approval before the Hagerstown dates could be moved forward with the Cumberland meeting.

The idea originated at meeting of the State Racing Commission and race track owners in Baltimore and it was decided to ask the legislature to pass the "emergency" bill, the local official noted.

The Hagerstown grandstand has been torn down since last summer on orders of the commission which found it sub-standard. The government freeze on critical building materials has made it unlikely the stands can be rebuilt for the Hagerstown meet, July 31 to August 11.

The State Racing Commission also proposed that the state's share of betting take be reduced on the first $2,000,000 in wagering, the report stated, in an effort to help the smaller tracks financially.

U. S. Sprinters Lose In Finals

South Americans Edge States Stars

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 28 (INS)—Two United States sprint stars were the victims of stunning upsets today in the first Pan-American games.

Arthur Bragg, national sprint king from Morgan State College, who earlier had won his semi-final heat, was beaten in the finals of the 100-meter run by Cuba's Rafael Chacon.

Lanky Don Halderman, of Los Angeles, could do no better than third in the finals of the 400-meter hurdles event. This race was won by Colombia's Sergio Aparicio in a new South American record time of 53.4 seconds.

Argentina's weight of numbers at the games began to tell in the second day of action, although three U. S. gal athletes qualified for the semi-finals in the women's 100-meter sprint and sharpshooter Arthur Jackson gained the Stars and Stripes its fourth finals victory.

Jackson scored his triumph in the 22-caliber 50 and 100-meter shooting event with a score of 591. The team title was taken by Argentina, which also held the lead at the end of the second day in the pentathlon.

Another medal winner today was Mexico's Olga Gracia in the women's Javelin. She beat out Amelie Bert of Providence, R. I. with a toss of 129.4 feet.

Jean Leron Patton, Nashville, Tenn., and Janet Moreau, Pawtucket, R. I., each scored heat victories in the women's 100-meter run.

Posts 1870, Cops $50 And Trophy; Men Set Early Pace With 2077

Toppling 1,870 maples in three games, the Liberty Lanes team of this city won first place in the Women's Booster "A" Class of the American Rubberband Duckpin Bowling Association's annual tournament on Sunday at McKees Rocks, Pa.

Although the tournament lasts another week, there are no more teams rolling in this class.

The Liberty Lanes team, captained by Lorraine Fox, won $50 cash and a trophy.

Ann Stall had high set of 456 and high game of 159 for the winners.

Other members of the Liberty Lanes team are Agnes Cosgrove Patricia Golden, Jean Cooley, and Betty McHardy.

The Liberty Lanes team, rolling in the Men's Booster B. Class, set the pace for their particular class by posting a three game total of 2077.

Only four more teams are to bowl in this class so Liberty Lanes is assured of at least 5th place and possibly even higher and maybe even first place. Results will be known on Sunday, March 4.

Paul Fisher's 489 and 186 were high set and game for Liberty Lanes.

Frank Oss captained the team. Other members are James Often, William Often and John Harbaugh.

Both teams were sponsored by George Kelso of the Kelso Liberty Lanes.

Small Colleges Accept NIT Bid

NEW YORK, Feb. 28 (AP) — Three small school powers—Beloit, Dayton and Lawrence Tech—joined the National Invitation Basketball Tournament field today and the final five teams may be named by Saturday.

If all the little pieces fit into the Madison Square Garden jigsaw puzzle, Oklahoma A. & M. St. Louis, LaSalle, Cincinnati and either New York U. or Fordham will round out the 12-team field.

Beloit (16-4), Dayton (23-4), and Lawrence Tech of Detroit (20-2) followed North Carolina State, Brigham Young, Arizona and St. John's of Brooklyn into the 14th annual N.I.T. which begins March 10 and concludes March 17.

LaSalle 21-6) and Cincinnati (15-3) are rated prime possibilities.

Oklahoma A. & M. (25-2), the second ranked team in the country, and St. Louis (21-6), the tenth rated quintet, are understood to be willing to compete unless they tie for the Missouri Valley championship.

St. Michael's Cops 16th Straight Win

St. Michael's won its 16th straight victory in the K of C Youth Basketball League with a convincing 52-13 triumph over SS. Peter and Paul. The lineups:

Seven Teams Post Forfeit Bonds In Pen-Mar League

Eighth Berth Open; Open Season Apr. 29

Seven teams posted forfeit bonds for the 1951 Pen-Mar Baseball League season at a meeting earlier this week at Frostburg American Legion Home.

Two of last year's teams did not have representation at the meeting while one new member was voted into the league, officials reported.

Keyser's Ridge and Flintstone are the two 1950 members not in the fold while the league voted to allow Mt. Savage to enter a team in the circuit.

The eighth berth is being held open in the hope that Keyser Ridge or some other team will fill the bill.

The next meeting of the loop will be held Sunday, March 11 at 2 p.m. at the Frostburg Legion home and representatives of teams seeking the final spot in the circuit are urged to be present with $35 forfeit bond. This will be the final opportunity for another team to join the circuit, league authorities said. A final vote of the member teams will be necessary for the retention of a new organization.

Flintstone forfeited three games during last season's play and would have to be voted into the league again, officials said.

Teams retaining franchises in the league are Zihlman, Barrelville, Eckhart, Wellersburg, Klondike and Ellerslie in addition to Mt. Savage.

Prior to the regular league meeting March 11 the By-Laws Committee will be at the legion home at 1:30 p.m.

The league expects to open a possible 28-game schedule April 29.

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 28—(INS)—Certainly Dick Powell was intrigued, delighted and flattered by the offer to take Ezio Pinza's role on Broadway in "South Pacific." But he is already committed to Universal-International for "You Never Know," a picture he has set his heart on doing.

Dick Powell

Dick wired Leonard Goldstein, the producer: "I will be home next week for wardrobe fittings in ectoplasm." You see, "You Never Know" is the story of the reincarnation of a man who returns to track down his murderer, and it's melodrama with no comedy and no singing.

With George Sanders out and Dick Powell not available, the search is still on for a "wonderful guy" to carry on the Pinza role.

If you don't think "Rage Of The Vulture" is going before the cameras and soon, listen to this:

Deborah Kerr has been borrowed by Paramount from MGM for the femme lead opposite Alan Ladd. Seems that Jo Swerling and Lewis Melcher are busy rewriting the part to fit the attractive Deborah.

And just to show you this is really going to be a top movie, a telephone call was made to St. Louis to ask Charles Boyer to interrupt his personal appearance tour to play the cultured Hindu. Boyer asked that a script be forwarded to him.

There have been dozens of actresses discussed for the dashing Maid Marion role in "The Story Of Robin Hood," which Walt Disney is making in England, but none was right.

That is until a technicolor test of Joan Rice, filmed at the Denham Studios in London and flown here especially for Walt to see. One look at it and Joan was chosen. The Rice girl skyrocketed from a bit part to stardom in "Blackmail," and a two-year contract with J. Arthur Rank.

"The Story Of Robin Hood" will be an all-live action feature without the usual cartoons, and it gets going May 1. Walt, himself, joins the company in London in June.

From New York I hear that Elia Kazan is in New York talking business to Marlon Brando. He wants Brando for "Zapata," the John Steinbeck story which Kazan will direct.

Since Brando was in "Streetcar Named Desire" for Elia, he is eager to get him for the Zanuck picture—and, at this writing, it looks as if he might be successful.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Piper Laurie's new beau is Dick Contino, accordion-playing champ. They were glimpsed together at the Palladium.

Reports from Las Vegas says that Billy Wilkerson has sold his interest in his swank La Rue Cafe there.

Michael Perlman, who has many friends in Hollywood, is now in charge of the Barberry Room in New York and that's one reason so many people are flocking there.

Lucille Ball gave a party for thirty for Desi Arnez' opening at the Biltmore Bowl. In the party were Charlie Coburn and Kay St. Germain Garson, Jack's ex-wife who put on quite a dancing act. Marie Wilson was with a good looking pilot who is the image of Dean Martin but whose name is Friedman.

Mrs. Clark Gable again goes with Clark to live in a mountain cabin on location. They leave next week for Winslow, Arizona, where Clark will live for many weeks making "Lone Star."

Talk is that Munitions King Fritz Mandl, Hedy Lamarr's ex, is engaged to a French ballerina.

Although it's hush-hush, I hear that Spyros Skouras has paid the first $400,000 for the world rights to Ediphone, a Swiss invented big screen television.

All three of Burt Lancaster's youngsters are down with mumps. Never a dull moment in that household.

Lash La Rue would like to have everyone know that his dates with Marilyn Maxwell are just professional talks. Oh, is that what they are calling it this year?

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

3 AWOL Soldiers Face Federal Prosecution

Three AWOL soldiers arrested about two weeks ago for stealing a 1950 sedan in Grantsville have been turned over to Federal authorities in Pittsburgh for prosecution under the Dyer Act.

State Police said the trio was nabbed February 17 in Uniontown, Pa., after they took the automobile of Randall Wiley, Grantsville. A girl with them was released.

Authorities identified the prisoners as Richard Heater, 19, Philippi, W. Va., and John Rossiter, 19, and Paul Daughenbaugh, 17, both of Altoona, Pa. They were charged with transporting a stolen vehicle across a state line.

Teamsters Get Pact With Wholesale Firm

Local 453, Teamsters Union (AFL) announced a contract agreement was reached yesterday with the Prichard Corporation.

C. E. Stutzman, union business agent, said the pact, covering six drivers and warehousemen, provides $50 for a 40 hour week, time and one half after 40 hours, six paid holidays and one week's paid vacation after one year's service, with two weeks vacation after 3 years.

He said the rate is the same as that provided in pacts reached recently with the C. D. Kenny and Kenneweg wholesale grocery companies.

Frostburg Welsh Will Observe St. David's Day With Friday Rites

Wales Patron Saint Will Be Remembered

FROSTBURG — Rev. W. D. Reese, a native of Wales and retired pastor of Welsh Baptist Memorial Church, will deliver the St. David's Day address at a program to be presented Friday, 8 p. m., at the church, Beall Street, under auspices of the Pioneer Club, whose members consist largely of descendants of early Welsh settlers in this community.

Rev. Reese states that St. David, the patron saint of Wales was born sometime between the fourth and fifth centuries and was educated in a village now known as Whiteland, Cardiganshire, Wales. He established a large number of churches and missions during his lifetime and was honored by the leader of the churches and the authorities of the Welsh people as the prince of the British Islands.

St. David's Day, is observed all over the world where Welsh people reside, the period for the celebrations being the first seven days in March. One of the largest observances this year, he said, will be at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, New York, this week, where the speakers will be members of the United Nations, representing the British Isles.

While there are many people of Welsh ancestry in Allegany County, Rev. Reese said, there has never been much emphasis placed on the observance of St. David's Day, excepting the annual observance in Frostburg.

The local program Friday evening will include, organ prelude by Shirley Miller and quartet selections by Mrs. Edna Engle, Mrs. Lois Alexander, Betty Ann Hanna and Rev. Karl Kauffman.

Violin solos will be given by Miss Datha Thomas, accompanied by Mrs. Lillian Spier Stewart. Francis Plummer will sing and Rudolph Winkler will render a cella solo. There will be a duet by Arthur Thomas and Plummer, and solos by Mrs. W. D. Reese and Miss Margaret Jones, accompanied by Mrs. Violet Barclay.

65 Bedford Dairy Farmers Honored For 1950 Records

Sixty-five dairy farmers from the Bedford (Pa.) area were honored at the Bedford High School, Bedford, last night by Supplee-Wills-Jones Milk Company.

These men were selected for their outstanding contributions in level month-to-month production of high quality milk throughout 1950.

Heading the list as top prize winners were Thomas Beegle, Everett, and Glenn Mellot, also of Everett, who were especially cited for having achieved the greatest success among district farmers in this third annual program sponsored by the Supplee Company.

In pointing out that production by Supplee shippers reached an all time high in 1950 of 341,000,000 pounds, Dr. Roy F. Davenport, director of Field Service, said:

"In view of the fact that all signs point to increased demands for dairy products, we must maintain the present high rate of production, but, at the same time, not lose sight of the importance of doing a still better job in terms of level month-to-month production. We hope to do this by getting greater fall production rather than just a decreased output in the spring."

Others Honored

Other dairymen honored at the meeting attended by Supplee's 320 shippers and their families were Sylvester J. Hoagland, Bedford; Irving Morrell, Clearville; Warren Diehl, Bedford; George McCune, Clearville; Samuel Diehl, Bedford; Jacob Sollenberger, Everett; Fred Shoemaker, Buffalo Mills; Joseph Diehl, Bedford; George McCune, ford; James Heming, Bedford; Austin Diehl, Bedford; Melvin Kisamore, Clearville; Walter Purnell, Wells Tannery; Alvie Claycomb, Bedford; Clyde Dibert, Bedford.

KEYSER, W. Va. — Roy Davidson, Henry Grouden and Ralph O. Martin were elected to three-year terms on the board of the Keyser-Mineral County Chamber of Commerce at the group's annual dinner meeting last night at the Odd Fellows Building on Mineral Street.

T. Warner Lowry was tied with Martin in the voting but a flip of a coin determined that Martin was the winner.

Six holdover directors are Ervin M. Bane, J. W. Carskadon, Jr., Fred Davis, Clyde W. Gardner, Richard E. Romig and A. Arnold Ludwick. Davis has been serving as president of the chamber the past year. The nine-man board will meet soon to elect a president for one year beginning April 1.

Martin served as toastmaster at last night's meeting.

Lowry, who served as chairman of the chamber's new industries committee, spoke concerning the various conferences with business men and industrialists who were considering Keyser and its environs as a possible new location.

One new industry, Piedmont Tractor Division of the Inexco Corporation was brought into Keyser during the past year.

Paul J. Davis, who served on the committee with Lowry, explained that one of the committee's jobs was to screen prospective new firms to see that they were worthwhile and permanent.

Chester J. Compton announced that Roy Davidson and C. Arnold Ludwick, Jr., will serve as captains in the Chamber of Commerce's one-week membership drive beginning today. About 15 men will serve on each captain's team. The drive will end March 8.

Riot in Color

Uninhibited Sport Shirts

FASHION: The comedy team of Kirkwood and Goodman (at left) prove that men no longer have any inhibitions when it comes to sport shirts. Color and patterns run veritable riot in these printed rayons.

Handyman: Borrow your wife's colorless nail polish and coat the inside of a leather watch band to keep it from discoloring or chafing your wrist. . . . Coat timetables, etc., that are frequently consulted, to keep them from smudging and deteriorating. . . . If a paintbrush is shedding its bristles, apply polish at base of bristles. They'll last longer.

New Ideas: When zippered garments are laundered or cleaned, zipper lubricant is removed. The new "Ziprite" lubricating stick keeps them running smoothly.

Your Headsize: Few people know what the size of a man's nat means. Theoretically, it's the diameter in inches—if the oval of a head, or hat, were to be compressed into a perfect circle. However, it's not practical to do that trick with hats—or heads—so here's a better formula for those who have to determine their hat or head size (for mail ordering and the like). Put a tape measure around the head from the middle of the forehead and over the bump in back. Then apply the measurement against the chart below:

SIZE	INCHES	SIZE	INCHES
6⅞	21½	7¼	22⅝
7	21⅞	7⅜	23
7⅛	22¼	7½	23½

Amateur Chef: Put Stilton or bleu cheese in a crock, punch holes in cheese and fill 'em with port wine. Let stand for ten days—and use for spread. . . . If you're cooking a steak outdoors and want to be sure it won't be tough, tenderize it by soaking in a pint of water and a teaspoonful of vinegar for ten minutes before cooking.

Odd Items: Mindy Carson (right) doesn't want to cash in on looking like Bergman and doesn't want her men to look like Rossellini, either! She says, "The day of striped pants, etc., has passed. Men look best in tweeds, sportswear, and the like." . . . Frank Marlowe, comedian on Kate Smith's TV show, owns sixty suits—and claims that gives him 181 changes. . . . This week's "Pass the Cigars" to John Daly, on "What's My Line?" who has just about the nicest and friendliest personality on TV.

That basketball scandal in Madison Square Garden is the toughest since they threw me out of reform school for playing with loaded checkers.

See where Bill Corum wants his alma mammy Missouri to erase its Madison Square victories from its recorders. They didn't know they were being helped like baby's first step.

• — • — •

Bill, that basketball scandal is going to have even more terrific effect on our way of democracy. Congress is now figuring out another amendment. No person over six feet, seven inches, can be elected President of the United States.

Not that it will do Bill and me any good. There hasn't been a little giant since Stephen Douglas.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Market Stages Recovery Following Early Setback

NEW YORK, Feb. 28 (AP)—The stock market displayed a litte of its old-time bounce today in staging a recovery drive that put prices ahead after an early setback.

The performance, however, was not regarded as conclusive evidence that the market is shaking off its lethargy of the past few days.

For one thing, the volume of business remained at the low level of 1,640,000 shares. Yesterday it was only 40,000 shares larger. Traders are agreed that any decisive price movement must be accompanied by a respectable volume before they are impressed.

Missouri Pacific preferred jumped 5⅛ to 27⅝, and Alleghany added ⅝ at 4¼. It was the third most active issue and M. P. preferred was fourth.

In the number one spot was International Telephone up ½ at 17¼, and second place was taken by Avco up ⅛ at 8½. Avco yesterday was the most active issue after publication of a highly favorable earnings statement.

American Telephone, eighth most active, closed with a gain of 1⅛ at 157⅝ after touching 158.

Philip Morris was up 1¾ at 55¾ after declaration of a five per cent stock dividend in addition to a 75-cent regular.

Goodrich, with 1950 sales the biggest in history, reported profits equal to $24.19 a share as against $14.36 the previous year, and at the same time declared a 50-cent dividend. The stock was up ⅞ at 46¼.

Westinghouse Electric dropped 1½ to 35¾.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks added 20 cents at $95.10 with the industrial component up 30 cents, and the rails and utilities each up 10 cents.

which is to halt Western rearmament.

Stage-Setting Interview

Perhaps the Soviets may attain this objective, by the follies of the Western leadership. If the Soviets fail, we must certainly expect another interlude of acute and imminent danger this summer. A spring Conference of Foreign Ministers that does not satisfy the Kremlin can all too easily be transformed into the prelude to a summer attack all along the line. Stalin has told us in his interview, "War is not inevitable unless these dreadful people persist in trying to defend themselves from us, and continue to refuse to give our Chinese allies everything they want." That sounds, at least, like stage-setting for the Foreign Ministers' meeting.

at this moment is to protect the value of the dollar.

It would appear that Charles E. Wilson faces lots of trouble with labor leaders who place themselves above economic law. If they push Wilson too hard, he will have no alternative but to resign, for it is impossible to believe that he will permit himself to be reduced to the position of Donald Nelson of World War II, who was pushed around by every kind of pressure group. Wilson is bound to stand firm on policy and to protect the country against every self-serving element in the population, business, farmer and labor.

of which is related to a playground is the experience requirement, Hoey said.

The salary range for playground director is $200 to $300, depending on experience and qualifications, for ten weeks' work.

The junior recreation assistant must have at least two years of high school education and much the same qualifications as the director in regards to personal relationships. His duties would be of a routine nature calling for little experience including supervision of sand boxes, apparatus or wading pool play and assisting at other activities.

Salary would range from $100 to $150 for a ten-week season.

Applications may be obtained at the Recreation Office, City Hall.

BIDDING GUIDES LEAD

ONE PARADOX among the many in our game is the fact that frequently you can take more tricks trying for a low contract than you can in a higher one. The reason is that against a high one, such as a slam, a smart defender will make a different lead. Then his purpose is to select the opening best calculated to produce one trick for his side against a grand slam or two against a small slam. If, however, the contract be a mere game, then he chooses the lead which he thinks offers the best chance of developing enough tricks to set the contract, which would be five in the case of a No Trump game.

	♠ A Q 7 ♥ A J 6 2 ♦ K Q J 5 ♣ 8 5
♠ 10 9 5 3 ♥ 8 7 5 4 ♦ 10 9 8 3 ♣ 6	N W E S	♠ K J 6 2 ♥ K Q 10 ♦ A 6 4 2 ♣ 9 2
	♠ 8 4 ♥ 9 3 ♦ 7 ♣ A K Q J 10 7 4 3

(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1 ♥	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
2 NT	Pass	3 NT

That may look like funny bidding, when South had that Goliath of a club suit, but it happened to win the North-South top score on the deal in a big duplicate game. Against that East, with his side obliged to develop five tricks in order to beat the contract, selected his fourth-best spade. Since North won that with the Q and had the suit still stopped, he was able to lead the diamond K next. After East won with the A, he returned the spade K, since West had given him the 9 on the first trick. North of course won that with the A and then ran two diamonds, the heart A and a bunch of clubs to take a total of an even dozen.

Nobody would think of leading a spade from East's holding against a small slam, no matter how the deal was bid. Most tables produced No Trump contracts by North, of small slam dimensions, and in every such case East made the sound lead of the heart K, despite the fact that North had bid the suit. This established the Q, so that when North had to play diamonds, the A of that suit was followed by the heart Q to beat the slam.

Every South bid some number of clubs after the 1-Heart by North, which in some cases was doubled by East and in some overcalled with 1-Spade. The bidding then varied terrifically. Where South wound up as declarer, at either 5-Clubs or 6-Clubs, not over eleven tricks were taken by any declarer.

Tomorrow's Problem

♠ Q J 6 5 3 ♥ 9 8 ♦ A 6 2 ♣ J 5 3	N W E S	♠ K ♥ 10 7 5 3 ♦ Q 10 9 3 ♣ K 10 9 6
	♠ 7 ♥ A K Q 2 ♦ J 8 5 4 ♣ A Q 7 2

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

If South bids 1-Heart, North 1-Spade, South 2-Clubs, North 2-Spades, South 2-No Trumps and North 3-No Trumps, what card should West lead?

Progress Is Reported On Bus Contract

Efforts Redoubled To Beat Strike Deadline

BULLETIN

A tentative agreement was reached early this morning on a new bus contract here.

Union officials said they will recommend membership acceptance of the offer.

The pact was to be presented for membership ratification or rejection at a meeting scheduled today at 4 a.m. in Allegany Trades Council Hall.

Some progress was reported late last night as federal and state conciliators redoubled their 11th hour efforts to avert a bus strike threatened today which would cripple local transportation.

Officials of Local 1110, Bus Drivers Union (AFL), and the Cumberland Transit Lines were still holding individual conferences at 10:15 p. m. and were preparing to go back into joint negotiations at any moment.

C. Stanley Clevenger, Winchester, Va., federal conciliator, said some progress was being made.

A union official confirmed the report by saying the talks were "not as stalemated as they were".

Drivers served notice yesterday that a strike would begin this morning if an agreement were not reached.

Explore Possibilities

Clevenger, with James A. Holden, federal conciliation commissioner, and Mrs. Margaret W. Kimble, deputy commissioner of the Maryland Department of Labor and Industry, arranged a number of joint and individual conferences yesterday.

Clevenger said earlier yesterday that both sides were busy exploring every possibility of getting together on a contract.

It was reported that discussion on an annual wage offer of the firm had been deferred in favor of some form of a flat wage increase.

The amount of any wage boost under consideration was not disclosed.

The union negotiators were headed by Frederick Fitzgerald, Belmont, Mass., an international vice president. He was assisted by James Morrison, president; Burr Powell, Harvey May and Lawrence Grim.

Company negotiators were Guy M. Davis, president of the Cumberland Transit Lines; A. J. Hutton, manager, and J. Kenneth Morgan, auditor.

Union Plans Meeting

James H. Morrison, president of Local 1110, said strike sanction was received yesterday from the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric, Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America, AFL.

They are (left to right) James Morrison, union president; Burr Powell, union representative, and Frederick Fitzgerald, international vice president of the union. Seated behind them in the same order are Harvey May, union shop steward; J. Kenneth Morgan, accountant for the bus firm, and Guy M. Davis, president of the transit line. Seated at the rear of the conference table is A. J. Hutton, bus line manager; James A. Holden, federal conciliator; C. Stanley Clevenger, federal conciliator; Mrs. Margaret W. Kimble, deputy commissioner of the Maryland Department of Labor and Industry, and Lawrence Grim, union business agent.

Pair Will Face School Burglary Charge Today

Fletcher Probes Midland Case

A man and woman who allegedly broke into the Midland Elementary School over the past weekend and stole bedding and meat will be charged today with statutory burglary and arraigned in Trial Magistrates Court for preliminary hearings, State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher said last night.

The defendants were identified as Raymond Gallagher, 25, and Mrs. Anna Mae Boor, 32, both of Midland.

They were arrested early Wednesday by Deputy Sheriff William E. Orr, Jr., after a two-day investigation. They were apprehended together in a shack at a mine on Firley's Hill, several miles from the school. They had a mattress, two blankets and two sheets from the school in their possession, the sheriff's office reported.

Gallagher and Mrs. Boor were brought to the Allegany county jail around 1 a. m. Wednesday. They were taken to Fletcher's office yesterday morning for questioning and he said they admitted breaking into the school early Sunday morning. Besides the bedding, which had been supplied for a cot in the school by the PTA, they also took 30 pounds of ground beef, 10 pounds of weiners and a small quantity of bacon.

Discovery that the school had been forcibly entered was made Monday morning by Edward Eisentrout, janitor, when he went to work.

Admitted For Surgery

Lorenzo Valentine, 76, of 1031 Bedford Street, was admitted to Allegany Hospital yesterday afternoon and underwent surgery last night. His condition was reported as fair.

Permit For Gas Station Turned Down

Claimed Violation Of City Ordinance

The Zoning Board of Appeals last night turned down an applicant who sought to build a service station on Louisiana Avenue.

John Riley, 507 Louisiana Avenue, had appealed the action of the City Engineer in refusing to issue a permit to build and operate a gas station on the lot occupied by his home.

In unanimously disapproving the application, members of the Board said the construction of the station would have been a direct violation of the city ordinance, since it would have placed a business in a Residential B district.

Over a dozen residents of the area appeared at the hearing and raised strenuous objections to the construction of a business establishment, saying property values would be affected seriously by the encroachment of business firms.

Petitions bearing the names of 51 opponents and 18 favoring the application were presented to the zoning board.

Among them were Charles Callis, who some time ago was refused a permit to build a service station on the southeast corner of Louisiana Avenue and Hilltop Drive, directly opposite the site sought by Riley.

The board granted a permit to C. W. Viney, 214 Mary Street, to build a three-car garage and apartment on the rear of the lot occupied by his home.

The board said the structure will be built on a 90 by 125 foot lot, adequate for the structure.

Two of the garage spaces will be used for cars and the third for storage, since the home proper does not have a cellar for storage space.

Food Cost Rise Continues In City

Four Additional Civil Defense Areas Set Up

Code Number For County Discussed

Four new defense areas were set up last night at a meeting of the Allegany County Fire Chiefs Association and representatives of fire companies of the surrounding area. The new areas include Bedford, Pa., Hyndman, Pa., and two area industrial plants.

Representatives from Hyndman, Lonaconing, Clarysville, and Wiley Ford Fire Departments attended the meeting and expressed willingness to participate in the Civil Defense Program.

The purpose of the meeting is to stress setting up of defenses in the event of bombing raids and in case of fires to have volunteer fire departments placed so as to provide most effectiveness.

During the meeting last night a code number for Allegany County was discussed. The official armband to be worn by volunteer firemen throughout the county was also shown and discussed.

Fire chiefs of industrial plants are asked to attend the future meetings.

An Executive Board meeting of the Allegany and Garrett County Firemen Association will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 p. m. at District 16 at Oldtown Road. Companies who have not attended similar meetings recently are asked to send representatives.

The next meeting of the Allegany and Garrett County Fire Chiefs Association will be held Wednesday, March 7 at 8 p. m. in Corrigansville Fire Hall. Further plans on Civil Defense will be discussed.

Cobey Urges Adoption Of Home Rule

Police And Firemen Oppose Measure

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 28 (AP) — W. Earle Cobey, city solicitor of Cumberland, today told the legislators that only constitutional home rule could unravel the present "hodgepodge" charter of that city.

He declared before a hearing of the House Judiciary committee that constitutional home rule would be more satisfactory and "stable" than statutory home rule because the form of government chosen by the residents could not be revoked by the state.

A home rule bill for Cumberland was introduced by the Allegany Delegation on Feb. 8. It would amend the constitution to allow election of an 11-member board to draw up a home-rule city charter for referendum by the city's residents.

Constitutional home rule, now practiced in Baltimore City and Montgomery County, involves a governmental charter adopted by referendum. It is authorized by the constitution's "home rule" amendment.

Statutory home rule, in effect in Hagerstown, can be revoked by the legislature at any time. Under that authority Cumberland would only retain its powers, such as the right to tax and fix employe's wages, "at the pleasure of the legislature," Cobey said.

A bill for state-wide constitutional home rule has been studied and may be introduced by House Minority Leader Lofsrand (R-Montgomery).

Cumberland's charter was drawn up in 1815 and was last revised in 1910. The city with a population of almost 38,000 is second only to Baltimire.

Opponents to the bill were headed by Attorney William H. Geppert, representing the city's police and firemen.

He insisted the bill should be amended to provide continuance of civil service.

"Many of the fire and policemen are old," he declared. "They can't go out and get another job. If this bill is passed they would lose any right of redress before the legislature.

"The voters at referendum voted down home rule in 1949. I don't know if they've changed their minds in one and a half years though."

Bills passed included SB114—by Fraley — allowing Garrett County treasurer $200 annually for the secretarial help in making out tax bills.

Labor Group To Meet

The Western Maryland Labor Unity Conference will meet tonight at 7:30 p. m. in Allegany Trades Council Hall. Paul L. Burley, secretary, said important legislative plans will be discussed.

Allegany Band, Orchestra To Present Concert Friday

Paul Webb, Allegany High School senior, will be one of the soloists at the annual concert of the Allegany High School Senior Band and Orchestra Friday night.

The concert will be held at 8 p. m. in Allegany High School auditorium.

He will play "Carnival of Venice" as a cornet solo during the concert and will be accompanied by Mary Ellen Ward.

Webb has played solo cornet in the band since he was in the ninth grade. In 1949, he was rated as the best cornet player in Maryland on the basis of competition in the All-State Band that year.

He received a superior rating for his solo work at the Maryland Federation of Music last year.

The 80 piece Allegany High School Senior Band will be directed by S. Lua Sykes, teacher of instrumental music. Nine selections have been scheduled by the band.

The Allegany High School Senior Orchestra, also directed by Sykes, will play six selections during the concert.

Nine Area Homeowners Ordered By Court To Fix Faulty Sewers

Owners of nine homes along McMullen Highway have been ordered to eliminate the seepage of sewage upon the road.

J. Byron Dowling, state sanitarian, said court orders have been issued to the property owners, requiring that conditions leading to a serious health and safety hazard be corrected within 60 days.

In virtually every case, he said, raw sewage has been seeping down upon the highway due to inadequate or poorly installed septic tanks.

Dowling said 18 other cases of a similar nature along the highway have been corrected voluntarily within the past two months.

The State Roads Commission has cooperated in the drive to halt the flowing of sewage along the highway both because the presence of the sewage is a health hazard and because the raw sewage has created icy spots on the highway which have been a menace to traffic during the winter.

Officials said the situation, most critical along the McMullen Highway exists in at least 150 spots along primary roads of this county.

GOP Central Committee Member Resigns Position In Appointments' Protest

Wilson Contends Party May Suffer

Contending that some of the recent appointments recommended by the Republican State Central Committee for Allegany County are unjustified and will harm the party, David Jerome Wilson, Frostburg, resigned from the committee last night.

In a letter to Earl E. Manges, GOP committee chairman, Wilson said, "My conscience would not permit me to do otherwise." Copies of the letter were sent to Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin, State Senator Robert B. Kimble and The Cumberland News.

Manges could not be reached for comment on the letter last night.

Not Specific

Wilson's letter did not mention any specific appointments concerning which he disapproved nor would he identify them publicly when questioned last night.

Wilson's letter:

"Kindly consider this letter as a tender of my resignation as a member of the Republican State Central Committee for Allegany County effective immediately.

"I regret that I must resign from a position of public trust to which I was so recently elected; however, in view of the pressure which was brought upon me in connection with the recommendations for appointments to various positions in the county and the way the matter was handled, my conscience would not permit me to do otherwise.

"I am no politician and do not know many of the political leaders in the county, so I did not know most of the applicants for the various positions, and had to rely on the knowledge of the other members of the committee and political leaders who assured me that all of the applicants were beyond a question of a doubt well qualified.

"When I heard of the many letters of protest and petitions which were sent to Governor McKeldin in opposition to some of the persons recommended by the Republican State Central Committee I felt it was high time to conduct my own investigation, which I must admit proved to me that the protests were well founded.

"I learned of numerous trips made to Annapolis by some of the applicants and influential political leaders on their behalf, which in my opinion is not the way a government by the people and for the people should be operated.

Not Included In Deal

"I want my friends and associates to know that my action as a member of the committee was not the result of any deal, or done with the idea of feathering my political nest, so I am sending a copy of this letter to The Cumberland News with a request that it be published. I am also sending a copy of the letter to Governor McKeldin and to Senator Robert B. Kimble.

"This letter is written after much thought and deliberation and I hope that all of the citizens of the county will realize the embarrassing position in which I find myself. I have always been a loyal Republican, and I will continue to be, but I believe that some of the appointments made are so completely unjustified, and will do such harm to the party, that I cannot remain a member of the committee which approved them. At any time I am called on, I will be very glad to serve the best interests of the party."

Wilson was elected to the eight-member committee last September in the Republican primary election. He was to have served a four-year term on that body. Although he has lived in Allegany County all of his life this was the first time he had ever been elected to a public office, he said last night. He has been employed at the Celanese plant about 23 years and is a foreman there.

It was understood that the committee has the authority to appoint a successor to Wilson. Besides Manges and Wilson other committee members are Edgar M. Lewis, vice chairman; James Park, secretary-treasurer; Thomas Elias, Jeremiah T. Defibaugh, Victor M. Hebb and Marshall Van Meter.

Teamsters Win Contract With Astor Cab Firm

Yellow Top Talks To Continue Here

The Astor Cab Company and Local 453, Teamsters Union (AFL), last night reached a contract agreement covering 37 drivers of the firm, C. E. Stutzman, union business agent, announced.

The pact will provide that experienced drivers will get 40 per cent of commissions immediately, with new or inexperienced men working for 35 per cent for their first eight weeks.

The $100 a week needed to qualify for 45 per cent of fares has been reduced to $90 and the qualifying time dropped from one year to six months. Also drivers need not work a sixth day in a week to qualify for the bonus rate.

Stutzman said a contract will be prepared today for signing.

He said the union will continue negotiations with the Yellow Top firm on the basis of the above agreement.

Settlement Ends Mine Suit

After Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris heard most of the testimony in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday morning, the rival attorneys in a dispute over mine rights informed him after the lunch recess that an out-of-court settlement had been reached.

The suit was brought by Jesse Trimble, part owner of mineral rights in a Mt. Savage area mine, against George Bishields, Mt. Savage coal operator. Trimble is entitled to one-third of a seventh share in the mineral rights of the estate of the late George Thomas Trimble.

Representing Trimble was I. Duke Avnet, Baltimore and Cumberland attorney, while Edward J. Ryan was counsel for the defendant.

Trimble sued for one-twenty-first of the coal royalty profits from a mine leased to Bishields by the heirs of the George Thomas Trimble estate.

Avnet contended in his opening statement that he will prove that Maude Ryan and Mabel Harden, who comprise one-seventh of the Trimble heirs, did not sign the lease.

He also contended that Bishields has not complied with the terms of the lease which call for a seven and one-half per cent royalty on each ton of coal mined, with 25 cents a ton set as the minimum.

Avnet asked the court to derive a just sum for the royalties due Trimble and to enjoin Bishields from operating the mine.

City Begins Work On 1951 Tax Bills

The City Tax Collector's office is already busy at work preparing for issuing 1951 tax bills, George E. Davis, city tax collector, announced yesterday.

Although the statements will not go out until September, the staff of the office expects to be busy from now until close to the deadline.

The work includes making transfers of property from transcripts furnished by the county and of changing names of property owners on addressograph plates.

The final work cannot be done until the 1951 tax levy is set.

Potomac Park Election To Be Held In April

To Choose Members Citizens Committee

The annual election of the Citizens Committee of Potomac Park will be held in the Potomac Park Community building the first Monday in April.

The Citizens Committee supervises the money collected through taxation for the purpose of street lighting, water and fire protection of the special taxing area.

Persons wishing to register as candidates for offices on the Citizens Committee may register until March 30 on the area's election book which will be at the Potomac Park Grocery Store, according to Edward Shaffer, a member of the committee.

At the last election, held in April, 1950, 148 votes were cast, with 259 persons eligible.

The present Citizens Committee includes Alex Monnett, chairman; John S. Cook, Bruce Thompson, Charles Pfeiffer and Shaffer.

The Potomac Park taxing area was the first of its kind established in Allegany County.

In 1950, a tax of 20 cents on each $100 of assessable property provided $1,300 to meet the costs of the civic improvements.

Violence Erupts Anew In Preston Coal Fields

Caps, Powder Stolen From Area Magazine

Sheriff J. H. Benson of Preston County said last night that warrants for the arrest of pickets involved in the stoning of three cars and a pickup truck carrying miners to work Wednesday morning at 6:45 a. m. were being prepared and will be served today.

Sheriff Benson added that a magazine owned by Joseph Zuwoski was broken into early this week and a large amount of caps and dynamite stolen. It is located at the overhead bridge on Route 26 between Kingwood and Tunnelton. State Police are investigating the incident.

Windows were knocked out of the vehicles and one picket, Dexter Strawser, was arrested at the scene and brought to the Kingwood County Jail. No charges have been preferred.

Owners of the automobiles attacked during the early morning hours Wednesday belonged to Eli Christopher, Kingwood, Gale Williams, Tunnelton and W. D. Matheney, Kingwood, Route 1. The pickup truck was owned by Ralph Miller, Tunnelton.

The cars were stoned as the miners were going to work at the Raymond Hartman Mine on old Route 26, two miles south of Kingwood while the pickup was hit near Snyder's Crossing at the B and C Mine.

Sheriff Benson said someone with a high-powered rifle Tuesday shot several times at an $80,000 power shovel at the stripping operation of W. R. Shirley and Jay Simpson at Lenox. The motor, crankcase, cab and shovel housing were punctured by the shots. No arrests have been reported and the West Virginia State Police are continuing the investigation.

Approximately 30 to 35 carloard of pickets were out yesterday morning but no violence other than the stoning of the four vehicles was reported.
